Japan's Opportunity.
Hoover In Indiana.
The Tabulous Toad.
31 German Parties.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928.)

CHINA and Japan are at war, as much as a nation without a head, like China, can war with another.

China, murdering a few Japanese, gave Japan an opportunity to straighten out various matters, regardless of the League of Nations.

A WAR, big or little, can be useful, for it enables you to eliminate, with dignity, a decent regard for the opinions of mankind. "Can't you see I'm insulted?" asks the aggressive nation.

POOR harassed China may, in the end, be better off for the Japanese complication. It might arouse a sense of nationality in the Chinese, and end civil war.

In any case, Washington, please remember it is not our war. We did not start it.

WATSON counted more votes than Hoover, in Indiana. That means nothing to Watson. The question is: What, if anything, does it mean to Hoover?

HIGH finance, gleeful, or trying to be, says "Hoover is eliminated. He gets big votes in cities, but farmers will not vote for him."

Poor comfort. Some farmers prefer other candidates and will not vote for Hoover at the primaries. But will those Republican farmers, when Hoover is nominated, refuse to vote for him, and vote for a Democrat? They will NOT, and politicians know it.

GENTLEMEN that give odds on election betting should remember that, in reality, the vote in Indiana was a remarkable victory for Hoover. He showed extraordinary strength against a hostile machine more powerful than Tammany Hall.

THE New York Republican machine, not strong, unless Democrats, for their own reasons, give it a hand, will study the Indiana returns thoughtfully. They do not want Hoover, but they also do not want to be beaten.

In Hoover they have a fighter that wins, something they can't do usually. They cannot afford to disregard that fact.

A HORNED toad, known to newspaper readers as Rip Van Winkle, is supposed to have lived more than 30 years in a corner stone without air, water or food.

The toad has been seen by many, including the President. Some believe the yarn. The President has not committed himself. When the toad was placed on the President's desk neither said a word.

Now the toad's owner heightens interest, saying that in his dark, airless cornerstone the toad sat next to a Bible, and that noble book enabled him to hold out. Many will believe that. It is a credulous human race.

IN A few days Germany will elect a new Reichstag, and 31 different parties will fight for the seats. These include two Catholic, two Socialist, two Nationalist, three Communistic, and three anti-Semitic parties.

IN AMERICA we have only two parties that count, and our people can hardly keep track of them. Not ten in a hundred could tell what either wants or plans.

Fortunate the country with little political excitement. It is quiet, because it is doing well.

THE widow and daughter of Caruso visited his grave in Naples yesterday, and looked on his face, well preserved by the embalming process.

Where is the spirit that moulded the face, and where is the voice that delighted the world? Are they united in another world, or has the sum of Caruso consciousness gone back to a cosmic ocean of thought, as water goes back to the ocean of H2O.

MR. FIRESTONE, who makes tires and should know, says prices will drop 10 per cent. They may drop more, but don't wait. Spring, in the open air, is not a thing to be postponed.

SOME day some maker of tires, well known will sell his product by mail order, giving the consumer the benefit of the middleman's profit, now foolishly out of line. That tire maker will be the big tire maker.

MUSSOLINI says everything possible is being done to encourage study of English in Italy's schools. The Italian ruler knows that it is important to understand the language of those that have the money and the English-speaking races have it.

SLOWLY, English, modified through the centuries, more than it has been modified since Chaucer's day, will be the universal language. It is the best, because it is the most mixed, just as the most mixed races are the best.

The change, even outside of the semi-barbarous races, will take a long time, 10,000 years probably.

COURTROOM SEES BATTLE

Sixty-three, William R. Cole, 284 Journal street, attacked in Morals Court today a young Negro who confessed to attacking Cole's daughter, Mrs. Marie Stringert, 31, a widow. Police stopped Cole after he had struck the Negro. Mrs. Stringert (shown with her father) testified she was attacked and robbed on her way to drug store.

22 MORE IN VOTE NET

Twenty-two more election officials, six of them women, will be arrested on charges of conspiracy and misdemeanor arising from the vote count at the November election, Chief George W. Murren of the county detectives revealed today.

Acting on instructions from District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, Murren swore out informations against the latest crop of defendants before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan.

According to the Allegheny Elections Committee, which pushed prosecution of vote-cheaters, the official count showed that in the three Hill districts George B. Shields, defeated independent candidate for County Commissioner, had received several hundred extra votes at the expense of Candidates Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock.

Fifteen of the 22 named in the informations are from the Third Ward: Third District—Isaac Acle, William H. Gabriel, William Eassey, Michael Colosinno, John Martin; Eleventh District—Samuel Goldberg, Milton Zuelstein, Leonard Meyers, Thomas Metz, Max Lecuruthal; Twelfth District—Anthony Sibilia, Anthony Siano, Larry Green, Henry Silverstein, James Phillips; Twenty-second District, Eleventh Ward—J. B. Wall, Marie E. Schaefer, Lila M. Stein, Anabella W. Dias, Coletta Lauer, Clara J. Watson and Girtha F. Clark.

OHIO RIVER VICTIM IS MISSING CARNEGIE MAN

The body of George Dubel, 47, missing from his home in 211 Mansfield avenue, Carnegie, since March 27 was identified yesterday at Aliquippa, having been found in the river on April 23. Mrs. Tillie Dubel, wife of the victim identified the body by the clothing. Dubel leaves a widow and six children.

Attacker Beaten in Court

With fists clenched, William R. Cole, 63, of 284 Journal street, sprang at a young Negro and beat him in Morals Court this morning after the Negro had confessed attacking Cole's daughter, Mrs. Marie Stringert, 31, a widow, who resides with her father, Tuesday night. Police Inspector John P. Clancey halted the aged man's onslaught.

The Negro, Stanley Martin, 17, of 7 Janewood street, was held for court. He admitted that the testimony of Mrs. Stringert as to the attack, which occurred on the "Chicken Hill Steps," was correct.

ASK POWER QUIZ HERE

The Federal Trade Commission has been asked to investigate the sale of the Coraopolis municipal light plant to the Duquesne Light Company in its probe of the Power trust.

H. C. A. Hofacker, borough solicitor, in a letter laid before the commission details of the sale, made after citizens had by a six to one vote authorized a $250,000 bond issue to rehabilitate the plant.

The Duquesne Light Company which originally offered $125,000 for the plant paid $250,000, Solicitor Hofacker said, when six of the eight members of council abandoned the bond issue and ordered the plant sold.

"The sale resulted in four new

Freddy Fitzsimmons and his knuckle ball will be on exhibition at Forbes Field this afternoon as the New York Giants seek to take the third game of the series with the Pirates. Virgil Barnes showed the Buccos a lot of curves yesterday and the Giants won, 6 to 0.

In opposition to Fitzsimmons, Manager Donie Bush expects to have Remy Kremer in action, though a foot injury which caused Whiz to miss his regular turn on the hill yesterday may also keep him out of the action today. In the event that he does not start, Fred Fussell, the new southpaw purchased during the winter months, may get the call.

The Pirates are anxious to start another winning streak, their four-game one having been abruptly halted by the New Yorkers yesterday. Nothing would please them more than to start it at the expense of McGraw, and with this object in view, will make things exceedingly difficult for Freddy.

Mrs. Swanson died while being removed from the wrecked auto by members of the train crew. Specht was treated at the office of a Warren physician.

CLEVELAND, May 10.—The famous crew of the trans-Atlantic airship Bremen, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, Maj. James C. Fitzmaurice and Capt. The flight was uneventful, except for the bucking of slight headwinds, it was said. Ideal flying weather prevailed and a record crowd was on hand to extend greetings.

RECALL 90 TO SEW UP RUM RING PROBE

Probe of the North Side rum ring has been in preparation for a year, and the present grand jury investigation of an alleged moonshine monopoly was hastened by the wrath of bootleggers who have balked at paying enormous tribute demanded by police and politicians.

Such was the information coming today from Joseph A. Frayne, assistant prohibition administrator. The summoning of about 90 witnesses who testified in the past two days before the grand jury, to appear again for questioning, had given rise to the rumor that "some one had blundered" and that the probe might go by the board because of technical defects in the Federal conduct of the case.

Such allegations might be made, it was said, because of the detention of many of the 90 men and women brought into court on subpenas, who were detained in a room adjoining the office of United States District Attorney John D. Meyer, both before and after appearing before the grand jurors.

PRECAUTION

Rather than have possible indictments voided through any procedure that might be attacked in court on technical grounds, the recall is looked upon as merely a precautionary measure. The Federal attorney will, it is believed, have witnesses repeat testimony they have already given, or affirm their previous statements. They may be asked if any coercion was used in having them testify for the government.

The importance of the investigation was emphasized today when, it was learned unofficially, the grand jury will hardly be in a position to act on possible indictments before Monday. Besides the repeat witnesses, still others will be called before the jury with evidence which the government attorneys feel will strengthen the federal case.

The corraling of witnesses and holding them in a room, with prohibition agents standing guard at the doors, was an entirely new procedure in the Federal District Court. Yesterday it was a matter of much comment by attorneys and others, some of whom question the right of the government officers in detaining witnesses in this manner.

In admitting that preparations for the probe have been under way for more than a year, Mr. Frayne said it has been accelerated by the animosity against the political and police authorities on the North Side that was aroused in bootleggers, for whom life had been made unpleasant because they did not buy their

Carved Idols Found Upon Body at Sea

Their schooner becalmed off Singapore, Capt. Scarface Sweeney and Marlow, his mate, discovered what appeared to be a bit of wreckage floating near their ship. Investigation revealed a frail bark freighted with the body of a dead man who evidently had met with foul play. Scarface recognized the body as that of Tom Kingsley, an old friend and daring adventurer. Two handsomely carved ivory idols were found in the victim's pockets.

From this incident action moves swiftly and with many thrilling episodes in this romance of tropic lands and azure seas. It has magic in every line of its gripping plot and breathes heart-stirring adventure. On the two ivory effigies hangs the fate of Verna Lyle, lovely maiden whose destiny takes her to the southern seas. Yes, it is a story—but a piece of fiction such as has never before been conceived by writers who have taken the mysterious East for scenes and plots of their novels.

It is a story of contrasts—Scarface, Kingsley and Verna Lyle—grim, loving and loveable, but with masculine adventure and enthralling mystery in every chapter. "Two Stolen Idols" is its title and it begins in the Sun-Telegraph on Monday. Its author, Frank L. Packard, noted author of mystery stories, has done nothing that surpasses "Two Stolen Idols." Watch for it in the Sun-Tele Monday.

BUT POTATOES ARE ELECTRICALLY "MASHED"

The meeting house of Colonial times was drawn upon for the lines of the new Glenshaw Presbyterian Church, to be dedicated Sunday. The pillared portico and spire uncommon in this section are the usual style of architecture in New England. The Yankee housewife, however, never had the conveniences in her kitchen that the culinary experts of the Glenshaw congregation have in the new church kitchen. When it comes to serving strawberry short cake, Mesdames E. A. Reineman, Alex Martin, Floyd Coons, H. L. Gass, C. H. Holliday and C. L. Coburn know how. The Rev. R. F. Young, pastor, testifies to the fluffiness of mashed potatoes, turned out with the electric whipper, by Mesdames Charles Kay, H. J. Zerkins, C. R. English, A. A. Black, Charles Keim and M. C. Smith.

TWO BEAT, ROB WATCHMAN

Robbed of his blackjack, keys, revolver and $2, Jacob Speer, 50, produce watchman, of 1931 Webster avenue, was handcuffed to a pole at Mulberry way and Seventeenth street early today. A white man and a Negro, who seized him while he was making his rounds, kicked and beat him before they fled.

Pedestrians discovered Speer lying beside the pole, called police who carried him to a nearby physician's office.

This morning's attack on the watchman was the second within the last two years. On the first occasion he was slugged by two thugs who evidently had intended to rob a produce store of the district.

DID "POWER TRUST" GOBBLE THIS?

THIRTY YEARS OLD

An initial investment of $15,000 30 years ago started this electric light plant in Coraopolis on its way to an annual revenue of $50,000 before the Duquesne Light Company took it over. H. C. A. Hofacker, borough solicitor, wants the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the sale of the plant for $250,000, twice what the company first offered, after residents had authorized a bond issue of $250,000 for the plant's rehabilitation. Cutting off the plant's revenue, Hofacker says, resulted in a 50 per cent increase in taxes. He claims the plant was worth at least $400,000. Revelations of the workings of the "Power Trust" are responsible for the move to investigate the sale.

STEWART MAY DEFY ORDER TO RESIGN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 10.—The demand of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., that Col. R. W. Stewart resign from his post as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, was viewed by financial leaders in Wall Street today as the first move by the Rockefellers in a campaign to regain the position of leadership in companies formerly dominated by them. Furthermore, doubts were expressed that Rockefeller would be able to oust Stewart, because the latter has a strong following in the street.

In a statement issued here, Rockefeller requested Col. Stewart's resignation because of his recent testimony before the Senate Public Lands Committee in the Teapot Dome inquiry. The oil magnate declared he "had lost confidence in Col. Stewart's leadership." The request for the resignation was based on Stewart's admission to the Teapot Dome committee that he had shared in the Continental Trading Company's fund to the extent of $759,000.

ANSWER PROMISED

An answer by Stewart to Rockefeller's ultimatum was promised today at his office in Chicago. Although the Colonel assured Rockefeller several weeks ago that he would resign if the latter should so request, it is believed in Wall street that Stewart may decide to let the stockholders in the Indiana company decide the matter. The Rockefellers control only 25 per cent of the stock of the Indiana company.

Such a contest would be the first test of strength of the Rockefeller interests since the Standard Oil trust was broken up in 1911. Although the Rockefellers do not attempt to dictate to oil companies in which they are interested, resistance by Stewart's supporters in this instance probably would incite the Rockefellers to establish their dominance over the Indiana Company, in the view of Wall Street.

WRITES SECOND LETTER

"On April 20, I wrote again as follows:

"'Dear Col. Stewart:

"'Mr. Seubert has told me that in the course of the conversation you had with him after the receipt of my leter to you of the 27th instant, mention was made as to the possibility of a special meeting of the stockholders of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana being called so that they all might have an opportunity to express themselves in regard to your suggested resignation. If this plan is to be followed I have no doubt you will have the 30-day call issued at once and that you will wish to write me that this has been done.

members being elected to councill at the following election," he says.

PLANT EARNED PROFIT

"The sale of the plant, which showed a net profit of $50,000 annually, has resulted in raising taxes 50 per cent," said Solicitor Hofacker. "Borough millage has been raised from 10 to 14 mills, and the water rate has been increased, the electric plant previously having furnished free power to the water plant."

"The plant, built in 1898, for $15,000, was enlarged and increased out of profits, and was always able to furnish sufficient service until the three-year period beginning in 1922, when on account of much new construction it became overloaded. About that time Council began letting the plant run down and would not furnish enough money for repairs," said the borough attorney.

PEOPLE VOTE FUNDS

"It was finally put up to the voters, in the form of a bond issue which carried, the alternative being sale of the plant. Within two months after the passage of the bond issue, Council, in January, 1927, began negotiations for the sale of the plant which was completed two months later.

"Mass meetings opposing the sale were held, but sufficient funds to make a fight before the Public Service Commission could not be raised. Citizens contended that the plant was worth at least $400,000, while a sale appraisement, based on the plant's earning power was fixed at $1,000,000," said Mr. Hofacker.

$103,310 "WAR CHEST" FOR SMITH BARED

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP.)—Facing the United States Senate campaign inquisitors for half an hour today, Gov. Alfred E. Smith testified that he knew nothing about the financing of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

However, his campaign manager, George R. Van Namee, told the Senators that $103,310 had been received by the New York organization for the governor and $92,000 had been expended.

William F. Kenny, a New York paving and gas main contractor, put up $70,000 of the total receipts, Van Namee said, $20,000 in outright gifts and $50,000 in loans which are yet to be paid.

The heaviest expenditure was made in California where Gov. Smith recently ran far ahead of Senators Reed of Missouri and Walsh of Montana in the Democratic presidential preference primary. A total of $41,500 was sent into that state, [illegible] which $8,500 subsequently was returned.

Van Namee said that he understood that the local Smith organization in that state raised between $2,300 and $2,400.

In addition, $5,000 was sent to Joseph F. Guffey of Pittsburgh, Democratic national committeeman for Pennsylvania, for use in the primary in that state. The Smith organization [illegible]nesota got $1,200; that in North Dakota got $1,500 and that in Maine received $1,000.

The Smith manager, who is a member of the New York Public Service Commission, testified that no money had been spent in the southern or border states. Seven thousand dollars was sent into the Far West for use in Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho.

He had the "lucky tickets," but when he presented them to receive $1,200 the sponsors wouldn't pay, he says. A fight ensued and Simpson, A. H. Hunter and Robert Jones, also Negroes, alleges backers of the pool, of 221 Sixth avenue, were arrested. They told Homestead police the "higher ups" were Gus Green and William Harris, Negroes, 1221 Wylie avenue, Pittsburgh.

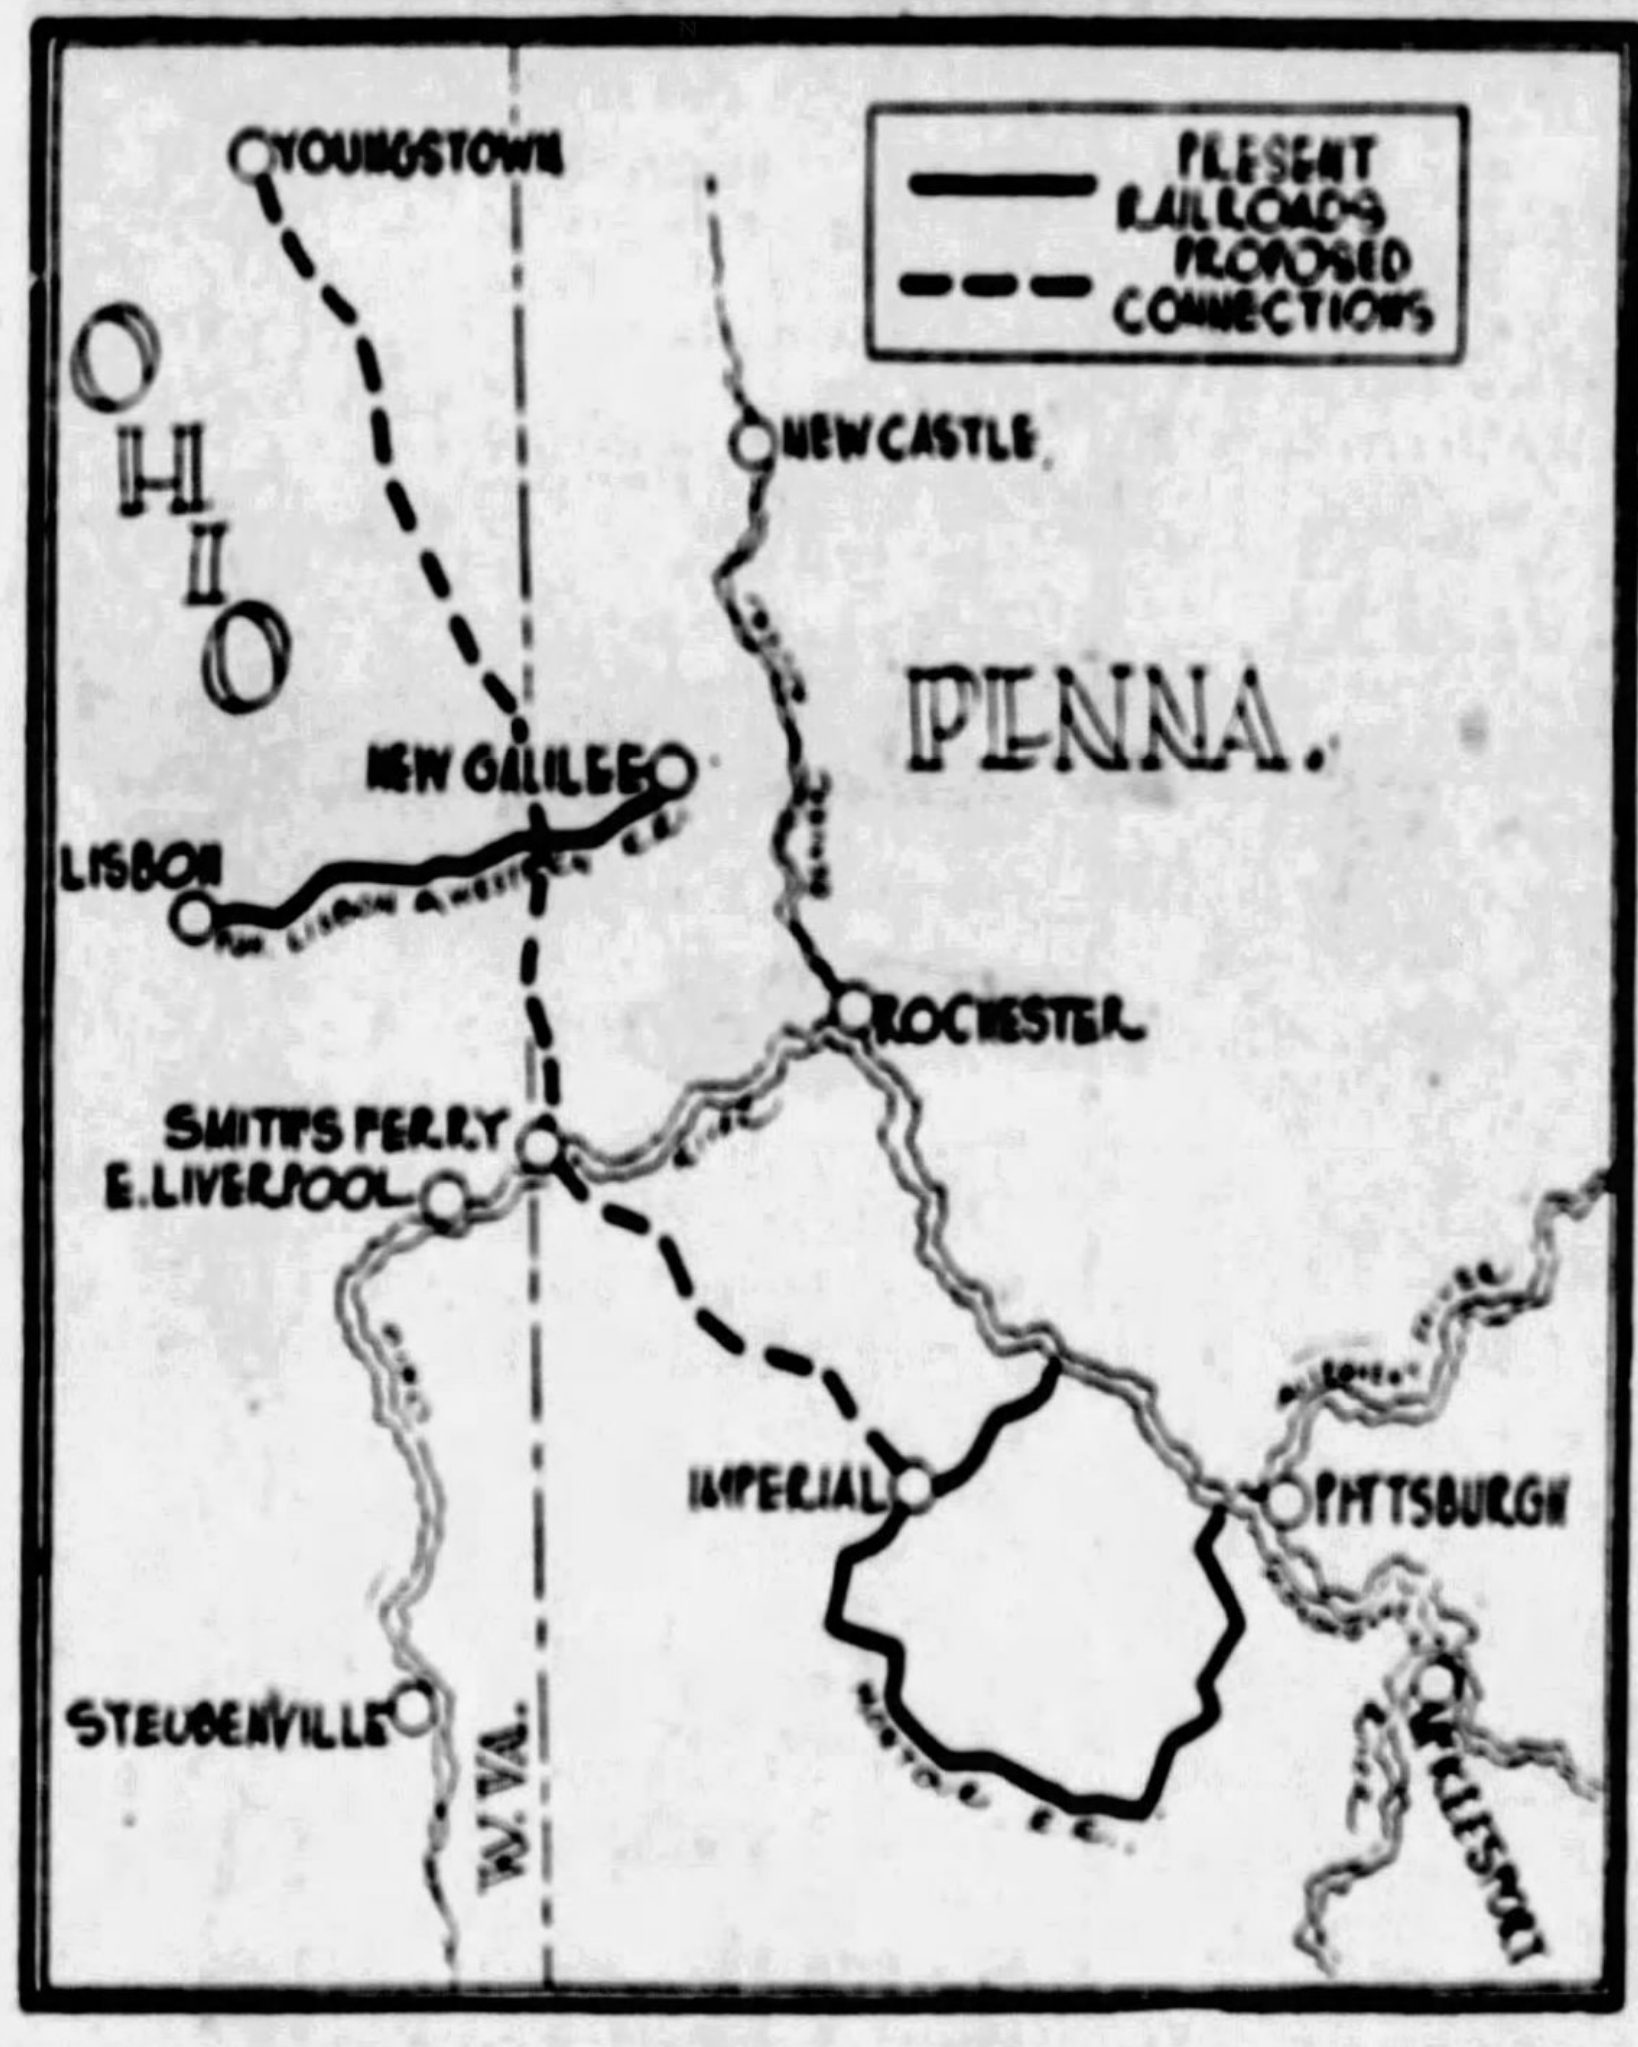
"LAKE CARGO" ROUTE



THE PITTSBURGH-LAKES COAL ROUTE

In getting a controlling interest in the Pittsburgh, Lisbon and Western railroad between Lisbon, O., and New Gallilee, Pa., the Pittsburgh Coal Company, by building a connecting link between Smith's Ferry and Youngstown, would have its own shipping route between the Pittsburgh district mines and Youngstown. It could compete with Pittsburgh rail lines in shipping by water to Smith's Ferry and thence over its own railroad, obtaining also a low rate to Conneaut and Ashtabula for the lake cargo trade. An all-rail route in contemplation in connection with the scheme is an extension of the Montour Railroad to Smith's Ferry.

MRS. WOOD WINS IN 14TH WARD "UPSET"

Entering the race as a surprise candidate, Mrs. Eric Fisher Wood stepped into the political limelight when she won the vice chairmanship of the Fourteenth Ward Republican Committee at the meeting last night in Wightman School, defeating Mrs. Mary Finley who has held the office since women were granted the suffrage.

The victory of Mrs. Wood, who is the wife of Col. Wood, chairman of the executive committee of the Republican state committee, was only one of the features of the 50 ward meetings last night. Another was the sweeping victory of J. Scott Morgan over Charles E. Hillegas, head of the bureau of highways and sewers, for the Thirteenth Ward chairmanship.

In addition to the battles in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Wards, there were three other warm fights. Owen McManus won the chairmanship of the Second over P. J. O Malley by a vote of 28 to 16, the Kenna-Anderson forces holding the balance of power, swinging to McManus. W. Noble Matthews was re-elected Ninth Ward chairman, getting 43 votes to 35 for F. T. Holleran. This is said to be the first fight of its kind in the Ninth Ward for more than a score of years.

CHEATING CHARGED

The result of the Twenty-ninth Ward battle is in dispute. At the regular meeting Fred A. Sacher was re-elected by vote announced as 33 to 31. Friends of his opponent, William Crow, charged "cheating" and held a rump session at which W. Harry Close presided. The last named took his supporters before a notary public and had them swear to their votes. The question apparently is which faction will be recognized by the chairman of the city committee. There was considerable disorder at these meetings.

The victory of Mrs. Wood was not the only surprise at the Fourteenth ward gathering. Albert Hirsch appeared as a surprise candidate against Sylvester Bierman, seeking re-election as secretary. Bierman won 62 to 56. Edward B. Friebertshauser was re-elected chairman without opposition.

The much-advertised battle in the Twenty-eighth ward was a dud. Boyd Birch was re-elected chairman with only five votes against him. In the Nineteenth ward there was a peaceful meeting for the first time in 20 years, Samuel J. Reno being re-elected chairman unanimously. In the Eighth ward Roy D. Schooley was unanimously elected for his seventh term, while the opposition to Francis E. Kirley in the Sixteenth failed to materialize.

The only feature on the North Side was the substitution of Alderman Samuel Abernathy for Chris McCormick as secretary of the Twenty-second ward committee.

The city administration suffered a crushing defeat in the Thirteenth. Morgan beat Hillegas 82 votes to 50 in spite of the efforts of Mayor Charles H. Kline to aid the latter. Two police lieutenants and a squad of men barred the public from this meeting, which was held in the Homewood Carnegie Library. The entire Morgan slate of officers was elected, Mrs. Ida R. Cook being named vice chairman in place of Mrs. Katherine McConaghey.

ELECTION RESULTS

The results of last night's ward elections follow:

U. S. ENVOY FIRED ON IN CHINA

TSINGTAO, China, May 10.—(AP.)—Having run a gauntlet of Chinese fire, Americans fleeing from embattled Tsinan were safe at Tsingtao today. All Americans in the war zone were believed to be safe as the Japanese troops continued their battle to disarm the Chinese Nationalists and drive them from the zone outlined in the Japanese ultimatum.

United States Consul Price at Tsinan was under fire yesterday, the refugees said, as he was taking them to the international train. This train flying the American, British and Japanese flags was fired upon by the Nationalists as it came from Tsinan, the Chinese attempting to pick off the Japanese guards.

The Japanese first bombarded Tsinan on Tuesday afternoon using three-inch guns, mortars and machine guns to drive out the Nationalists who refused to withdraw.

"NO MEDIATION"

TOKIO, May 10.—(AP.)—Japanese troops today continued to battle against the Chinese Nationalists around Tsinan in an attempt to disarm them and it was stated unofficially in government circles that Japan would neither ask nor accept mediation in the Shantung affair.

U. S. Steel Tonnage Drops

NEW YORK, May 10.—(INS.)—Unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation decreased 463,073 tons in April, the corporation announced today. Forward orders on April 30 amounted to 3,872,133 tons against 4,335,206 tons on March 31 and 4,398,189 tons on February 29.

A sharp contraction in unfilled tonnage figures had been expected in financial circles following a slackening of new buying and a stepping down of operations to around 90 per cent of capacity.

Pittsburgh As Others See Us

—OLGA PETROVA.

OLGA PETROVA

OLGA PETROVA, actress, was born in Warsaw, Poland, and was educated in Paris, Brussels and London. Made her stage debut in Shakespearean drama. Came to America in 1911. Is best known, perhaps, as a motion picture star, but also, author of successful plays and scenarios and has written popular short stories. Lives in New York City.

I'm afraid I'm very ignorant as to Pittsburgh's artistic standing in so far as the world is concerned.

I can only say that on the occasions that I have had the great pleasure of being a stranger within her gates she has proved a most sympathetic, understanding and generous hostess.

I look forward always with keen anticipation to visiting her again,

Olga Petrova

UPSETS 14th WARD

MRS. ERIC FISHER WOOD

Mrs. Mary Finley, whom she defeated, has held the office ever since women were granted suffrage.

HOSPITAL SUES TO GET $5,000 PROMISED GIFT

A suit likely to attract wide attention of hospital and other organizations which collect funds through subscription drives, was entered before Judge Josiah Cohen in Common Pleas Court yesterday by Montifiore Hospital. The hospital sued Harry Dorfman for $5,000 said to have been pledged during a building fund campaign conducted by the hospital in 1924.

Attorneys Sachs and Caplan, representing the hospital, cite that $2,200,000 was raised in the campaign.

Dorfman is alleged to have given a written subscription for $5,000 on May 14, 1924, in which he is said to have agreed to pay the amount in six installments within a period of three years. It is charged that he has not paid any part of the amount, although repeated demands were made upon him for it. The total payment was due in May of last year.

Hospital officials say that, relying upon payment of this and all other subscriptions, they purchased a site for a new hospital at Fifth avenue and Darragh street for $364,000, let the contract for the new hospital for $1,827,367 and that the balance of a little over $108,000 subscribed will be needed for equipment.

Damage $600,000 -:- AS FLAMES SWEEP DOWNTOWN OIL CITY -:- Families Flee

MASSED FIRE FIGHTERS

SAVING SAFE

Firemen of three towns fought the $350,000 to $600,000 Oil City fire, the worst there in 30 years, today to save a safe said to contain $200,000 in securities in the Leedom Wholesale Grocery Company (above). The whole battle lasted three hours before the fire was under control.

GAUNT RUINS

SALVATION ARMY

The Salvation Army building was practically wiped out by the blaze. Above is a view of the back, showing extent of the damage. To the right can be seen the skeleton ruins of the Borland Lumber Company, which suffered heavy damage. Flames sweeping the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks delayed trains.

FAMILIES FLEE

Families living in apartments above some of the business houses destroyed fled the flames. Household goods of refugees were piled in the streets. Fire narrowly escaped injury in the blaze when the Leedom Building, loss estimated at $300,000 for the new structure, crashed. An entire business block was threatened.

SUSPENDS CLASSES FOR M'CORMICK MEMORIAL

Memorial services for the late Dr. Samuel Black McCormick, former chancellor of University of Pittsburgh, will be held at 10:15 a. m. tomorrow in Memorial Hall. Speakers will be Dr. Hugh T. Kerr, pastor of Shadyside Presbyterian Church; Dr. W. J. Holland, director emeritus of Carnegie Museum, and W. C. Arthur, chairman of Pitt's Alumni Council. Classes will be suspended during services.

$600,000 OIL CITY FIRE

BUSINESS BLOCK RAZED BY FLAMES

OIL CITY, Pa., May 10.—Loss estimated at from $550,000 to $600,000 was caused by a fire which wiped out a block in the business district here this morning.

Firemen of Oil City, Franklin and Titusville subdued the blaze, the most disastrous here in 30 years, after a six-hour battle.

Starting in the Duffee feed store, Elm street, at 5:30 a. m., the fire spread to adjoining buildings. Principal losses were suffered by Duffee, Borland Lumber Company, offices and shops, and the Leedom Wholesale Grocery Company, new three-story building and contents. The Leedom loss is estimated at $300,000.

A double frame dwelling, barracks of the Salvation Army and Moore's ice cream plant were damaged.

Firemen fought to prevent destruction of a safe in the Leedom building, said to contain $200,000 in securities.

Firemen escaped injury when a cornice of the Leedom building crashed. Pennsylvania Railroad trains were delayed as flames sewpt the tracks.

CLOSE FIGURING SAVES $.00002

Fine figuring was done by Capt. Cedric Benz, county purchasing agent, before he recommended that the Peoples Service Station be awarded the contract for supplying motor oil for the county for the year.

Looking over the bids, county commissioners found that three oil companies had submitted the same price.

"Why recommend the Peoples Service Station?" Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong asked. "Its price is the same as three others."

"Well, I carried the figures out and found that the Peoples Service Station's price was $.00002 lower than the competitors," Capt. Benz replied.

"Was your father a Scotchman?" Commissioner Armstrong asked. The Service Station concern was awarded the contract.

FIND MAN'S BODY IN FIRE RUINS

ERIE, Pa., May 10.—The charred body of John Gerely, 40, was found late yesterday in the ruins of a barn of the Erie Forge Company, destroyed by fire Sunday night. It is believed the man was overcome while sleeping in the barn. Search of the ruins was started when Gerety was reported missing from home yesterday.

ELK COUNTY FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

RIDGWAY, Pa., May 10.—Three forest fires which have devasted hundreds of acres of forest land in Elk county, were believed under control late last night. More than 500 volunteers have been fighting the fires, which for a time threatened to communicate to residential settlements.

FOOT GOES THROUGH WALK; ASKS $20,000

Lincoln Blackwell, 10, through his father, James Blackwell, brought suit for $20,000 damages against the borough of Wall in Common Pleas Court yesterday. The boy alleges that while on his way to the Wall public school his right foot went through a rotted plank in a boardwalk in front of the school. He says that not only was his leg badly hurt above the knee, but his spine was twisted, causing permanent injuries.

5 STILLS SEIZED BY RAIDERS

Federal prohibition agents continue their policy of raiding within city limits. They seized five stills yesterday, besides other captures, arresting 11 persons.

Becoming suspicious when they saw an automobile stop in front of the saloon at 3023 Preble avenue, last night, prohibition agents investigated and discovered, they say, a gallon of wine in the car. Giorlando Falcorri, 44, of Bellevue, and Carl Negro, 38, of 3148 McClure avenue, occupants of the machine, were arrested. Agents entered the saloon and arrested Frank Otomoizer, 24, the alleged proprietor. Six gallons of whisky and a quart of wine were found in the place, according to the agents.

Other raids made, seizures and those arrested, according to agents, follow:

Dwelling, 29 Tecumse street, 100-gallon still, 35 barrels mash, 60 gallons moonshine.

Barber shop, 105 Larimer avenue, 50-gallon still, 15 barrels mash, in basement; 50 pints whisky, M. C. Butler, Negro.

RECALL 90 IN PROBE

liquor from the wholesale dealers the police told them to patronize.

Some of the bootleggers that "cheated"—that is, bought their "moonshine" from other distillers than those controlled by the ring—were forbidden by the police, Frayne said, not merely to do business, but even to set foot in the North Side. They were exiled from that section for failure to obey the ring's orders, the assistant prohibition administrator declared.

FEUD REVEALED

Frayne was found in the hall just outside the Federal grand jury room and asked the pointblank question if the probe had resulted from revelations of A. J. Berkowitz.

The North Side police made a raid on Berkowitz's place at 3045 Preble avenue on April 24, and subsequently Inspector of Police Charles Faulkner furnished information on which Maj. Robert M. Ewing, special deputy attorney general in charge of state enforcement of the liquor law, asked that Berkowitz be held for contempt of court. The proceedings were based on the fact that Berkowitz's place was "padlocked" by injunction last July. The contempt action was instituted in Common Pleas Court.

A ballot box used in the election last fall was found in Berkowitz's barroom by Maj. Ewing. Political "literature" indicating that the place had been used as a "hangout" for politicians, also was found, as well as a quantity of liquor, a beer pump and a newly-made whisky vault.

The report has been circulated that Berkowitz, in revenge for the police activities, "spilled the beans" by informing the Federal authorities of the activities of the rum ring.

"ONE OF MANY"

Frayne said Berkowitz had been only one of a number of alleged bootleggers who had testified against the police and their politician accomplices. He added that he was so uncertain of Berkowitz's willingness to testify that in order to make sure of his testimony he caused the first subpena issued in the inquiry to be served on him.

Maj. Ewing said the Berkowitz case was the first he had conducted in which he had had the assistance of the police, and he thought their activity in that case was probably not without significance.

CONSTIPATION PREYS ON HEALTH

You can overcome it with ALL-BRAN

If you are troubled with constipation, read Mrs. Hogan's letter below. It came to us unsolicited—a message of relief to every sufferer:

February 12, 1927

"I want to tell you how much good your ALL-BRAN has done me. It surely can't be beat for constipation. I have tried every kind of medicine and never in my whole life have been relieved until one of my neighbors told me to try bran. So I bought a box and read about your ALL-BRAN and thought I would see what it would do—and it surely did help me. I will never be without it in the house again."

Mrs. Joseph Hogan,
1215 Clay St., Topeka, Kansas.

Constipation is almost universal. The cause of more than forty diseases. Dizziness, aching backs, circled eyes, bad complexions, are only a few of its symptoms.

Guard against it. Start tomorrow eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it.

200 SUBSCRIBE $150,000 FOR NEW BANK

When the subscription lists were opened for the proposed new Italian consolidated bank, at a meeting of 200 interested Italian business and professional men in Hotel Schenley last night, $150,000 was subscribed within a few minutes. The meeting was held to outline the stock selling drive which formally begins today.

William P. Ortale, banker and business man, who presided, said a name for the bank would be selected at a later gathering. The bank will have not less than $200,000 capital stock and not more than $500,000. The shares are $65 each of $50 par value. Of this sum, $50 of each share will represent capital, $10 will go to surplus and $5 for the purchase of the necessary equipment.

The Pennsylvania Trust Company is the trustee and all stock subscriptions will be [illegible] institution. No single individual, pending the organization of the bank, will be permitted to subscribe for more than 200 shares of stock.

There are more than 100,000 Italians in the Pittsburgh district, it was stated, with Pittsburgh ranking fifth as a banking center. The Greater Pittsburgh area has more than 300 banks and trust companies and it is felt that the new institution can be made one of the city's strongest.

The remarkable growth of the Bank of Italy of California, originally capitalized at only $150,000, is touched upon in the official folders which were presented to team workers, who were instructed in their duties, last night, there being 25 teams without five to the team.

NAME EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The executive committee handling the bank's organization is composed of William P. Ortale, chairman; G. A. Pivirotto, vice chairman; Nunio Battaglia, D. Carapellucci, Joseph A. Rossi, A. Iacovetti, Girard M. Sisca, S. Sunseri and John H. Scott, general counsel. The advisory committee is made up of John A. Fugassi, Donato Ardolino, Andre E. Foye, Charles J. Margiotti, M. A. Musmanno and J. J. Verona.

Mr. Foye, who is president of the Bankers' Commercial Discount Corporation, and has had had much experience in banking, made a short talk at last night's gathering. He said the articles of agreement under which the institution is being started, are fair and that he believes the bank will succeed. Many leading Italians make up the general committee assisting in the bank's organization. The new institution is being organized with the approval of the state banking commissioner.

No one is safe!

Scrubwoman or sportswoman—golfer or miner—every one of us may offend unknowingly

Body odor inexcusable ... why risk it when it's now so easily prevented?

BODY ODOR is almost a sin—socially. It is never forgiven.

But unpardonable as body odor is—no one is safe from it. We all perspire—it's natural, necessary. Even on cool days, our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of odor-causing waste every 24 hours.

The victims don't know

Since our own sense of smell cannot detect a familiar odor, we never know when we offend—but others do.

So, to avoid any chance of embarrassment, millions now use this delightful toilet soap—Lifebuoy. Just wash and bathe regularly with Lifebuoy—it purifies and deodorizes pores—prevents body odor.

Health, too, is better guarded by Lifebuoy's bland and abundant antiseptic lather—it removes germs. Complexions are kept glowingly fresh and clear.

Note its clean scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies. It quickly evaporates after rinsing. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

BANKER FOILS ABDUCTOR; SCIENTIST SLUGGED

DEMOCRATS' CONVENTION HALL RISES

This is a rear view of the convention hall fast going up for the Democrats' presidential convention in Houston (Tex.), starting June 25. In this hall Gov. Al Smith, of New York, will be nominated—or else.

TWO ATTACKED IN ROAD AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP.)—Washington and Maryland police were co-operating in a widespread search today for a youth believed to have been responsible for an attack last night on Leonard W. Kephart, Department of Agriculture scientist, and an attempt to abduct E. Percival Wilson, bank official.

Kephart, left unconscious and stripped of most of his clothing after the attack, turned up later for treatment in Soldiers' Home Hospital and this morning was taken to his home in nearby Takoma Park, Md.

Wilson frustrated his captor's efforts, whatever they may have been, by attacking him and gaining possession of his pistol after the man had driven him a mile away from the rear of his home in nearby Chevy Chase, Md. Wilson is secretary of the National Savings and Trust Company, of this city.

Police believe the same man was responsible for both the attack and the strange holdup of Wilson because Kephart's automobile was used to spirit the bank official away.

It was first thought that Kephart, an agronomist in clover investigations, possibly had been killed, as a second pistol, with one cartridge exploded, was found in the automobile used by Wilson's abductor after the bank official seized another from the man.

Kephart told police that while driving through Soldiers' Home grounds he was stopped by a man who appeared to be sick. Asking him what he wanted, the man pulled something from his pocket and struck Kephart over the head, rendering him unconscious.

Regaining consciousness, the scientist found his trousers and shoes gone and a severe cut on his head. His automobile also had been taken.

All this information came to the police after Wilson had reported his experience. The banker said he was about to leave his garage about 10:30 o'clock last night when a man, about 25 years old, pressed a pistol in his ribs and ordered him to get in his car.

They drove about a mile down Connecticut avenue, during which, Wilson said, he was forced to kneel down in the car. Believing the man wanted money, Wilson said he volunteered what funds he had, but the man refused, saying:

"This is going to be something new."

Stopping the car at the lake, the man ordered Wilson to get out after doing so himself, whereupon the bank official, so he told the authorities, screamed for help, attacked the man and wrenched the pistol and a holster away from him. The man ran down the road and jumped on the running board of an automobile traveling toward Washington. Wilson later met two Montgomery county (Md.) officers, told them his story and gave them the pistol he had seized. Ownership of the car was traced to Kephart through the license plate.

JURY FREES DRIVER IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Charged with running down a number of persons at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street, Simon Zaferson, of 910 Madison avenue, North Side, was acquitted of two charges of aggravated assault and battery in Criminal Court before Judge H. H. Rowand yesterday. The jury ordered the defendant to pay the costs. He was accused of driving his truck past a stop sign January 18, and striking pedestrians crossing Smithfield street, injuring Margaret Nemeth and Margaret Fekete, of Hazelwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Ignace Szranowski, of Carnegie. The defendant claimed that his brakes failed.

More Charm—no blemishes now

Underneath a clear, smooth skin, healthy tissues—full of rich, red blood—thrive.

No worry about pimples now. Instead there is a certain satisfaction that gives confidence.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's way of building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

S.S.S.

"Thanks to S.S.S., I got rid of pimples and blackheads. My face now has a smooth feeling. I think S.S.S. does many wonders for the system. Besides giving me a clear complexion, it gave me a healthful look."—Miss Angela Annunzio, 1007 S. Racine Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WILSON A. SHAW, PITTSBURGH BANK HEAD, DIES

AGED FINANCIER WAS LEADER IN COMMUNITY

Wilson A. Shaw, 82, vice president and chairman of the board of the Bank of Pittsburgh and well-known in banking circles here, died early this morning at his home, 520 Pine avenue, Sewickley. Besides being connected with the Bank of Pittsburgh, he also was chairman of the board of the Fidelity Title and Trust Company and honorary president of the Associated Charities.

Mr. Shaw was born in Glenshaw and was a life-long resident of the Pittsburgh district. He was an elder in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church and was a member of the Duquesne Club and the Edgeworth Club, Sewickley. He leaves a sister, Mrs. William O. Campbell; three nieces, and a nephew.

ARCHITECTS APPOINT CONVENTION DELEGATES

The American Institute of Architects will hold their sixty-first annual convention at St. Louis, Mo., May 16, 17 and 18. The Pittsburgh chapter of the A. I. A. has elected Messrs. Thomas Ludlow, Lawrence Wofe, Jr., Edward J. Weber, Sydney Heckert, Jr., Lamont Button and M. Nirdlinger as delegates.

300 Hogs Upheld As Garbage Disposers

David H. Chambers' 300 hogs can continue to eat Wilmerding garbage. Judge James H. Gray of Common Pleas Court handed down a decision which in effect means just that.

S. T. Barnes and other taxpayers sought to enjoin the Borough Council from entering into a garbage removal contract for 1928 and 1929. Chambers had the contract for last year. Complaint was made that Chambers was not the lowest bidder, but the court decided that the borough councilmen did not abuse their discretion in letting the contract to Chambers, who maintains hogs which are worked in eight-hour shifts to consume the garbage.

ORDER WATER LINES TO PARK

County Commissioners yesterday authorized the county law department to draw up an agreement between the county and South Pittsburgh Water Company, for the extension of a water line to the property line of South Park.

With plans for extensive improvements formulated, the park property is without water supply. The line will extend from Broughton to the park line a distance of 2,450 feet. Later the line will be further extended throughout the park area to supply proposed swimming pools, lagoons and lakes.

Loop-the-Loop Bars Field to Acosta

CHICAGO, May 10.—(AP.)—Bert Acosta, trans-Atlantic flier, today was barred for 10 days from the use of the Chicago municipal airport.

Action by John Casey, superintendent of the field came after Acosta had completed a loop-the-loop, dipping so close to the field that his wheels nearly touched, and had executed a series of sharp banks 100 feet in the air.

Alarmed by the risk of a crash with other airplanes using the field, Casey signalled Acosta down.

Acosta laughed as he pleaded violation of the rules and accepted his suspension good naturedly.

WOMEN TO SHOW RARE ANTIQUES

Books, engravings, clocks and articles of furniture of every sort that filled the homes of the early settlers of Upper St. Clair and Bethel townships have been collected by the St. Clair Women's Club and will be exhibited in an antique show Friday night at the home of Mrs. Ernest C. Irwin, Brookside Farms.

Many of the articles are from 150 to 200 years old and have been gathered from all parts of the country to supplement the display of local relics.

Wearing apparel that belonged to the belles of 100 years ago in Pittsburgh and Southern Allegheny county includes a collection of shawls, hats and bonnets of every decade from 1800 to 1910; silk and satin gowns, dolmans, muffs, sunshades and slippers of the ancient days.

Spinning wheels, reels, wood fire kitchen utensils, homemade sausage grinders, andirons, etc., are included, as well as old firearms, powder horns and swords used by soldiers long since passed away.

Copies of the original patents to settlers' lands, curious old maps and the voting list of St. Clair township in 1824 are in the exhibit.

CRASHED FLIER AIMED AT ROME

THOMAS KILLED HIDING HOP SECRET

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP.)—Lieut. Royal V. Thomas, former army flier who crashed to his death at Teterboro airport in New Jersey yesterday, was killed in the first of two plane tests in preparation for a secret flight to Rome next week, Harry A. Bruno, the airman's representative, disclosed last night.

Thomas had pledged all his friends to secrecy on his plans, Bruno said, and the confidence was not broken until friends heard of his death.

Jackson Martindell, a broker, was said to be backing the venture.

TETERBORO AIRPORT, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., May 10.—(AP.)—The career of Royal V. Thomas, whose efforts in the cause of aviation have blazed his name on the roster of great fliers was ended in instant death in the crash of his Bellanca monoplane "Reliance." With him died Vaughn Weathersley, mechanic in the employ of the Wright aeronautical corporation.

It was in the Reliance, after near tragedy in the take-off, that Thomas set a solo endurance record at Roosevelt Field, N. Y. last week, by staying in the air for 35 hours, 24 minutes and 59 seconds.

Exactly what caused the plane to crash was not learned. Some witnesses said one of the wings crumbled as Thomas banked sharply to turn at an altitude of several hundred feet, while others believed they heard an explosion before the fall. The plane struck on the fairway of the Teterboro Golf Club course, crashing into a culvert used to drain water.

ALLEGHENY GENERAL EXERCISES TUESDAY

Commencement exercises for graduates of the Allegheny General Hospital School of Nursing will be held Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. in the First United Presbyterian Church. A reception will follow in the nurses' home, Sandusky street.

12-MONTH HONEYMOON!

VISCOUNT AND VISCOUNTESS MANDEVILLE

This item should arouse young women who are contemplating marriage: The Viscount and Viscountess Mandeville, Huntingshire (England), have reached San Francisco after twice circumnavigating the world in 12 months of honeymooning. And they're not sure they won't make a third circling before they're "at home."

4 MINERS DIE IN ACCIDENTS

Four miners were killed in falls of slate in two mines in the Pittsburgh district yesterday. Arthur Jackson, 34, a Negro was crushed to death at No. 8 Mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation at Coverdale. Michael Hartek, 25, was fatally injured in the same mine when his clothing caught in the machinery of a coal digger. Newton Ward, 43, and Newton Baker, 50, Negroes, were killed in the Gallitin mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

REFUSE BAN ON SCHOOL BLDG.

Judge James H. Gray handed down a decision yesterday refusing to enjoin the South Fayette Township School Board from erecting a $100,000 high and public school on the present site of the school property at Morgan. Martin Rainer and others sought to prevent the construction on the ground that the school was to be built near a slag dump, which it was feared might ignite and throw off fumes. Judge Gray holds there was no abuse in the board's discretion to erect a school on the present site.

STORK ADDS TO COUNTY DEER

Chief Eagle Ribs, caretaker of South Park, reports that within the last few days five fawns have been born in the South Park deer herd. Five buffalo calves have been born during the spring. The deer and buffalo herds in the North Park are also receiving stork visits.

If the weather is fair next Sunday Chief Eagle Ribs and family in full regalia will act as the county's official hosts to South Park while Big Beaver and his squaw and papooses will act in the same capacity in North Park.

PARK LAND IN BOND ISSUE

The purchase of additional property for county park purposes, estimated at $41,200, will be included among the items in the coming county bond issue. This was made known yesterday by county commissioners.

Paul B. Riis, park director, requested that an additional 81½ acres be purchased for South Park, Snowden township, and 47 more acres for North Park, McCandless township.

The property, commissioners were told, was needed to complete golf courses in each of the parks. The property in South Park will average $400 an acre and in the North Park $200 an acre.

County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock favored expanding the parks. Commissioner C. C. McGovern did not commit himself.

Commissioner Armstrong informed Director Riis that the proposition would be included in the coming People's bond issue.

'MELLON BABY? I'M FOR IT'—BABCOCK

Norman F. Brown, public works director, yesterday recommended that office space be granted Joseph T. Miller, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission, in Old City Hall.

"Why give these squatters office space when the county needs offices for its own business?" Commissioner McGovern asked. "The county is appropriating $12,000 a year toward the commission in addition to a state appropriation. If they want an office, let the commission go elsewhere and pay for it," said the commissioner.

"Anyway, it is a Mellon baby and let the Mellons nurse it," McGovern said.

"Is it a Mellon baby?" Commissioner Babcock shot back at McGovern. "If it is, I am for the Mellons and I move that the commission be given the office."

Commissioners Babcock and Joseph G. Armstrong voted to grant the request. McGovern voted no.

PASS FLOOD BILL TO PRESIDENT

O. K. EXPECTED; OPPOSITION SLIGHT

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP.)—Congressional action on the Mississippi River flood control bill stood completed today and only the signature of President Coolidge now is required before the nation's engineers are given one of the greatest tasks in history.

With little preliminary ado and without a record vote, the Senate yesterday adopted the conference report of the measure with three important revisions suggested by the President. As the House had approved it on Tuesday, Congress thus completed what had been described as its most important piece of legislation of the present session.

The measure will be sent to the White House soon and its proponents foresee speedy executive approval. While some provisions still are considered by the President as unsatisfactory, he feels the bill is the best obtainable at this time.

Little opposition bobbed up in the three hours given over to debate of the conference report yesterday in the Senate. Senators Norris, of Nebraska, and Frazier, North Dakota, Republicans, opposed it, but made no determined fight against it. The subject was discussed only in its general aspects and practically no attention was paid to what was being said. When it first passed the Senate by unanimous vote, the bill was shot through in less than two hours.

No record vote was taken yesterday and when the ayes and nays were called not a single dissenting voice was heard.

CAUGHT IN COAL CUTTER, MINER FATALLY HURT

Drawn into the machinery of a coal cutter in No. 8 mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company at Coverdale early today, Mike Hutek, 25, cutter, was fatally crushed. He died en route to a hospital. His clothing caught in the mechanism.

PITTSBURGHERS FREED IN RIOT

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 10.—(AP.)—Anthony Minerich, 23, and Fred Woltman, 21, both of Pittsburgh, were released on $500 bail yesterday after they had been arrested by Private John G. Russell, of the state police, on charges of inciting to riot following the breaking up of a picket line near the Delmont mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. A hearing was postponed while police sought to arrest a third man.

Representatives of the "Save the Union" committee said the men arrested were representatives of the American Civil Liberties Union.

BALLOONISTS TO GET AIR DATA

The Pittsburgh branch of the Weather Bureau has been asked to provide weather information for the national elimination balloon races to start from Bettis Field, May 30. The request was embodied in a letter received today by Forecaster Brotzman from the bureau at Washington.

C. G. Andrus, of the Hadley Airport, New Brunswick, N. J., will come to Pittsburgh as special meteorological adviser to the contestants. Upper air data and pilot balloon observations will be sent here from the Army weather stations at Uniontown and other points. Brotzman plans to have this information sent direct to Bettis field, where a temporary station will be installed for Andrus, instead of relaying it through the bureau at Pittsburgh. Brotzman will also telephone the weather map information he receives morning and evening to the field and will then have the maps sent there by air mail.

Radio station KDKA has agreed to assist by broadcasting weather information at frequent intervals the night of May 30. The balloons will be equipped with receiving sets for obtaining these reports.

Will Predicts Lecture Tour for Carol

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 10.—The Senate is still examining the expenditures of presidential candidates. The humor of the thing is that you can be elected president of this country on one tenth what it costs to be elected Senator. Old Prince Carol is still on the front page, so I can see a lecture tour in American next fall for him. Tax relief farm relief, flood relief dam relief, none of these have been settled, but they are getting them in shape for consideration at the next session of Congress with the hope that those needing relief will perhaps have conveniently died in the meantime.

Will Rogers.

Yours
WILL ROGERS.

HUGHES URGED IN STEEL RATE LITIGATION

City Council today will be asked to engage Charles Evan Hughes, ex-cabinet member; Owen J. Roberts or some attorney of equal prominence to lead the Pittsburgh fight against discriminatory freight rates on steel, according to Thomas A. Dunn, chairman of the general traffic committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Dunn stated that Hughes and Roberts would be suggested to Council by him.

The necessity of employing the best legal talent to ward off the blow directed at the steel industry is recognized by James F. Malone, president of Council. He did not state whether he favored the choice of Mr. Dunn, but said he was in full favor of securing the best attorneys possible. Council recently obtained an opinion from the city law department which legally gave the body the right to appropriate funds for hiring legal talent.

GAINS LIBERTY THROUGH HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

Judge Josiah Cohen yesterday discharged Harry Haggerty, former prize fighter from "The Strip" district, from the county jail on habeas corpus proceedings. Haggerty was arrested two weeks ago as a witness to a shooting in the Penn avenue section, without any charge being made against him other than that of being a suspicious person. The city made no attempt to have the man held, when the case came up for hearing in Common Pleas Court.

Amateur Stars Outdo Selves in Farewell Productions Given by Stage and Play Society

PERHAPS I have been a bit enthusiastic about the Stage and Play Society's work, but don't you really think that last night's performance would warrant it? To close their season, these amateur players did just a little better work than they have done before, and they had a big crowd to play to. It was rather a farewell evening, you know, because this is, naturally, their last production for this season. Most of the members will soon be at their summer homes or traveling abroad, not to see each other, perhaps, until next fall.

Several members of the casts last night were making their stage debuts, among them Ann Watt, who appeared in Clare Kummer's "The Robbery." Her co-players were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. C. Arensberg, Joseph A. Kelly and Durbin Horner. Mrs. Haines Allen Machesney directed the play. Mr. Arensberg, to comment on only one member, showed that his ability as a lawyer—he is one of the city's legal lights, you know—could be utilized quite well in another line of endeavor.

Carroll Fitzhugh, president of the society, wrote another of the plays presented last night. It was "Mon Ami Pierrot," and in the cast were Mrs. Henry B. Lupton, Harold Geohegan, Mrs. William S. Moorhead, Mrs. Thomas Jones Hilliard, Esther Ely and Durbin Horner. There were just two characters in the third play, and they were taken by Madeleine McClintock and Chester M. Wallace, both of whom have appeared a number of the times with this group.

Martha MacCord's wedding to Biddle Arthurs, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Biddle Arthurs, of Center avenue, was a lovely affair last night in the First Baptist Church, with yellow as the predominating note in the church decorations. The Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty performed the ceremony before an altar which had been banked with yellow roses and gladioli, and the aisles were outlined with yellow ribbons.

Martha is a daughter of Mrs. Thomas Charles MacCord, of the Cathedral Mansions, you know, and she was given away by her uncle, David J. Lewis, of Oakmont. Her dress was made of ivory pointe de sole, on very simple lines, with a long train falling from the waistline. Her veil was of tulle and was arranged in cap effect at the head, and she carried white lilacs and yellow roses.

Mr. Arthurs' sister, Mrs. William Whigham, Jr., the former Elizabeth Arthurs, was the matron of honor, and her frock was of sea green chiffon and lace. The maid of honor, Marjorie Easton, of New York, wore a bouffant frock of shell pink taffeta, and the bridesmaid, Kathryn Brennan, of this city, was gowned in orchid taffeta and chiffon. The girls all carried spring flowers to match their dresses.

Mr. Whigham was best man and in the list of ushers were Clifford G. Dunnells, of Chicago, Martha's cousin; Dr. Theodore Redman, Joseph F. Kuntz, Jr., Frederick B. Westervelt and A. Lyle Linderman, of Pittsburgh; B. W. Cummings III, of Pottsville, and James Verner, of Springdale.

There was a reception and dinner in the Hotel Schenley after the ceremony. Mrs. MacCord wore a gown of beige lace and Mrs. Arthurs appeared in orchid chiffon.

The young Mr. and Mrs. Arthurs are going to spend their honeymoon in the East and they will be at home in the Cathedral Mansions after June 15.

Another pretty wedding of yesterday was that of Martha Converse Gieffer, daughter of Mrs. Harry Wilson Gieffer, of the Negley apartments, and John Murdoch Clarke, of Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Clarke.

They were married at 5:30 o'clock in the Church of the Ascension by the Rev. John Hart, student pastor of the University of Pennsylvania, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Boyd Edwards, rector of the church. There was a reception at the house later.

Martha was given in marriage by her uncle, Joseph Jones, of Pittsburgh, and she wore a gown of white satin cut in straight lines, with long tight sleeves. Her veil was of rose point lace and was caught with a close-fitting cap, and it fell over a full court train of satin. She carried white lilacs, white orchids and lilies of the valley. Her cousin, Mrs. Arthur Van Bushirk, was her only attendant. She wore pale green lace with a large hat to match and carried butterfly roses.

Hugh M. Clarke, of Lancaster, was his brother's best man and the ushers included Dr. Martha Fulton, of Boston; Gordon Hardwick, J. Tyson Stokes and Chester A. Osler, all of Philadelphia, and John Titzel and Arthur B. Van Bushirk, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke are going to sail on Saturday for a trip to Naples.

DAUGHTERS OF 1812 OPEN CONVENTION HERE

The War of 1812 marked the beginning of the migration from the eastern to the western part of the country, said Dr. John W. Oliver, of Pitt, in his address on "The Search for Local History" before the Pennsylvania Society, United States Daughters of 1812, in annual convention at the Hotel Schenley yesterday afternoon. Dr. Oliver's talk was the principal event of the program which included also the greetings from the hostess chapter, the Dolly Madison, by the president, Mrs. A. Marion Cowen; the response by the state president, Mrs. Reinoehl Knipe; a word from the national president, Mrs. Samuel Z. Shope, of Philadelphia; greetings from honorary state presidents, and the reports of state officers. Instead of the reception, which was scheduled for last night, the delegates were taken for a motor trip over the city and to the United States Veterans' Hospital to see the clock which the Dolly Madison Chapter has presented to the hospital.

A program of entertainment featured the luncheon between morning and afternoon sessions today, reports of standing committee and chapter regents and election and inauguration of officers completing the day's activities.

According to the electoral laws of Hungary, in order to vote a woman must be 30 years of age, have an elementary school education and be the mother of at least three children, the exceptions being a graduate of a university or college, her credits then being sufficient to give her the privilege of voting. This was told yesterday at the luncheon of the educational department, Congress of Clubs, by Miss Clara J. Fetter, an attache of the Hungarian consulate here and a graduate of the University of Budapest. Special guests at the luncheon included Mrs. Mary J. Cowley of the Pittsburgh Board of Education who was celebrating her birthday anniversary and was presented with a corsage; Mrs. David Kirk, of Bradford, the first woman principal of a school in the United States and principal of the high school attended by Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, Congress president; Miss Matilda Orr Hays, one of the original members of the Congress, and Mrs. D. W. Smith, of Mt. Claire, N. J. In addition to Miss Fetter's talk, there were tenor solos by Byron Wade, accompanied by Mrs. J. D. Boydston, and soprano numbers by Mrs. Robert Phillips, with Mrs. Ruth Glasser Belsmeyer accompanying.

Historical homes were named in response to roll call and southern melodies were sung by the club. The May 23 meeting of the organization will be held at the summer home of Mrs. W. B. EXPLAINED TO CLUB

INDIANA FARM VOTE BEATS HOOVER

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10.—(AP.)—Returns today from Tuesday's primary showed Senator James E. Watson, a favorite son, increasing his lead over Herbert Hoover for the Republican preferential vote of Indiana.

Opposition of the "farm vote" to Hoover was seen in returns from rural districts. The vote in 3,508 precincts out of 3,610 gave Watson 218,583; Hoover, 196,880. The result binds Indiana's 33 delegates to the national convention to support the Indiana Senator.

The 30 Democratic delegates will go to Houston pledged to Evans Woollen, Indianapolis banker, who was unopposed. Results from 2,236 precincts gave Woollen 130,166 votes.

MICHIGAN SOLID FOR SMITH

PORT HURON, Mich., May 10.—(INS.)—Michigan's 30 votes in the Democratic National convention in Houston next month belong to Alfred E. Smith, Tammany Governor of New York, despite prohibition, religion and this state's bitter division between Smith and William G. McAdoo four years ago.

Gives Your Hair Unusual Beauty

The attractiveness of even the most beautiful women depends upon the loveliness of their hair.

Fortunately, beautiful hair is now easily obtained. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft, silky and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

IT IS almost inconceivable that an electric ironer can equal the most careful hand methods, but the Perfection can and does on all clothes. You must see this new kind of electric ironer. You'll scarcely believe a machine could be so perfect. We want to have you know what Perfection can do and we'll bring it right to your home whenever you say, to do all your ironing, without its costing you a penny or putting you under one bit of obligation.

You sit down in a comfortable chair when you iron with Perfection and you control everything with a gentle touch of the foot. Your ironing just glides over the padded roll and the first thing you know it's done. Simple! Pleasant! Why it's actually fun to iron with one of these machines!

And they cost so very little to own! They pay for themselves a dozen times in what they save in wear on the clothes. Doctors say that hand-ironing is one of the most trying household tasks and that many women pay in years of ill-health for doing this back-breaking, straining labor that no modern woman should do.

The perfection of its work alone has put the Perfection Ironer in thousands and thousands of homes where happy women now sing over the week's ironing-work that formerly left them tired for days afterward.

It will be a pleasure for us to bring a Perfection to your home and do your next ironing free. Please telephone or call and tell us the most convenient time. Do it today. Phone ATlantic 8600.

DIGS SELF FROM GRAVE; POSSES HUNT MAN

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Mrs. Marie Billings, 36, is in a serious condition at a hospital today after having been beaten and buried alive in a semi-conscious condition, according to her story to the sheriff's office.

Search for her assailant was started throughout Southern California after she had told her story.

She said a man walked into her home at Montebello Park while she was alone and tried to sell her some real estate.

Suddenly, she declared, he struck her over the head with a blunt club.

"I remember struggling," Mrs. Billings said. "He struck me again and again. I was almost completely unconscious.

"He tried to choke me to death then. He wrapped one of my silk stockings around my throat and twisted it until I was senseless."

Sheriff's office investigators said it appeared that the woman's assailant had taken her in an automobile into the Puente Hills, laid her in a shallow grave and covered her with dirt, in the belief that she was dead.

Mrs. Billings' hands and feet had been bound. She said she was semi-conscious when placed in the grave but could make no outcry.

Later she freed herself and struggled out of her makeshift grave. A taxi driver found her on a road a mile east of Whittier, seeking aid. She still wore the blanket which had been wrapped around her by her assailant.

Mrs. Billings is the wife of Howard B. Billings, head of the Billings Manufacturing Company.

CLAIMS BENEFITS WERE SURPRISING

Beltzhoover Lady's Stomach, Liver and Kidneys Greatly Benefited by Ten Herbs.

"I was favorably impressed with all the praise I heard for Ten Herbs, but had no idea I would be benefited by your medicine the way I have been," was the statement of Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, 209 Climax Street, Beltzhoover, Pa., (a section of Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of people.

MRS. ELIZABETH JONES

"When I started to use Ten Herbs, I was in such a weakened, run-down condition that I could hardly keep going," Mrs. Jones continued. "I was on the verge of being a nervous wreck. My appetite was poor, and when I forced myself to eat, I would be distressed with gas and have a suffocated feeling. I had to live on the lightest kind of diet. I was so nervous that I would roll and toss before I could sleep. I was very easily excited and the least thing would irritate me. I was constipated, and my liver was sluggish. My kidneys seemed to be out of order, as every time I stooped over pains would shoot through my back. I became so weak and lifeless that I feared I would have to give up my position.

"Before I had finished the second bottle of Ten Herbs, I noticed a great change taking place. I found your medicine to be just what I needed. My digestion became good, and now I can eat anything without having misery afterwards. My liver and bowels have been regulated, and my kidneys are more active. My nerves have become quiet, and I do not have those shaky, nervous, excitable spells any more. I sleep better, and feel a hundred per cent. better in every way. I do not hesitate to recommend Ten Herbs to anyone who is suffering as I used to."

Every claim made for this new herbal medicine, Ten Herbs, is backed by a mass of evidence on file. Many men and women in this section vouch for the satisfactory results it gives in relieving disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

Don't Be "Skinny and Scrawny"

Build Up Weight in 3 Weeks with New Combination of YEAST and IRON—or Pay Nothing

Pleasant Because Tasteless

No Woman is Beautiful Who is Skinny
Underweight People Lack Pep, Vitality and Charm

"I Gained 10 Pounds"

"For over a year I had no energy or ambition. My complexion was muddy. I could not sleep at night. I fell off in weight until I was but a shadow of my former self. After taking one treatment of IRONIZED YEAST I feel like a new woman. My complexion has cleared up wonderfully. I have gained 10 pounds and I am full of energy."—(Mrs.) M. B., Chicago, Ill.

It seems incredible how fast IRONIZED YEAST adds pounds of good firm flesh—on women and men, children and old people. Doctors know the value of vegetable iron and yeast in building up and improving the body. IRONIZED YEAST, in a highly concentrated form, contains all the blood-building properties of vegetable iron with yeast.

New Complexion For You

People ask—what is the magic in IRONIZED YEAST that transforms sallow, lifeless, faded complexions into the fresh, smooth, lovely skin of early girlhood? Wrinkles disappear. Eyes renew the sparkle of youth. Hollows fill out.

Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—weight-building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured yeast concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value.

Only when Yeast is ironized in this way is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening value of Yeast. That's why IRONIZED YEAST works so quickly. So get a generous test treatment—nice, tasty tablets in a handy bottle. No nasty, pasty taste. Do not cause gas or bloating. Safe for everybody—containing no harmful drugs.

Try It on "Money-Back Offer

Go to any drug store and get a full size treatment. If after this generous trial you are not delighted with effects, ask for your money back. It will be refunded immediately. If inconvenient to buy from druggist, send $1.00 to the IRONIZED YEAST CO., Atlanta, Ga., Desk 319-E.

CAUTION! While the amazing health-building value of IRONIZED YEAST tablets has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion, and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, IRONIZED YEAST should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having weight increased to normal.—Copyright, I. Y. Co.

We want you and your friends to pass judgment upon this new store....to view the all-new stock of Pianos, Players and Radios. We are celebrating our 38th anniversary of successful service to the musically inclined of Pittsburgh. We want you, to whom we owe every year of our success, to join with us on these open-house days. We want you to come to enjoy yourself. You will not be solicited to buy. There will be courteous guides to answer questions, to explain and demonstrate any type of musical instrument. We take this occasion to assure you that McCausland's in the new location will continue to be the symbol for reliability, square dealing and satisfaction. There will be souvenirs appropriate of the occasion for you and your friends. May we expect the pleasure of your company?

The Straube SONATA Grand Piano

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY ONLY

You have but to sit down before the Sonata Grand and run through the entire scale of 88 notes to appreciate what musical quality has been achieved in this new instrument. All we might say about the Sonata could not reveal as much of the "grand piano" quality of its tone as a single hearing of its scale. Hear it during these "open-house" days, Friday and Saturday. Regularly nationally advertised at $775.00. During these days only $645.

$645

By the application of the exclusive Straube method of duplex overstringing the manufacturers have produced in a case four feet, four inches long, a scale with a string length equal to a grand piano at least a foot longer.

25 PLAYER PIANOS SPECIALLY PRICED $215

They are all specially priced to celebrate this occasion. Hear them....play them. Remember this special price is for Friday and Saturday only.

RADIOS
CROSLEY—AMRAD

You can't go wrong on the purchase of any of these nationally advertised radios. They are backed by the makers and by McCausland's Guarantee. Have them demonstrated now during "open-house" days.

STAGE AND SCREEN ACTIVITIES DETAILED IN PICTURES AND GOSSIP ABOUT PLAYERS

SCENES AND PLAYERS -:- IN NEW CINEMA ATTRACTIONS -:- CURRENT AND TO COME

"The Patsy," Marion Davies' new comedy, is the vehicle of the scene depicted here, the players being Jane Winton, Marie Dressler, Del Henderson and Miss Davies. Del is "declaring himself" in behalf of Miss Davies, who is the family "patsy." The picture comes to the Penn next week.

Alice White, former script girl in a Los Angeles studio, recently playing parts in pictures, has been made a star. "Bluffers" will be her first stellar film.

Cleve Moore, Colleen Moore, brother and sister, and Gary Cooper in a scene from Miss Moore's flicker opera, "Lilac Time." Mr. Cooper is the leading man and both he and brother Cleve appear to be in the service, if uniforms tell anything resembling the truth.

Theaters of Spoken and Silent Drama Appeal Through Music, Comedy, Stories and Characterization

Emil Wolff, Nixon Music Master, Knew Many Famous Old Actors During 34 Years as Conductor

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

WHEN a theater audience applauds the entr'acte numbers of the orchestra, as frequently happens at the Nixon, it is because the orchestra has a soul. And the soul of the Nixon Theater orchestra, everybody knows, is its conductor. His name is Emil Wolff, and for 21 years he has been leader of the musicians at the Nixon. If the audience did not see his head in front of the footlights they would think they had got into the wrong theater. His programs are arranged by a man who knows music from A to G, and they are played with precision and feeling. Emil Wolff is the Music Master of our theater.

GEORGE SEIBEL

For 34 years he has been a familiar figure to playgoers here, and he has also made friends of all the great actors who have come to Pittsburgh in all these years. He knew personally most of the men and women who were the glory of the American stage a generation ago—Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, John McCullough, E. L. Davenport, Joe Jefferson, Thomas W. Keene, Frederick Warde, Henry Irving, Beerbohm Tree, Sol Smith Russell, Nat Goodwin, Richard Mansfield, Robson and Crane, Janauschek and Modjeska. They all knew and liked Emil Wolff and frequently asked his opinion on points in their performance. They felt like Madge Kendal, the famous English actress, who wrote in her "Dramatic Opinions," published in 1890:

"The orchestra is a great part of theatrical life. Mr. Buckstone always asked the opinion of the orchestra concerning a play which he was going to produce. As a rule, the orchestra is not called into a theater at rehearsals until the play is to some extent smooth, and then, perhaps the last week or two, the orchestra comes in and plays the incidental music. The men of the orchestra have not been tired by seeing the play rehearsed, scene by scene and act by act, and therefore they come fresh to it. This circumstance, I suppose, induced Mr. Buckstone always—during the last rehearsal—to advance to the orchestra and say: 'Now, gentlemen, what do you think of the piece?'

"If it were a comedy and the orchestra were heard to laugh, Mr. Buckstone always said: 'This is all right; the orchestra see it and hear it for the first time, and it is all right.' Or, if the cornet player raised himself from his seat to stand and look at a pathetic scene, Buckstone would turn around and say: 'Ah! that is all right; the pit will like that.' Mr. Buckstone had much belief in the judgment of the orchestra.

"I remember a certain leader of the orchestra once listening to a poetical play, and the author for a moment forgot his dignity and asked him, 'What do you think of that?' The leader of the orchestra was a timid little man, frightened to death of the author, and he turned suddenly and said, 'Oh, it is better than Shakespeare!'

"In some theaters—indeed in most of the large provincial theaters—the band plays the audience out until it disperses, as they do in church. Whether or not that is good, I do not venture to say. I think the orchestra is a very great aid to any dramatic action. People so love music that unless it is dragged in injudiciously, I think it must always be an immense help to the audience. I like to see an orchestra; but as I so seldom sit among the audience, I do not think I am in a position to speak on this point. But it is a great help to me to hear a little music, and it seems to me a relief to my own voice, of which, if I have a very long part, I sometimes weary."

There is much in what Mrs. Kendal said, and the habitues of the Nixon feel just that way with regard to Emil Wolff, the delightful old Music Master who is the soul of the Nixon orchestra.

BENEFIT FOR VETERANS BY LOCAL MUSICIANS

Prominent Pittsburgh musicians are on the program for the concert, which the Society of Forty and Eight, American Legion, will give in Carnegie Hall tonight for the benefit of convalescent tubercular war veterans. Among entertainers scheduled to appear are Helen Belle Rush, Margaret Spalding, Viola Bygerson, Rose Leader Chislett, Raymond Griffin, Will A. Rhodes, Max Kroen, Jack Thompson, Earl Truxell and Aneurin Bodycombe. The fund derived from the benefit will be used to build huts in the state forests for the World War veterans.

VENICE AND FLOTILLA HAVE EVELYN NESBIT

Evelyn Nesbit is appearing in both the Venice restaurant, Diamond street, and in the Flotilla Club each night in this, the second week of her current Pittsburgh engagement. She presents a skit, "Personality Personified," with Malvin Walker accompanying at the piano. Miss Nesbit appears at 7:15 o'clock in the Venice and in the Flotilla Club at 7:45 and 11:30 o'clock.

NEW SEASON OPENS IN SANDER'S MONDAY

The annual summer opening will be staged in Sander's Aspinwall, Monday night. Dave Harmon and his orchestra will furnish music throughout the opening week. Hughie Barrett and his orchestra will follow the Harmon organization to Sanders.' This latter unit was a recent attraction in the Royal Palace Hotel, London.

GASOLINE PRICES CUT ONE CENT PER GALLON

Gasoline dropped a cent in price at service stations of the Atlantic Refining Company today. Tank wagon prices remained unchanged. Independent companies are expected to lower their prices to meet competition.

JOHNSTOWN GRADUATES HAVE 42 HONOR PUPILS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 10.—Forty-two students are on the honor roll of the graduating class of the Johnstown High School. Miss Elizabeth Peat is valedictorian. Commencement exercises will be held June 1.

SAYS ONE WORD IN PLAY

Charles Hyatt, popular Pitt basketball star, has only one word to say in "Mary-Grow-Round," twenty-first annual Cap and Gown Club presentation now playing in the Alvin. He has one of the leading roles, that of a circus roustabout, and goes through the entire show without uttering a word until the final curtain, when he finally lets out a long-drawn "Gosh!"

Seats were placed on sale today for "The King of Kings," which opens a short engagement in the Shubert Alvin Theater next Monday night. After the opening, two performances will be given daily. The picture is said by churchmen of authority to be the most reverent and complete dramatization of the life of Christ ever produced on stage or screen.

"The Family Upstairs," to be presented by the George Sharp Players, in the Pitt next week, is a comedy that contains little moments of pathos. It had a long New York run.

The seat sale is open in the Nixon for the sixth and last week of the Paramount picture, "Wings," which is a story of aviation during the world war. Clara Bow, Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen play the principal parts.

Marion Davies, in her newest screen production, "The Patsy," will be the attraction in Loew's Penn next week. It is a comedy drama, an adaptation of Barry Connor's stage success, cut and embroidered to fit Miss Davies' rich and exclusive talents as a screen comedienne.

Richard Barthelmess and his new picture, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," will be shown in the Stanley next week. Frances White heads the stage bill.

Laura La Plante will be seen on the screen of the Aldine next week as the star of "Finders Keepers." The stage bill will be made up of the usual quota of vaudeville acts.

Roscoe Ails and his company of singers, dancers, comedians and his band will top the vaudeville at the Harris next week. As the screen feature "Midnight Rose" will be shown.

Keith-Albee vaudeville in the Davis next week will be Jay Brennan and Stanley Rogers, one a female impersonator. On the screen will be "Why Sailors Go Wrong."

Adolph Menjou comes to the Grand screen next week as star of the photoplay, "A Night of Mystery."

Viola Elliott, "Little Venus," comes to the Academy next week in "French Models." She is supported by Edna and Edythe Bates, George Grafe and George Hart.

William Boyd will be seen on the Olympic screen next week in his new starring vehicle, "Skyscrapers." Sue Carol, Alan Hale and Alberta Vaughn are featured.

Boradus Earle, boy violinist, is to be the vaudeville feature in the Sheridan Square next week. The two screen features are "Pay as You Enter," with Louise Fazenda and Clyde Cook, and "Why Sailors Go Wrong," a new comedy.

"DUTCH NIGHT" EVENT IN OLD-TIME DANCE

"Dutch Night" will be observed by Johnny Jones' oldtime dancers tonight in Odd Fellows Gardens, Sarah street, South Side. In addition to Dutch dancing refreshments will be served. Joseph Kaine and his orchestra will play.

TRADER HORN
THE GREATEST ADVENTURE STORY OF MODERN TIMES

Rival Tribes in Battle for an Elephant Carcass

Trader Horn Plunges Into Wildest Africa, Following On De Brazza's Trail

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Having gone to Africa when a boy half a century ago, Trader Horn, at 73, is writing his experiences. He becomes friendly with the native tribes, cannibals, and was taken into their society. In weird ceremonies he took part; in exciting hunts of leopards, lions, gorillas and elephants, he exhibited prowess. And he plans to rescue from a josh house Nina T——, the white goddess of the Isogas, daughter of an Englishman of aristocratic family. He admires the morals of the people of wildest Africa.

Curious Doctoring in the Jungle

By ALFRED ALOYSIUS HORN

Edited by ETHELREDA LEWIS.

CHAPTER XXVI.

ALFRED A. HORN

WE WERE told that the elephant had been killed after a good chase and that the Oshebas, who had been seen away to the east, had been watching the hunt from ambush. We hurried up, following our guide, and found all of our strength and 10 or 12 of our Okelly friends all carrying guns in extended order in the rocky ground to protect the men who were cutting up the carcass and chopping out the ivories.

Iwolo pointed the (Osheba) cannibals out, and I put the glasses on a small hill covered with bush. They were moving round excitedly and were no doubt preparing to attack us. We took up a position about 200 yards south of where the dead animal lay and were about full strength and therefore well prepared for any emergency.

The tusks were now free, whilst about 10 baskets were filled with elephant meat ready to carry off to the village. The women now excitedly shouldered their loads as well as the tusks, which were a fine pair, when the Oshebas in an extended line began to advance on us.

Old Iwolo now ordered the ivories and meat to be brought into the bush at the foot of the hill where we were posted. Iwolo ordered no firing until the Oshebas came nearer. He handed me the field glasses.

Battle in the Forest

They were coming in extended order like skilled fighters, taking short runs in turns so as to avoid fatigue. They were now less than 80 yards away, were painted up and armed with guns, cross bows and spears. They made a fine show as they came forward. The Okellys amongst the rocks began to fire whilst the enemy came on firing, but still kept formation, when Iwolo gave the order to open on them.

The effect of our rifle fire was instantaneous. I saw several fall through the glasses, but they now took a prone position and crawled near the Okellys. They were brave men and I asked Iwolo, who was an old fighter, if he could not call the Okellys off. But the old man only laughed, saying their meat and their fight, and ordered the rifles to cease fire. Too many good cartridges wasted on the Oshebas he said.

As he spoke a band of young Okelly warriors appeared and advanced to the native firing line and the battle commenced now in earnest. The Okellys are splendid fighters and after a short space of time the Oshebas cleared away with the Okellys following them up for some distance, but they were loath to leave the rocky ground, and soon the Oshebas were well away, brandishing their spears in defiance.

The Okellys plundered the dead and left the wounded naked, but did not kill them, as they said it was foolish to kill out, as fair fighting was looked upon by the Oshebas as sport or fun, but on the other hand they knew their wounded and would revenge them, but would be satisfied with their good beating and would most likely for a good time hunt further afield.

Into Wildest Africa

We now left the hill and as the Okellys were busily engaged cutting up meat and carrying their wounded to town, these numbering five and one lay dead in the stone pile. Coming to the Osheba dead and wounded we counted seven killed and twice as many wounded. The wounded men conversed freely and to those who wanted it I gave a good tot of good Red Heart Rum, which I found better than brandy on such occasions. One tall cannibal who was not able to walk, but was badly hit down in the stomach, smilingly said, "Ma Ke Wa Kirria," I shall die tomorrow. Two or three of them walked towards their camp.

On entering the Okelly town the chief of his headmen, who were all old, came to congratulate us and thank us for the assistance we had given them in drawing away their enemies.

The night was spent in music and story telling by Iwolo, and the town hall, a long grass roof supported by hardwood posts, was well filled, whilst the women brought in plantin leaves full of cooked elephant meat and such berries and bonbons as the country afforded. We had a pleasant time and left next morning on our up-river expedition straight into the heart of wildest Africa.

We now entered wild and very picturesque country whilst we passed many islands, and after again passing small Mpangue towns we came on the most beautiful portion of the Ogowe River, which here widened. Numerous islands are inhabited by the Okowas, a superior race of Negroes and the best canoe men in rapid waters one could wish for.

I took two days' rest here. I had the pleasure of finding the nearest point of this greatest ivory track which runs, so the Oshebas say, to the lands from which they all come, which I think must be somewhere towards equatorial Africa and yet further towards the lakes.

Every Mpangue is supposed to quote his ancestry before he is allowed to marry and the names of forebears are so many I had generally to beg them to keep quiet so they were surely descended from a race who must have lived before the Egyptians.

I left the Akota country and the next tribe to them on the south bank of the river are the Okandas. The Okanda country is full of itovis or plains on which roam great herds of wild cattle or Nyari, whilst there are a few small buffalo but their horn or corona after leaving the temple plate are straight up and make them greatly feared by lone hunters as they will often charge at sight and can walse round like buck.

The Elim river turns south from the Ogowe and this was the one followed by Count de Brazza, who followed this river and then crossed over the Ellma desert where he was attacked by the inhabitants, who live mostly on ant rice, i. e. the ant eggs to be found in the small

AGED WOMAN'S BODY STILL IS UNIDENTIFIED

Although several persons have viewed the body of the aged woman taken from the Monongahela River near the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad station Tuesday afternoon, no identification has yet been made. The body apparently had been in the water but a few hours. There was nothing in the clothing to aid authorities in establishing identification.

POLICE TO ENFORCE CAROL'S EXPULSION

MYSTERY CLOAKS MOVES

LONDON, May 10.—(AP.)—There were rumors today that great Britain's unwelcome guest, former Crown Prince Carol, of Rumania had gone to France secretly, but it seemed certain this morning that he was still preparing to leave the Surrey estate where he has been staying.

WARNED BY POLICE

It was generally believed that the exiled Prince would be on his way shortly, since a high police official warned him that if he delayed his departure from England the home office order for his deportation would be enforced.

FACE TREASON TRIALS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 10.—(AP.)—The government intends to try for treason all those involved in the alleged attempt of former Crown Prince Carol to fly from London to Alba Julia during the peasants' meeting Sunday to demand a change of government.

The Rumanian police claimed that Carol intended to fly to Vienna secretly and wait there for word that the time was ripe for him to return to Rumania. In the meantime a second plane was to carry his accomplices to Alba Julia with a manifesto to the peasants.

AS MAYS ENTERTAINED 'PITTSBURGH'

"THE PITTSBURGH CLUB" IN PARIS

This picture will make us all regret that we were not close friends of Walter A. May, Pittsburgh druggist. It is a scene in a prominent Paris dining room where Mr. and Mrs. May entertained the 64 Pittsburghers whom they invited to France for their silver wedding anniversary. Imagine having all your expenses paid to Paris! This is the first picture of the May celebration.

"PEACHES" SUES FOR SLANDER

NEW YORK, May 10.—(INS.)—Incensed over the allegations made against her in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Catherine Allen, Frances Heenan Browning today instructed her attorney to bring a slander suit for $500,000 against Mrs. Allen.

This information received from Philadelphia, where "Peaches" is filling a vaudeville engagement, was confirmed here by her attorney, former Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan. So enraged was "Peaches" that she wished to cancel her vaudeville contract and come to New York at once to direct the action against Mrs. Allen, her lawyer said.

NAMED IN DIVORCE

The divorce suit filed for Mrs. Allen yesterday in White Plains Supreme Court alleged that Edgar F. Allen, booking agent, was too friendly with "Peaches," with whom he had business dealings in regard to her bookings.

"Such reports might destroy my means of livelihood," declared Mrs. Browning. "Not a single thing she says about Mr. Allen and me is true. I want to deny every allegation."

The amount for which she instructed Cohalan to sue—$500,000—was set by "Peaches," who would not consider a lesser sum.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

ONE of the first big achievements of this department can now be reported. On the same day that we complained of a loose switch in Carrick, the traction company sent welders to make the necessary repairs. Now the street cars pass over the switch with a velvety softness. In fact, after the switch, which caused quite a bit of noise, was repaired someone said: "Is that a cat outside?" and the answer, after a look through the window, was "No, that was a street car passing."

* * *

HOWEVER, we're not one to press our luck in such matters and rather than suffer a reverse we're not going to advocate any new reforms for at least three days.

THE latest achievement adds another line to the obituary, making three in all. The three lines so far: "Mr. Boyle was a member of a pioneer volunteer fire department of this section; he waged an aggressive fight against the wearing of handkerchiefs by tennis players, and once an article he wrote was responsible for the railways company repairing a loose switch."

* * *

MR. BOB STAHL sends an invitation to attend the marathon dance contest to be staged soon in Homestead.

Incidentally, future marathons in Pittsburgh may be kicked into the discard by an ordinance proposed by Councilman Robert Garland.

The chances are the marathons here are doomed, for while those who don't like them are sufficiently interested to fight them, those who enjoyed them are not sufficiently interested in making a fight on their behalf.

In a debate: "Resolved, That Marathon Dances Are Harmful to the Public Morals?" we'd take the negative side, but that doesn't mean the jury wouldn't decide against us.

IN Grant street, near Fifth avenue, a man exhibits to onlookers the marvelous tricks he can do with a phoney deck of cards. "You can be the life of any party," he says, "by taking along this deck of cards and exhibiting your ability to do tricks." He then proceeds to show how an ace seemingly changes into a deuce. The onlookers are intent until he mentions the price and then they start moving away. There are some in the crowd who would like to make a purchase, but they fear their brothers will take them for suckers. So to inspire such timid souls, a few cappers, employed by the loquacious salesman, step forward and show the little world close by they want to "become the life of the party." After each speech the salesman averages about three bona fide sales.

BE THE LIFE OF ANY PARTY!
GOSH! I'LL TAKE A DECK!

MT. OLIVER boasts of one of the few business men of Pittsburgh who have gone in for aviation as a matter of time-saving. Charley Beckman recently purchased an airplane and is now taking lessons in flying at Mayer Field. When he gets his license he plans to commute between here and Atlantic City.

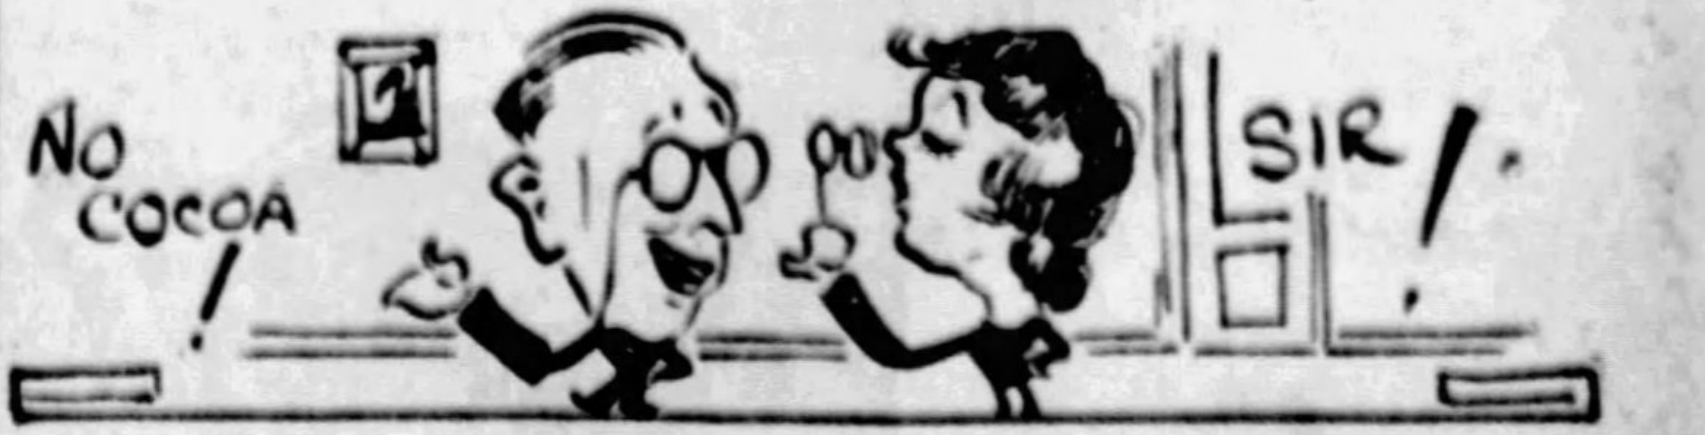
SOME entertaining reading is to be found in the law library in the Court House. There is, for instance, a complete report of the trial of Oscar Wilde, the author whose moral decline was the subject of many a minister's text some years ago.



NO COCOA!
SIR!

ELLSWORTH TROTT tells of a counsel for the defense who, upon pleading ardently and successfully for the lady who put arsenic in her hubbie's cocoa, agreed to take dinner with the accused woman after the trial, but as delicately as possible said: "But mind, Mrs. Smith, no cocoa."

JOSEF LHEVINNE, pianist, who was guest artist in the first Ampico hour of music last January, will be starred again tonight in the Ampico broadcast through Blue Network stations, including KDKA, at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Lhevinne will be assisted by his wife, Rosina, who also is an accomplished pianist.

Arturo Gervasi, tenor, and Wilfred Glenn, bass, will be guest soloists during the Maxwell hour at 9 o'clock, another network feature to be heard over KDKA. Mr. Glenn will sing Foster's "Uncle Ned" and "Leetle Battiste," a French-Canadian song. Mr. Gervasi will offer several opera selections.

Two dozen numbers, including specialties by the accordion, banjo, trumpet, guitar, trombone and other instruments, will be heard in the Dodge Brothers' presentation over Red Network stations, including WCAE, at 8 o'clock. Erva Giles and Vaughn de Leath will be among the radio artists who will appear.

An authentic Jacobite song will be featured during the Wayside Inn broadcast over WCAE and other Red Network stations at 9:30 o'clock. The song is the famous "Lilliburlero," a Revolutionary song of 1688, which was written by Lord Wharton. This selection helped to hasten the downfall of the Stuarts and to place King William on the throne.

Another Network program to be heard over WCAE will be the Hasley-Stuart hour at 10 o'clock. It will be opened with Percy Grainger's rollicking "Molly On the Shore," which is in the form of an Irish reel. An operatic note will be brought into the program by the rendition of "Entre' Acte," from Thomas' "Mignon."

mounds or antheaps, which are numerous.

As he was supplied with a small French machine gun and had some French and Senegalese soldiers armed with the Fusi Grass, he had no difficulty in driving them off. As he stayed with us at Adimango making ready for the expedition we became very friendly.

(Again the writer pauses to make a few pertinent remarks to Mrs. Lewis—this time bringing in a humorous incident about the American donkey.)

Warning to Man

"I've got a bit of fighting this time. In a book that's got truth at the bottom it can scarcely be avoided. But it doesn't do, Ma'am, to run too much bloodshed through a book. We must suppress some of that. Aye, too much of it becomes meaningless. Uniliterary. When you've seen what I've seen as a lad you'll not be wanting to write 't out with all the commas complete. Same as the lads as was in it won't talk about the War. I've no wish to emphasize what the eye and the brain will never forget.

"Winding up past those Itovas, the animals I saw there, happy as Nature planned for them to be. Never being shot for anything but the food necessary to natives.

"When I'm near to sleep or on the edge of waking up I see those creatures again, bright and moving as when we passed them. Africa, Ma'am, as Nature moulded it. And believe me, when Man has destroyed Nature then it's his turn to go. Sure. The barren world will swallow him up.

"'Tis a lucky thing the cannibal tribes have kept the elephants safe so long from these so-called big game hunters. An equatorial gang of cut-throats, wasting wild life to make what they call a bag. While the cannibals are there, there'll be no lack of elephants. They never kill wanton. Only to eat. They'd never be so childish as these dukes and colonels who have to count the head they kill same as we counted our marbles in Lancashire.

"The cannibal lives as Nature taught him—kill only to eat, keep your women moral, hold no man as slave, be content with your side o' the river, and cast no eyes across the water.

Morals and Power

"'Tis when a tribe keeps slaves and marries 'em that it begins to go down. The cannibals know that clean morals make a strong fighting race. 'Tis no different with white men. Rome never went down till she was pulled down by slaves and fancy women. Marble baths and so on, 'stead of a good fetch in the river at dawn.

"Often I have a good laff to myself when I see de Brazza's donkeys chasing a whole village before 'em. The white man's deer they used to call 'em. Yaw! Yaw! It sure was a comical apparition. He'd just landed 'em—a great meeting of jacks and jennies that he'd brought in two boatloads. Yaw! Yaw! they said and kicked up their heels like the best 2-year-olds.

"Drove the whole village before them, faster and faster. Aye, those donkeys made more of a conquest than penetration by battle.

"They put flight into fellers a bevy of elephants couldn't have scared. 'Twas the voice that did it. Yaw! Yaw!

"Some one said they were lions and that made everyone run the faster. They knew nothing about lions in those parts beyond what slaves from afar had told 'em. Those donkeys, being no more than human, galloped for pleasure at finding old earth under their hoofs again. Seasoned fighters fled whimpering before 'em. Aye, it sure was the donkeys' hour.

"Showers of hawks after a bit of a setto like that I had with the Oshebas. The sacred hawks of the Mpangues. They picked the bones of the wounded. So choicey, they'll not wait for death. One poor feller came to and found a hawk had plucked his eye out. He jumped up and walked about holding his eye that was empty, and when he fell again I shot him out of his misery.

Bullet as Cure

"Pity sure makes a man callous at such times. The witch doctors are clever but there's some things 're better not healed—no, not even by these so-called Harley Street experts—and 'tis then powder and shot are the best physician. Those witch doctors . . . I'm a humanitarian, and I like to give my knowledge to the world.

"There's things there that ought to be known. That Calabar bean that cures hydrophobia. Cures snake-bite, too, they say, and other forms of blood-poisoning. They cauterize very cleverly, too, in cases of snake-bite. Fill a pipe up full of tobacco, get it red hot with hard blowing and clap it upside down on the wound and such without stopping. Seems to draw the poison and cauterize at the same time.

"Then there's that chicken cure—if there's one handy. You pluck a bare patch on the chicken's breast and scratch a slight wound in the flesh. Apply this to the snake-bite pressing hard. The chicken'll soon die of the poison and then you take another. That may likely die too. But the third'll not die. It'll be somewhat wilted but should recover. And the patient'll be right.

"Aye, Nature sure has spread some of the ingenuity of a man over the wilder races. 'Tis not all reserved for Poccadilly."

JERRY The Epic of a Girl Who Had to Wait · by Elenore MEHERIN

Jerry Goes to Mary's To Help Saxon Hunt The Stolen Plans

WHEN she stared, uncomprehending, he repeated with a scrowl, "She came down here last night and carried them away. They're gone! Can't you see?"

"And all the blue prints—all the duplicates?"

When the withering truth was clear to her; when he had told the bald, vicious facts, sparing neither Mary nor himself, she said palely: "She's not destroyed them!"

"She will!"

"But if the guests are already there, she can't carry down a huge bundle of plans like that . . . drag it all the way to that terrible basement. And she can't burn them in secrecy anywhere else. There are only the downstairs fireplaces in use. And those small, old-fashioned grates wouldn't serve at all. She has to wait till the guests are gone—till she has time.

"Saxon—there's a chance."

He leaned against the board where for eight months he had slaved through clouded, uncertain weeks to sudden, luminous hours when his brain worked with such singing swiftness, he half distrusted his gifts.

On the top of the board, stuck there with a thumb tack, was a pen and ink sketch of the library. That was the first unit he had completed. He remembered the day—even the hour, when the idea of an entrance court had come to him. And he had achieved that lovely note of seclusion with the high, sheltering wall and the setting of palm trees. This composition, he knew, was a triumph.

Even Paul had been extravagant, had said: "Of its kind, a finer thing could not be done."

So he had labored harder, loving it and chastening it to the last tail. His—wrought of his youth and his noblest dream.

She had seized it. And was holding it. Might even now be destroying it.

"Oh, no!" He brought his fist shattering to the table. He was like a mother, chained to the shore and compelled to watch helpless, while her baby is drowning.

But she was not helpless! Not defeated. Ideas flashed with wild incoherence, mingled with that eager: "Saxon, there's a chance!"

He would go back there to the Pennings home—lie in wait. He would hide himself in her room and at her first move to destroy those plans——

His fingers curled with the delicious feel of her throat melting to their pressure.

"Oh, Saxon, listen! Won't you listen?"

He perceived Jerry standing at his side.

"Is it because of the $4,000?"

"NO!"

"If you got the $4,000 and brought it out to her?"

"NO! Good Lord, can't you understand?"

"Do you think the plans are in the house? You have about an hour and a half to beat her time. Can't you concentrate?"

"Yes—I can. That is what I think," he answered grimly. "The plans were brought to that house at about 3 o'clock this morning. Her chauffeur carried them up. I'm sure of this from his manner—from his unconscious description of the big, immense bundle. They were not burned when I arrived there this morning nor when I left at a quarter of two.

"She might have left them in her car—locked the car up and sent it to a garage. The plans may be there and not in the house. Saxon, she would be sure that you would go out there this morning to regain them. Wouldn't she be afraid to bring them to the house?"

"When it has 20 rooms? And there are closets within closets? In that room of hers she could have hidden them in the inner closet of her dressing room and there would be three doors to smash before you reached them. It would take days to thoroughly search that house.

"She might even have buried them in that front part of the basement where it's not excavated. Only a miracle could direct a stranger to their hiding place.

"But she won't take any chances now. She'll finish them definitely now."

"Not for two hours at the earliest," said Jerry with intense quiet. "Listen, she's playing bridge now. She's got to—there were only seven guests. They may stay at it till six. They'll drink gin rickeys. She'll get tight."

She seized his arm, growing pale and fevered with excitement.

"Saxon, I'll go out there. On some pretense about the picture or new tiebacks for her drapes. I'll wait for her. If the plans are in the house, you have a chance. There are but two things she can do—burn them in the furnace or send them away in the machine.

"There's only one way to reach that furnace and only one exit to the street.

"Saxon, you watch the outside. Can anyone carry those plans away if you're there to prevent it?

"I'll watch the inside. She closed here eyes. She reached up her hands, and with a soft, trembling laugh, touched his face. "We have two hours!"

At 4 o'clock Jerry reached the Pennings home. The maid admitted her. But instead of the usual: "Just go right up, if you wish, Miss King," she was ushered stiffly into the living room.

"You wish to wait, Miss King? But Miss Penninga will not be free for an hour. I doubt if she will have time to see you. She has been forced to cut the afternoon short."

"Oh, that's all right, Thelma, I only need a moment. And now that I've come all the way out from town I'll wait. She expects me."

The maid, who was usually talkative and smiling, had a furtive, intimidated look.

"She saw the havoc in Mary's room," thought Jerry. "And it's not finished yet!"

The card room where the two tables of bridge were set adjoined the living room.

In the great mirror over the fireplace this room was now imaged. Jerry saw the eight girls.

She saw Mary Eunice. Her heart clutched with excitement. Mary was sitting very erect, pale and decisive—hands moving swiftly, eyes glued to the table. Nothing betrayed her but the pallor which drained even her lips—that and her unnatural, statue-like stillness. She raised her glass, took a long, avid drink, drew in her lips.

Her voice reached Jerry: "At the finish of this rubber we quit."

"I'm for playing on. I'm $15 in the hole, and my husband's only a poor artist. Have a heart, Mary!" ordered Nellie Spear.

"Sorry—you can come back tomorrow."

"We'll stay on—you can go," insisted Nellie.

"Can't be done!"

Fifteen minutes later the guests were leaving. Mary went back to the table, drained her glass, picked up her winnings.

Then Jerry walked out to her.

CHAPTER LXXVI

MARY, in an ominous and gloating quiet, poured whisky into her highball.

As Jerry entered, she glanced up with a hostile: "What are you doing here?"

"Having paid a taxi $1.75 to arrive, Mary, I had to stick. I've got to know whether that picture is sold or not. How do you like it?"

"It's the rottenest thing I've ever looked at. I hate it!"

"Really? But the poor picture's not that bad. What's the matter—did you lose?"

Mary pointed to the stack of greenbacks: "I never lose! Here—have a drink. But make it snappy. Sorry—but you'll have to come tomorrow about the picture. I'm in a hurry—rotten hurry."

"Then here's to love!" said Jerry, raising her glass with a trembling admonition of failure. "Here's to the fatal and faithless—but they make us dance to their tune—MEN!"

Mary snapped her glass to the table: "What made you say that?"

"Sad experience. But not wishing the same to you, Mary."

Mary sat quiet, her eyes lowered. They seemed to emit a blaze—a sharp green blaze like the emeralds on her neck. Slowly the thick pallor of her cheeks were overlaid with an uneven red smudge. For moments she sat motionless.

With a sudden, ferocious gesture she knocked her glass to Jerry's: "Here's to the skunks!"

She set the empty glass down, clasped both hands about it and stared into it in a kind of glittering fury.

Thought Jerry: "If I can only get her to talk; bring up Saxon's name; incite her—goad her into it!"

"What do you mean—sad experience, Jerry?"

"Oh, you know all about it. Everyone does."

"That he ditched you? Played you along ever since you were a kid? Then gave you the air?"

Said Jerry with a shrug and pouring her high-ball into Mary's glass: "The best woman wins—here's to you, Mary!"

Mary shoved the glass from her. She poured out an alarming jolt of straight whisky and, ignoring Jerry's toast, asked: "You let him get away with it, didn't you? That's the trouble with the skunks—poor fish like you let them get away with it!"

"What can a girl do, Mary?"

"Oh, weep on their shoulders and beg them to think of past favors! Sit tight and smile and let them get away with it!"

"What would you do, Mary, if Saxon should ditch you?"

Mary leaned forward and with a slow, measured, slightly uncertain gesture swept the greenbacks to her bag. She raised her face in which the eyes were gleaming slits and the lips curving cruelly: "What would I do? I wonder what I would do if a man tried to wipe the streets with me! If a man made me pitiable—and a laughing-stock for everyone to whisper about!"

Her hands suddenly shook. She clenched them and repeated with a low, revolting laugh: "Pitiable—a laughing-stock! But you let him get away with it! And that's exactly what I'd do!"

She rose, put the flask of bourbon under her arm. She leaned down and whispered thickly in Jerry's ear: "Let him ditch me! He'd learn about women from me!"

"A boast, Mary—an idle boast. What would you do? Don't hedge. What could you do?"

"Blow around tomorrow at 11, Jerry, and I'll tell you what I'd do. No guesswork about what I'd do."

She flung her head back. The red, mottled smudging of her cheeks made her eyes brilliant—made her face theatrical with that intense pallor about her mouth and nose. She stood a moment quiet—her eyes gleaming like emeralds. She walked erectly, with only an occasional lurch, to the door.

She started to open this.

Jerry drew back with a sickening panic—a long, wild shiver of alarm. Lose—lose all chance—

"Mary—I'll only keep you a moment. I've simply got to get that picture."

"To hell with that picture! Get it tomorrow."

"And I've got to measure for new tie-backs for the sitting room drapes."

"Damn that sitting room. Whatta mess! I'm thinking of closing it up for good and all."

"But they'll charge you for the picture unless you give it to me now. I'll only keep you a moment. You see, they have another order for it, and the patron must see it tonight. I've an appointment about it."

Mrs. Townsend Arrives, but Opening of Her Mysterious Parcel Is Postponed

LILLIAN nodded her assent to my belief that Mrs. Townsend was bringing the fruit of some exciting discovery to the farmhouse.

"I'll just get out of the way," she said rising. "I have some letters to write and you can tell me all about it afterward."

I took her by the shoulders and put her back into her chair.

"If you dare to mention leaving here again," I threatened, I'll—I'll—tether you by your ankle to the chair as if you were a runaway brat."

"Oh! I'll stay," she said. "In fact, I'm dying to. But aren't you afraid Mrs. Townsend will be embarrassed by finding a stranger with you?"

"That proves you don't know Mrs. Townsend," I assured her. "She is one of the nicest little women going, a most likable person, looks about as assertive as a mouse, but I can't imagine the circumstances which would embarrass her."

"That listens good to me," she said. "Where are you going?"

"To ask Katie to serve that iced fruit drink and some of her little cakes when I ring for her. It is a hot day, and I fancy Mrs. Townsend would enjoy them."

"She deserves a place in a dime museum if she doesn't," Lillian commented. "Tell Katie to make an extra quantity. I could drink a gallon of that beverage the way I feel now."

"You shall have a hogshead if you like," I promised as I left for the kitchen. When I returned with Katie's familiar and comforting assurance, "I feex," still in my ears, Lillian's chin was cupped in her palms, while her elbows rested on her knees and she apparently was watching the distant horizon where the ocean met the sky.

I slid silently into a chair and took up a magazine, for when Lillian assumes that attitude, those who know her never disturb her. It means that her mind is far afield searching for the solution of some problem which troubles her.

But I was not able to guard her from interruption, for while she was still meditant, Mrs. Townsend's smart little roadster turned into the driveway and I hastened to the side of the veranda to meet her in the informal fashion of our farm household.

She was perfectly attired, but her grooming had suffered from the heat. She looked warm and tired as she descended from her car, a flat wrapped parcel carefully held in the crook of her left arm. She met my outstretched hand with her disengaged right one and began to talk hurriedly, excitedly.

"Oh, my dear! I never was so thrilled in my life. I wonder what it all means! Do let me show you this at once."

She extended the parcel and I took it, but made no attempt to undo it.

"We have plenty of time," I told her smiling, "and you have had a long ride. Come out to the veranda and talk to a very dear guest of mine who knows all about that day at The Larches. Then we will have a fruit punch of my own recipe of which I am absurdly proud. When you are rested and less warm we will examine this."

She pouted prettily.

"I believe you have ice-water in your veins instead of blood," she said. "At any rate, the fairies at your christening never gave you curiosity. But if you can stand it to wait to see it, I surely can wait to show it. And that fruit punch sounds most alluring."

Have That Footlight Sheen

By Edna Wallace Hopper

To my audiences, my hair is of everlasting interest. It always looks alive and women admire its constant sheen.

One of my "secrets" is mere cleanliness. The fascinating glow comes from the regular use of my liquid Wave and Sheen.

I shampoo my hair once a week under ordinary circumstances. After it dries I comb it and apply Wave and Sheen. Then I place my combs in the direction I wish the waves. (My hair is not curly).

You can get Wave and Sheen at any toilet counter. The price is 75 cents. Your money refunded if you are not pleased with results.

Every time you eat, The Danger Line is threatened

Each time you eat, tiny particles of food lodge in the pits on the grinding surfaces of your teeth and in the tiny V-shaped crevices formed around each tooth where the gum meets it—The Danger Line. These particles ferment and acids are formed that attack the teeth and cause gum irritations.

No tooth-brush has been devised which can reach all of these important places. So you must use a dentifrice that not only cleanses the teeth, but can neutralize the dangerous acids. Squibb's Dental Cream does this. It contains more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. And dentists agree that Milk of Magnesia is the safest antacid for use in the mouth. Squibb's Dental Cream thus protects your teeth, keeps them beautifully clean, and helps keep the mouth in a healthy condition. 40c a large tube.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WOMAN—AND THE "OTHER WOMAN"

THE ideal combination for a woman is an old head, a young heart and a baby face.

All these memory courses may be excellent things, but what a woman needs in order to be happy with the average man full of average weaknesses is to cultivate the fine arts of FORGETTING.

* * *

Next to the people who can tell you how to cure a cold the largest aggregation of altruists on earth consists of the people who can give you priceless advice on how to rule your husband or how to boss your wife.

HELEN ROWLAND

In the average man romance and sentiment are as hard to awaken before lunch time as a prima donna.

A man's wife may be the leading lady in his life, but his private secretary is the stage director, scene shifter, prompter, doorkeeper, property man and callboy. And what chance does any woman stand against a combination like that?

* * *

It takes two years for a girl baby to learn to talk—and all the rest of her life for her to learn NOT to!

* * *

After ten or twenty years of marriage a woman no longer expects her husband to remember the date of their wedding anniversary; all she asks is that he will STAY AWAKE long enough to help her and the neighbors celebrate it.

A man never actually discovers that he is in love until he wakes up some morning and suddenly finds that he is dependent upon some woman for everything from understanding and companionship to his amusements and the bicarbonate of soda.

* * *

Somehow, nothing so inspires a man with the spirit of research as to tell him that a woman is "dangerous."

* * *

This is the time of year when the thought of no woman can keep a man awake nights like the thought of going fishing.

"Green Sickness" Peculiar to Young Girls; Its Treatment

YOUNG girls have a critical period to face from about the time they enter high school till they are 18 years of age. During this time they may lose their rosy cheeks and become white, almost waxy in complexion. Sometimes the skin is greenish in color. There may be no emaciation or loss of plumpness, but the general appearance of the skin is far from normal.

On the slightest exertion there is loss of breath and inability to proceed with any physical task. Palpitation of the heart and frequent fainting spells are other disturbing symptoms. The power of the red blood cells to carry oxygen is materially lessened. This leads to the heart disturbances.

There may be the most remarkable perversions of appetite. It is not uncommon for girls to like pickles, but the girls I am discussing eat chalk, lead pencils and all sorts of indigestible and harmful things.

The heart disturbances mentioned may become so serious that "murmurs" develop. On this account and because of the general weakness, there is no ambition and indeed no strength to do any kind of work.

Dyspepsia, constipation and sometimes ulcers of the stomach may develop. The muscular weakness naturally affects the muscles of the stomach and intestines and digestive troubles follow as a matter of course.

There are marked changes in the composition of the blood. The red blood cells are decreased in number and size and they fail to carry the vital red substance. This lowers the normal function of the blood.

All these symptoms and conditions make up a disorder which is called "Chlorosis." It comes from a Greek word meaning green, and the name is well given to this condition, which has been called the "green sickness."

Worry, overwork, either physical or mental, lack of food and bad hygiene are the chief causes. Exposure to wet or cold may mark the beginning of the trouble. When girls learn the importance of warm and dry feet they will escape many ailments.

The disease is more common among city girls than in the country. Overcrowding, bad lighting and stair climbing appear to influence its development. Girls who go from the country with its freedom to the city with its confinements, are apt to suffer from chlorosis.

In the treatment, relaxation, mental freedom from care and responsibility come first. Nutritious food, gentle exercises, fresh air day and night, sunshine and baths will do wonders. The simple, hygienic life is the secret of cure.

The complications should be given general and remedial treatment. With care and observance of the physician's orders complete cure should be had in a few months.

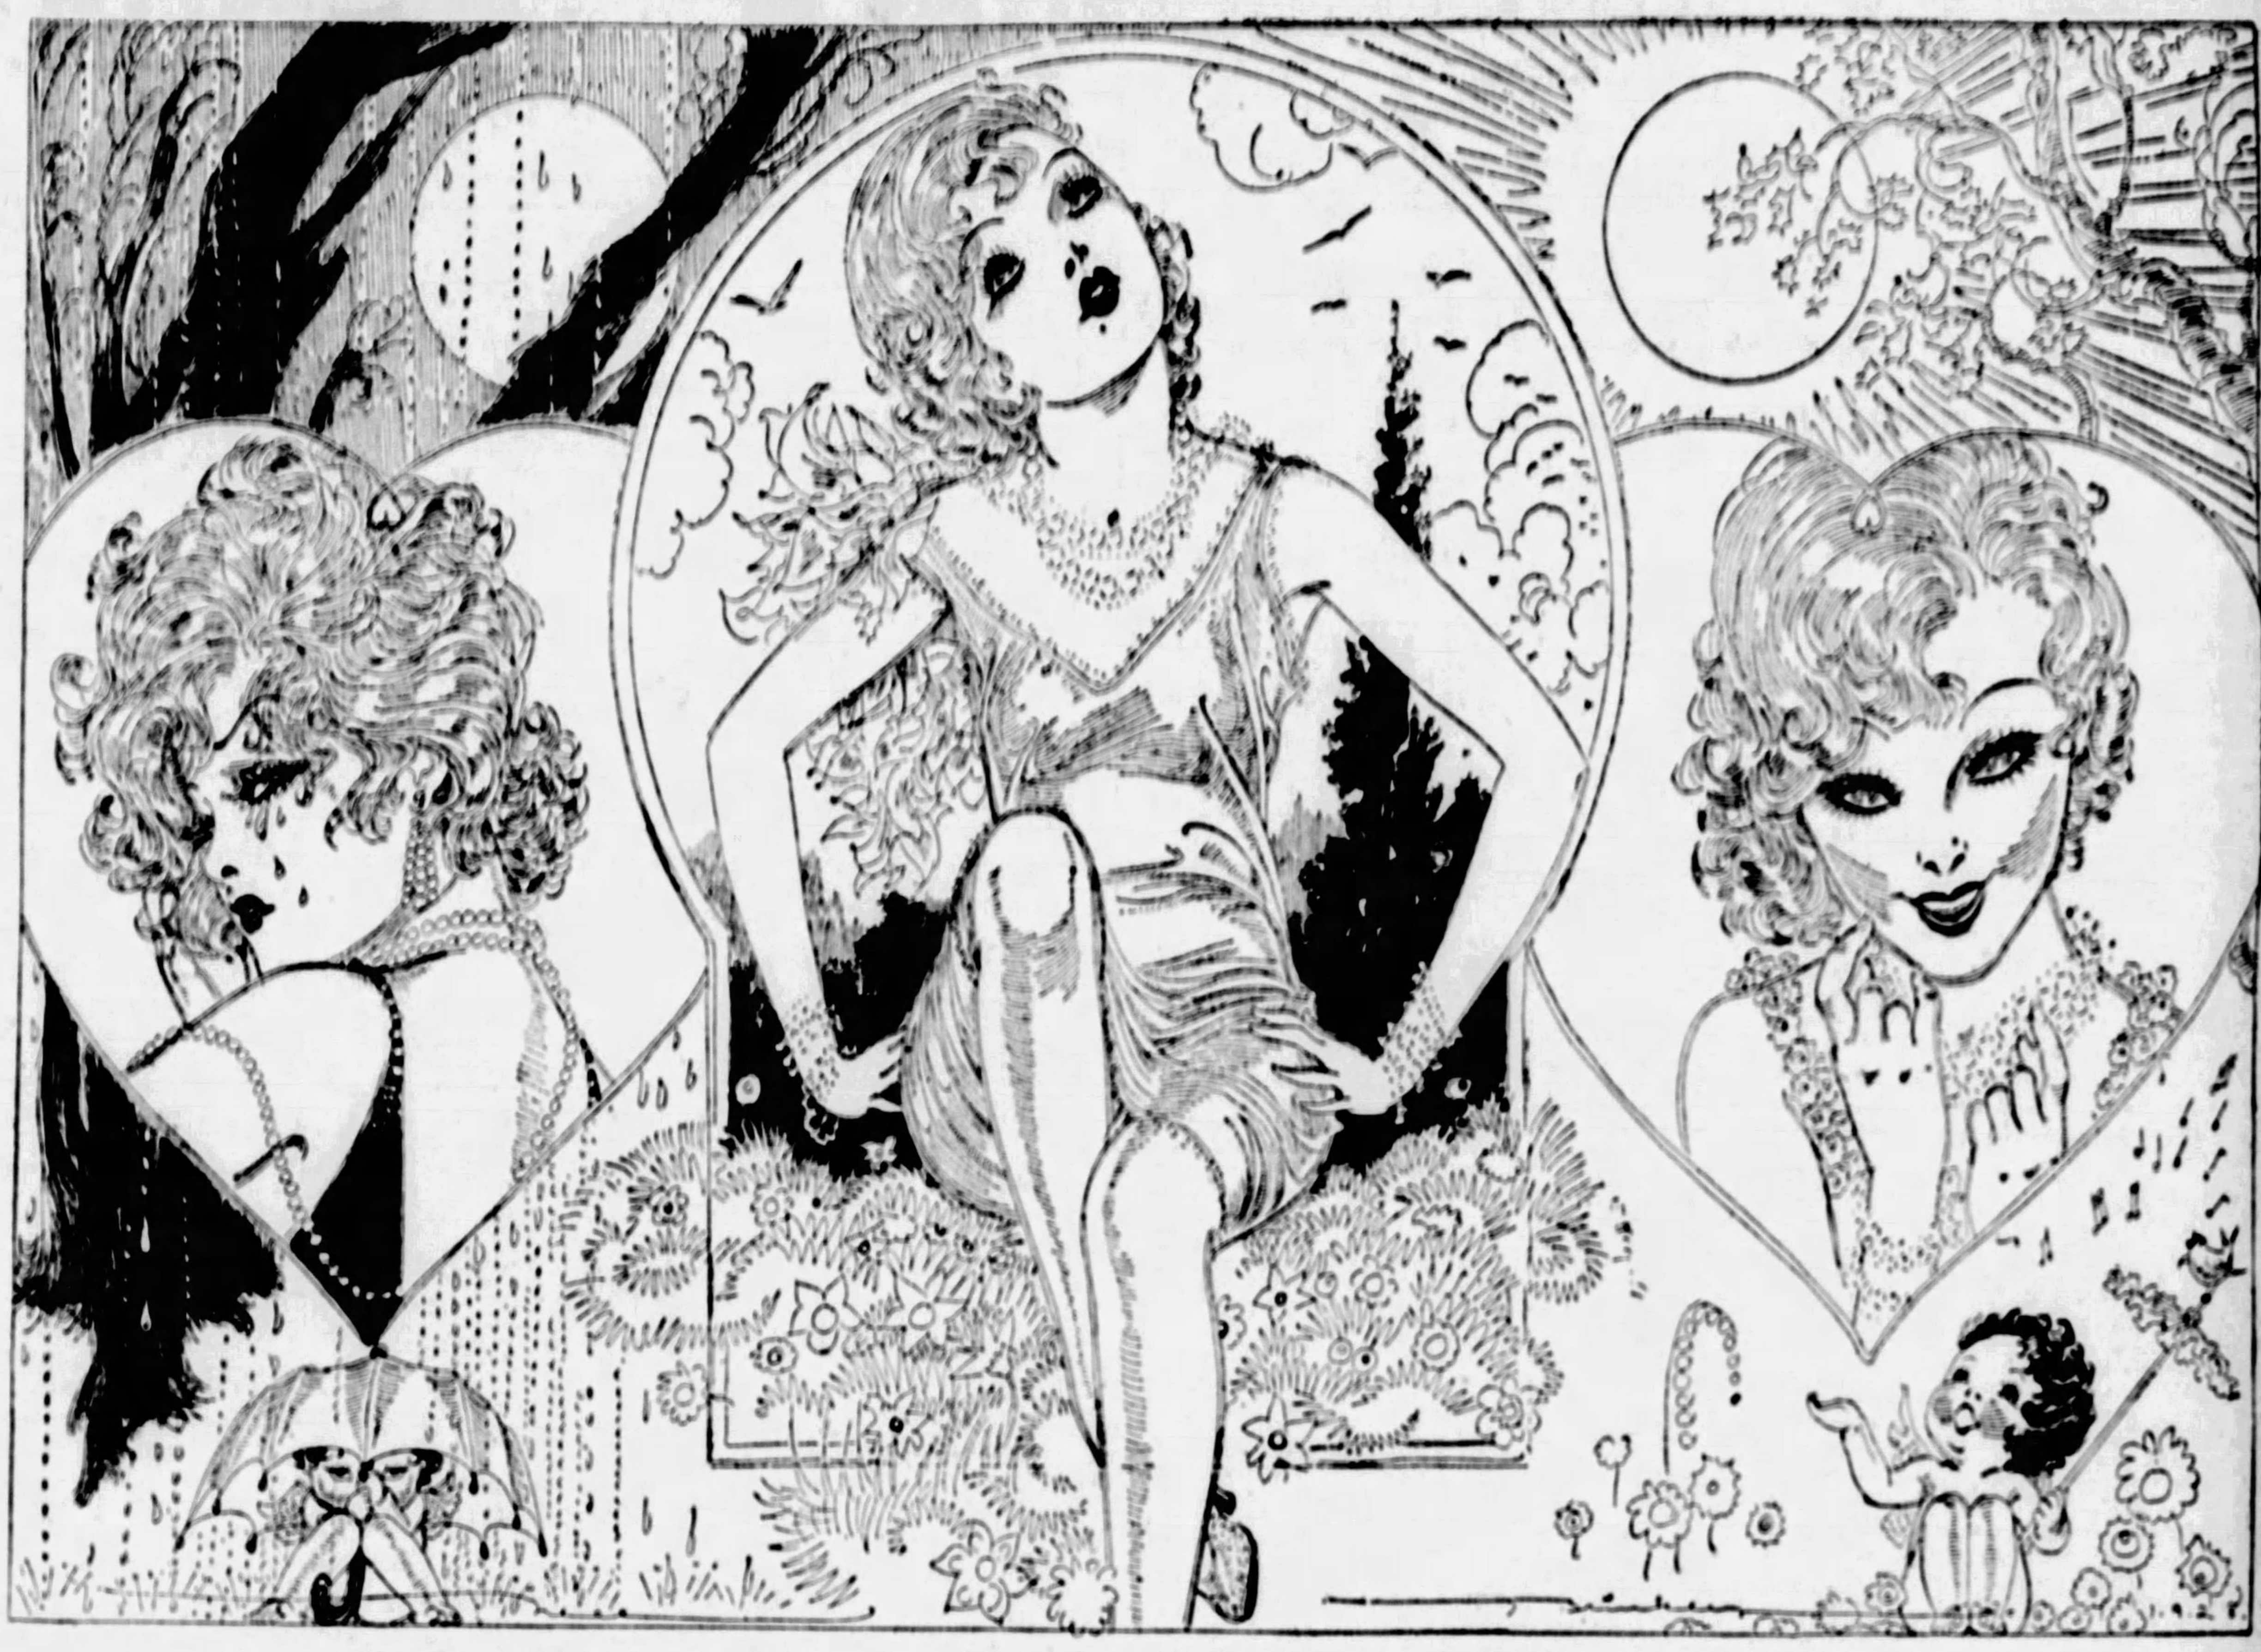
"THE HEART IS LIKE THE SKY"

Drawn by
Nell Brinkley



"The Heart Is Like the Sky, a Part of Heaven; But Changes, Night and Day, too, Like the Sky."

ONE day Cupid sits close, knees, wings, and toes and curls—though he isn't so careful about the curls, because they are natural—close and sullen under his little 'ella. For the rain pours, like silver necklaces, from the human heart. A sad heart, a mad heart, like the sky. Night in the mysterious human heart! A pale moon, covered and uncovered by flying rags of worried clouds, dark trees waving their branches in the overcast heaven of the heart, a wild wind in the heart and then silence, only a patter with falling tears. And Cupid bunches himself closer, smitten into silence, the talkative fellow, by the North-Pole-look in the eyes that own the heart.

Another day! Every day is another day, "Manana" is truly worth sighing for, for "tomorrow," the other day, is always different. In the heart. Heaven shows itself again. The golden sun is out; green leaves are dancing; sudden flowers cocking their faces and shaking out their perfume at the world. Sun and azure sky; birds singing; lambs kicking up their heels; in the human heart. The same that was yesterday dark and rainy. Sunshiny weather in the human heart! A clear day. Cupid sunning himself, with a ridiculous sunshade of pink. Happiness walking in the grass in her barefeet. Daytime; singing and sunshine; in the happy heart. The singing is Cupid's gay voice. And the eyes that own the heart are almost shut with smiling, and a beckoning finger crooks itself rosily and says "come hither!"

"The heart is like the sky, a part of heaven." If your heaven is cloudy, and the room of your heart is dark, remember that there is another day! the skies change; it is only night and darkness half of the time!
—NELL BRINKLEY.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Friday, May 11

A DAY of liveliness and probably stirring events may be presaged from the interesting configurations found among the planets. It is a favorable time for renewing contracts, signing documents and furthering all publishing, promotion and literary activities or for making changes of secondary importance. Social, domestic, affectional matters or things pertaining to the purely feminine may cause anxiety or be complicated.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and successful year, with some minor changes. It is fortunate for making contracts and for promotion, but purely personal matters may be complicated and cause anxiety.

A child born on this day should be versatile and talented, possibly in original ways, in science, invention or literature. It may be fond of change.

Color-and its effect on feminine beauty-by NED WAYBURN-famous stage director and theatrical producer

COLOR can make or mar feminine beauty, says Mr. Wayburn. One tone in your particular shade of face powder will soften, beautify, heighten a light or deepen a shadow and so bring out to the full and enhance all the gifts of nature. Another fails utterly—looks commonplace.

From the thousands of girls—debutantes, society women and others—who come to him seeking a stage career, Mr. Wayburn has made some very careful observations and writes as follows:

"I recommend always the Houbigant face powder shades, because they seem to me to have a property of combining with the natural skin tones and immeasurably increasing their beauty. This property is not possessed to my knowledge in the same degree by any other make of powder."

Not only are Houbigant shades superior, but the powder itself, is of course, of superb quality, fragranced with the incomparable Houbigant odeurs—$1.50 and 75c the box. For purse use it comes in the smart hexagonal double compact for $2.50. Choose, too, as your powder base, the one perfect product for the purpose—Quelques Fleurs Skin Lotion. 4 oz.—$1.

SHARKEY TO BOX GAINS

TORONTO, May 10.—(AP.)—Larry Gains, heavyweight champion of Canada, has been matched to meet Jack Sharkey, the Boston heavyweight, at Montreal on May 23 in a 10-round bout.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

VIRGIL BARNES did not have as much "stuff" as many pitchers who preceded him on Fogarty Knoll, but the slender righthander of the Giant staff pitched an intelligent game and he used his screw ball effectively. Many sharpshooters appearing in Oakland this year had more speed on their fast pitch than was noted on Barnes' offerings but few have been able to check the Buccos in such a consummate manner.

JESS BARNES' younger brother stopped the Waner boys completely and any player will tell you that this is some feat. Lloyd and Paul faced Virgil eight times without the semblance of a safety. In all the freebooters collected only five hits, Glen Wright being the only Pirate to get two into safe territory. Wright hit a double and a single and both were clean smashes. Grantham, Scott and Harris made the other three blows.

SCOTT, by the way, is playing bangup ball in left field. Pete is confident that he will hit righthand pitching as well as the southpaws if he is given sufficient opportunity. He has an impressive stance at the plate regardless of the pitcher and he is fast on the bases.

SCOTT has played cleverly in the outfield since replacing the injured Comorosky. Meantime, Poosa Barnhart is warming a seat on the bench. Barney is always considered dangerous at bat. He was sent in to bat for Gooch in the seventh with runners on third and second. Barney was eventually put on base. Joe Harris batted for Dawson, but Jackson nabbed his effort. Joe stung a hard foul down the left field line that helped to get him in a hole. His hopper almost evaded the enemy shortstop, but Travis was able to make a force play.

THE Giants are not up to their usual appeal. With Bill Terry and Frank O'Doul in action they are more like a New York entry. These two left hand sluggers would give color to any ball club and you can bet the family album that both will be in action just as soon as they are well enough to play.

JACKSON'S dashing play is a big factor in the success of the Giants. This sterling shortstop is a hard worker every day and he is a big threat at the plate. Andy Reese, subbing at first for Billy Terry, apparently is pleasing his boss by his hustling play. Reese has played third base and the outfield for the Giants on other occasions.

CATCHER FRANCIS HOGAN is living up to the expectations of McGraw and others who picked him to be a star receiver. Hogan seems to know what to do in emergencies and his batting is a feature of the Giants' attack.

Petty Sent Home

CHICAGO, May 10.—(AP.)—Jess Petty, $15,000 pitcher with Brooklyn, was fined $200 and suspended indefinitely and ordered home by Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Dodgers today for violation of the training rules.

Petty to date has participated in five games, winning one and losing four.

Elizabeth Ryan Releases Her Partners

LONDON, May 10.—(AP.)—Elizabeth Ryan, the veteran California tennis star, is understood to have released Helen Wills and Frank Hunter from any obligation to play with her in the Wimbledon doubles championships as a result of the ruling that she is ineligible to play with the American women's team in the Wightman cup matches.

Miss Ryan won the British mixed doubles titles with Hunter last summer and the women's championship with Miss Wills. She feels that under the circumstances this year the United States Lawn Tennis Association will prefer to have both find other partners.

Miss Ryan was ruled out of the Wightman cup competition, as an American representative, because her permanent residence is in England.

Locals May Land Victory

By JESS CARVER.

NO MORE than ten or a dozen points, if that many, are expected to separate Pitt and Penn State at the conclusion of their dual track and field meet at State College on Saturday afternoon. Not since 1923, when the Lions won by a 75-60 score, have the two institutions boasted such evenly matched track teams, neither of which possesses any outstanding power.

This meet Saturday is going to be a battle for third places. Both figure to win seven firsts, with the high jump in doubt. It may be that the Lions will capture eight of the 15 events, in which case, they are almost certain to down the Panthers.

Ken Webecan is going to have to bear the biggest burden for Pitt. His task will be the hardest, for it will be up to him to get a first and two seconds at least out of the sprint events. If he runs as he did against West Virginia, and sweeps the three races, beating McCracken, Bartholomew and Bates in the 100, 220 and Karback in the quarter, he will almost assure Pitt's triumph.

Welch, Pitt's captain, should win the discus, shot and javalin and possible place second in the broad jump. Pickard of Pitt and Gwinn will certainly take the pole vault and hammer throw, and Knoblock looms as the best man in the hurdles.

Penn State holds a great advantage in the mile and 2-mile races with Cox and Offenhauser and Haskins in form.

Washington, South Brownsville, Beaver Falls and New Castle are expected to fight it out for the W. P. I. A. L. championships at the annual meet in the Pitt stadium Saturday. Because the team won the Tech interscholastic title, the South Brownsville, with Stribila as its ace, will rule a favorite. Beaver Falls and Washington will likely divide the points taken by Salem and Lock Haven in the Tech meet, while Beaver High, with a good vaulter in Bob Puech and Tom Chantler certain to cause some trouble in the 100 and 220, may win a high place.

Tech has a chance to win its first track meet when Westminster is forced in a dual meet in the Tartan Bowl Saturday. The U. Ps have a strong team composed of a flock of veterans, but Coach Guy Halferty has his team in pretty fair trim and may upset the Blue and White.

West Virginia ought not have much trouble with Bethany in the dual meet at Morgantown, though specialists of the caliber of Elliott, Tarr and Markley will assure the Bisons of at least four first places.

Nine games, six at home, and including contests with Wash-Jeff, Loyola University of Baltimore, Slippery Rock and St. Thomas College of Scranton, Pa., have been carded for the 1928 Duquesne University football schedule and announced by Manager of Athletics John Holohan.

The W. & J., St. Thomas, Slippery Rock and Loyola games are new on the Duke schedule. Loyola and Slippery Rock will be played at home, St. Thomas and Wash-Jeff away.

The Dukes will also enter the Thanksgiving Day lists, meeting Waynesburg here on that date.

The complete schedule follows:

September 29—Slippery Rock State Teachers at Pittsburgh.

October 6—St. Thomas College at Scranton.

October 13—Wash-Jeff at Little Washington.

October 2 0—Loyola University of Baltimore at Pittsburgh.

Octoberr 28—Geneva at Beave Falls.

November 3—Westminster at Pittsburgh.

November 10—Permanently open.

November 17—Thiel at Pittsburgh.

November 24—Bethany at Pittsburgh.

November 29—Waynesburg at Pittsburgh, 10:30 a. m.

BRITONS ENTER OPEN PLAY

NEW YORK, May 10.—George Von Elm, of the Rancho Golf Club, Los Angeles, and amateur champion in 1926, has entered the national open golf championship and will play in the qualifying rounds on June 11 at the County Club of Detroit, according to the United States Golf Association.

Word has been received that Britain's greatest shot makers—Archie Compston, Abe Mitchell, George Duncan and Aubrey Boomer—will tee up at Olympia Fields on June 21 for the championship rounds, as the U. S. G. A. has set aside 10 places for foreign entrants without compelling them to qualify. Australia will be represented by Rufus Stewart, present open and professional champion, and the British amateurs will have R. R. Burton, of the Royal Wimbledon Golf Club of London, as their entry.

Prominent American entries to date also include Bill Mehlhorn, Willie Klein, Larry Nabholtz, Tom Boyd, Emmet French, Tommy Harmon, Joe Kirkwood, Al Espinosa, Keefe Carter, Al Watrous, Mike Brady, Charley Mothersele, Freddie McLeod, Bob Barnett, James C. Ward and H. A. Fortson, Georgia amateur state champion.

Last year 898 entries were received for the qualifying tests in 17 cities throughout the country, and it is expected that the entries this year will exceed that number before the closing date on May 23. The local test will be played at Oakmont on June 11 under the auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association.

ETCHEBASTER ADVANCES NEAR WORLD TITLE

LONDON, May 10.—(AP.)—Pierre Etchebaster, French and American court tennis champion, is a step nearer the world's title today. Yesterday he again defeated George Covey of England, the defending titleholder, in three out of four sets. 5-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-1.

Etchebaster now leads, six sets to two, and needs only one more in the final match Saturday to clinch the crown.

TOMMY ARMOUR on GOLF

By TOMMY ARMOUR, U.S. and Canadian Open Champion

RECENTLY, at the close of one of my rounds, I was approached by a spectator who wanted to know if I would recommend for him the adoption of the stance which I use. And it occurred to me that others may also be interested. In this particular stance I advised against it, but I would like to explain my reason for doing so. In the first place I knew nothing of his swing or his game, therefore I could not say whether the adoption of my particular stance would benefit him or not. For me the closed stance, left foot a trifle closer to the line of flight than the right, brings results. But would it in the case of this player? That's a question.

THEN as to regulating the stance in the matter of distance between the two feet, and also the distance the feet are away from the ball, a few pointers may be suggested. No fixed rule in the terms of feet or inches can be given either way. But here is a general guide. Place the feet well enough apart, so that there is a sense of balance at the top of the backswing, but not far enough to cause difficulty in turning the body in pivoting. This for full strokes. On the shorter strokes, less distance is needed in proporton to the length of the backswing. But the same guide holds good. If there is very little pivoting to be done, the feet may be quite close together and still provide good balance.

AS TO the distance the feet are to be placed away from the ball for a full stroke, stand far enough so that, when the clubhead is placed in position back of the ball, the arms down to the elbows fall just free from the body. They should never be held very far out. As the length of the shot decreases

CLOSING INDOOR SHOW TONIGHT

The final indoor boxing show of the season in McKeesport is scheduled for the Palisades roller rink tonight, with Phil Scelio of McKeesport and Larry Brignolia of Erie meeting in the 10-round main bout. It is a return battle, Brignolia having won a close decision over Scelio in eight rounds at Motor Square Garden recently. Scelio weathered Brignolia's heavy punching in the early rounds and was the aggressor toward the finish.

Jimmy Belmont of Braddock will be seen in the semi-final against Young Guido, Niles (O.) lightweight, a substitute for Joe Louder, of Arlington Heights, who turned an ankle in training; Mickey Solmen, of New Castle and Joe Kilrane of Johnstown will box the second bout and the opener will be between Johnny Pollock of Youngstown and Frankie Moran of Homewood.

Tommy Murphy of Cannonsburg and Kid Lencho of Cincinnati will meet in a windup at Cincinnati tonight, with Young Terry McGovern of Chambersville boxing Frankie Wilson of Louisville in the semi-final.

Johnny Datto boxes Jackie Johnston, Kid Francis meets Vic Burrone and Pete Firpo engages Billy Shaw in 10-round bouts at Detroit tonight.

Funeral services will be held at the Church of St. John the Baptist, Thirty-sixth street and Liberty avenue, at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for Billy Corcoran, former local manager of boxers and promoter, who died Tuesday.

Mac Out To Win

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

No Club Can Win Them All, and Pirates' Defeat Was Due After Long Streak of Good Ball—First Time This Year Both Waners Have Been Held Hitless

ONE baseball law that has never been repealed nor changed, and that will stand as long as the game itself is that "you can't win them all."

So don't let your confidence waver just because the Pirates lost a game to the Giants yesterday. Inasmuch as the Bucs had won four games in a row, had captured seven out of eight and nine out of 11 bouts up to yesterday, they were just about due to drop one. They will drop many more before the season ends. The Bushmen could not be expected to keep up the terrific pace at which they had been going, with a club batting average of excess of .400 for more than a week.

Virgil Barnes.

THERE had to be a let-down sometime and it came, that's all. Position in the standing of the clubs at this date means absolutely nothing, and occasional defeats are not to be worried about so long as the Corsairs stick to the pleasing habit they developed during the last two weeks of winning the big majority of their debates.

The thing to do is to keep on encouraging them, and to give them the solid support they need to start right in on another winning streak.

BESIDES, in looking back over the defeat of yesterday, you will observe from the fact that the locals were shutout that they were up against a little better-than-ordinary pitching. It's all well enough to say that the Piratees fell off in their hitting, but don't forget that Virgil Barnes had a lot to do with the Pittsburgh slump. In fact, Barnes was pitching such splendid ball that only 17 Buccaneers batted in the first five innings and the fifth round closed without a hit to their credit. The fans were just beginning to speculate on the possibility of Virgil's duplicating the feat of his brother Jess, who while with the Giants on May 7, 1922, pitched a no-hit game against the Phillies and blanked them, 6 to 0, the same score as that which decided yesterday's game. Joe Dawson spoiled the no-hit stuff by cracking a single to left for Pittsburgh's first hit when he led off in the sixth.

BARNES stood out in other performances yesterday that isn't done in the National League very often and that is not at all likely to become a habit among Heydler hurlers. He held not only one but both of the Waners hitless in a total of eight times at bat.

Viewed from any angle, that spells considerable pitching. It's no easy trick to keep even one of the "Poison brothers" from crashing into the hit column once or oftener, so the hurler must be credited with a far more remarkable feat when he succeeds in keeping both from making a bingle.

That was the first time it had been done this season. There have been two days on which Paul didn't get a hit, and five days on which Lloyd failed to connect, but up to yesterday the two never were hitless in any of the 22 games played by the Pirates.

Miller Huggins.

INCIDENTALLY, in the case of Paul, yesterday's game broke a long streak of sequential slamming. The elder of the brothers had batted safely in 15 consecutive games before Barnes stopped him.

Paul has gone hitless in only one other game this year, prior to yesterday, that being the contest of April 19, the season's opener at Forbes Field, in which he was prevented from batting safely by Pitchers Frankhouse, Littlejohn and Sherdel of the Cardinals.

COLLEGE players are the biggest gamble in baseball if you let Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees cast the deciding vote. Occasionally a player like Frankie Frisch, Eddie Collins, Mike Lynch, and others step right in and hold down big league jobs, and a few, Lou Gehrig, for example, are able to come back and rise to stardom after only a short period of development in the minor leagues. Huggins admits all this, and further says he would not be in favor of giving up the practice of scouting college teams for promising material. He concedes that the chance of landing one real player makes it worth while, and adds that "if you didn't scout among the colleges and sign a certain number of their products you would feel that the other clubs were getting the jump on you.

HUGGINS points out a couple of notable instances in which college players became stars after looking like false alarms in their first appearance in the majors.

"College ball players would be all right if they came to you with the proper attitude on baseball," Huggins is quoted. "They have the anti-minor league complex — don't want to go down for more experience. They have the pride complex. If you take a college pitcher out of the box he gets peeved.

Chalmer Cissel.

"And those collegians give you a lot of anguish when you have 'em and when you let them go. There's Langford, who is playing well for Cleveland. We took him out of a college in the South, worked with him for a couple of years, and got nowhere. Then he sprouted with Des Moines last year.

"WE TOOK Redfern out of a college in North Carolina, worked with him a few years, only to see him come along for the Whitesox.

"You will find that the vast percentage of college players who make good in the majors got their grounding in the minors. You've got to learn this business like any other line, and it's only ever so seldom that you get a genius like Frisch."

CHALMER CISSEL, Whitesox shortstop, one of the sensations of the baseball year, told Frank Graham he had bought his way to the majors in two years for a cavalry horse and $85.

He said that in 1926 he was serving the first year of a second three-enlistment in the Second United States Cavalry, when he decided he would like baseball better. He had an offer from the Des Moines club of the Western League, so he gave up his horse and $85 to buy his way out of service. Portland bought the youngster from Des Moines for $13,000, a record price in the minors, and sold him to the Whitesox after one year for $123,000 in cash and players. Cissell batted safely in his first 14 games in the American League this year before Owen Carroll of Detroit stopped him.

BUCS OUT TO START NEW WIN STREAK

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE Pirates are eager to start another winning streak and there is no club they would rather use as a stepping stone than the Giants. McGraw's hustlers checked the drive of the Bushwhackers after they had won four in a row, but the home players today are whetting their appetites for the third game of the series scheduled for this afternoon.

Donie Bush and his players feel that a spurt at this time would put them in first place, and while there may be no particular advantage to be gained by being on top at this time of the year, there is no club willing to pass up the honor.

The Pirates have Wiz Kremer all set for the third game of the series. Kremer has been limping around with a sore leg, but the ailing member has received attention and Remy now is ready to take his turn on the slab. It is likely that Fred Fitzsimmons and his knuckle ball will be on display for the Giants.

BARNS HURLS WELL

Despite their injuries, the Giants rose in their power yesterday to smite the Oaklanders. The principal reason for the Pittsburgh setback was Virgil Barnes. Now Virgil did not have any extraordinary amount of stuff to show the Pirates, but he was a smart young man on Fogarty Knoll, so much so that he had the Buccos lofting his screw ball or hitting other kinds of drives that resulted in putouts.

Barnes was good enough to blank the Pirates, 6 to 0, it being the first time this season that the New Yorkers have achieved a shutout success. In using the whitewash brush on the Buccos, Barnes was given fine support on defense, and punch supplied by Francis Hogan, Andy Cohen, Andy Reese and one or two others was quite enough to give the enemy a safe margin of tallies.

COHEN IN LINEUP

Cohen made a rather unexpected return to the game. The ailing infielder was ushered into action largely because of the misfortune

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

THE Preakness is slated tomorrow. It's a horse race and not what you thought.

It's a classic at Pimlico, which is in Baltimore, which is noted for five things, oysters, monuments, the Orioles, this race and the big fire.

Everybody's picking Nassak to win the Preakness and Reigh Count to win the Kentucky Derby next week. If they do that'll prove the Delaney fight was a Mickey Finn.

DERBY DAY COMES FOUR DAYS AFTER STRAW HAT DAY. GOOD CHANCE TO GET YOURSELF A HARD SKIMMER FOR NEXT SEASON.

Mike Menosky, former Pittfed, Boston Red Sox and Washington Senator outfielder, at last is out of the minors. He's captaining a Class A sandlot team in Detroit.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig are holding back their act this season until all of the customers get seated.

WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IS MORE POSTPONEMENTS OF TRACK MEETS.

Isn't the Tunney-Heeney fight one heavyweight title battle too many this year?

Just think, if it were not for the cables and radio we wouldn't have to worry about the detailed descriptions of the British open matches.

Western Pennsylvania runners certainly are smart boys. All of 'em knew enough to drop out of Pyle's Marathon.

ALWAYS SAID PITTSBURGH WAS IDEALLY LOCATED. IT'S OFF THE ROUTE OF THE BUNION DERBY.

Will McKechnie must be reading up on Shakespeare, too.

What if you did miss the circus? The Phillies will be here soon.

Nick Perlick says if he knew Rickard would be so hard up against it that he'd have to pick Heeney for Tunney he would have remained in the ring himself.

LON CHANEY GETS NEXT CRACK AT PLAYING LEFT FIELD FOR THE PIRATES. IF HE FAILS THE BRIG IS SUNK.

Soccer is stymied. They can't start the new season because they forgot to close the old one.

IN UNIFORM

After going without a uniform for three seasons and not winning a pennant in that time, John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, is tricked out in full regalia once more, showing a real zest for the fight and a keenness to get back in his winning stride.

BENCH MANAGER

McGraw does no more coaching on the sidlines, claiming he can run the club better from the bench, but he has got away from the idea of directing maneuvers in shirt sleeves as above. He hasn't been on the coaching lines for about eight seasons.

HITTING GROUNDERS IN PRACTICE

McGraw gets into action in the batting practice, hitting grounders to the infield with some of his old-time display of vim. His daily appearance in this role adds color to the showing of the Giants in the various cities of the National League circuit and also proves the means of giving the leader of the Giants some good exercise. There's lots of pep in the old boy yet.

CANUCK GAINS IN DERBY

BUTLER, Ind., May 10.—(AP.)—Philip Granville, Canadian champion pedestrian, was the first transcontinental footracer to reach here after traversing the 41.8 miles from Ligonier, Ind., in 5:36:22.

John Salo of Passaic, N. J., holder of third place, finished second for the day in 6:01:55. His elapsed time is 453:53:23. Gavuzzi's elapsed time of 421:02:06, retains his lead of 6 hours, 9 minutes and 23 seconds over Payne, whose time is 427:11:29. Perralla's elapsed time is 484:45:13.

HAGEN, SARAZEN SECOND

SANDWICH, Eng., May 1— (INS.) — Flashing another epochal round of 71, Jose Jurado, overnight sensation from the Argentine, took the play away from Bill Mehlhorn, Walter Hagen and the Americans in general by topping the field in the second round of the British open golf championship today with a 36-hole total of 145. Hagen, replying with a fine 73 today, shared second position with Gene Sarazen with an aggregate of 148.

Mehlhorn, blowing up like a premature blast, took 41 strokes on the last nine holes to score a 78 and tie with Archie Compston, arch rival of Hagen, at 149.

Tommy Armour, American champion, was definitely eliminated from further play in the tournament by his 80 of today, which gave him an aggregate at 161, more than the forbidden 15 strokes behind the leader. Jim Barnes retrieved his bad round of yesterday with a 73 today, but he was well back from the pace at 154.

STUPPLE, M'HUGH FAIL

Bob Stupple, Chicago pro, took 85 today, and with 82 yesterday had a total of 167, far too many strokes to continue in the title test. Douglas Grant, American, residing in London, and Johnny McHugh, of Los Angeles, both amateurs, also were eliminated. Grant took 81 today for a total of 161, and McHugh took 86 on his second round. He had 79

MORNING DRILL FOR CUBS MAY BECOME PERMANENT

CHICAGO, May 10. — (AP.) — Morning classes for the Cubs have been so successful that Manager Joe McCarthy threatens to make them a permanent part of the team's curricula.

A week ago the Cubs returned home after a four-game losing streak. Errors were frequent and hits scattered. McCarthy called his men together, gave a brief lecture and then told them morning classes would be the order until they improved.

And the Cubs have improved, winning all five games since the first morning class.

Will Seek Court Aid

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP.)—Claiming an option until next November on the services of Tommy Loughran, the world's light-heavyweight champion, Tex Rickard has announced he will take legal steps to prevent Loughran from fighting Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., for a rival promoter, Humbert Fugazy, at Ebbets Field, June 13.

Rickard called his lawyers into consultation and issued his threat of seeking a legal injunction a few hours after Loughran had signed with Fugazy for a 15-round title match. Lomski already had come to terms for a return bout with the champion he barely knocked out last winter.

Rickard exhibited his option, specifying the champion was not to engage in a title bout for any promoter before November 1, 1928, without the written consent of the Madison Square Garden Corporation. It was signed last January 3, by Loughran, his manager, Joe Smith and Jess McMahon, Rickard's matchmaker.

Smith, denied the option was iron-clad however, and declared he would put the issue up to the boxing commission. Precedent established by that body favors Fugazy, who has the contracts for both fighters, whereas Rickard has only one.

Paddock Certain Amateur Status Is O. K.

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP.)—Charley Paddock, famous California sprinter, is certain that his amateur status, now under some scrutiny by the Amateur Athletic Union as a result of his motion picture-personal appearance tour in the East, will stand the test.

In a statement to the Associated Press Paddock declared he "was not going to take any money out of the proposition and jeopardize my amateur status" at a time when he has his hopes set on making the American Olympic team for the third successive time.

Referring to his recent statement that any money he might make from the venture would be withheld until after the Olympics and paid him only with the approval of the A. A. U., Paddock said:

"The actual money I might get for this picture is tooo small an amount to become professionalized for, and I have not changed my mind, reports from Boston to the contrary. I have nothing to worry about because I have not sacrificed my amateur status."

W. VA. NINE FACES TESTS IN MARSHALL

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 10. —The West Virginia University baseball team will face another severe test this week-end when it meets Marshall College in a two-game series at Morgantown. Last season the Mountaineers split the twin bill with Marshall, and the Thundering Herd expects to equal, or better the 1927 record. The Cabell Countians hold two victories over Morris-Harvey, as well as the Mountaineers, and consequently, the Marshall outfit is shooting for the state collegiate title.

Marshall has a heavy hitting team this year and the Big Green pitching staff has been unusually effective. Toler, who shutout West Virginia last year, will probably twirl one of the games, while Fisher will work the other contest. The team is composed of experienced veterans and their infield is particularly strong.

Fugitt, at first; Barrack, at second, Hensley at third, and Watson, at third, make up the inner defense which is probably stronger than the Jack, Vacheresse, Phillips, LaRue combination of the state varsity.

West Virginia has a slight edge in the outfield, since Harrick, Hand and Weber form a better trio of outer-gardeners than Noyes, McKown and Nichols.

AMSTERDAM PREPARES FOR WETS' INVASION

AMSTERDAM, May 10.—(INS.)—Visitors to the Olympic games in Amsterdam this year will not want for liquid refreshment. Ordinarily Amsterdam cafes and bars close at 1 a. m. but the town council, perhaps catering to visitors from "dry" countries, has decreed that they may remain open an hour later while the games are in progress.

PARKER HAS STAR

TOLEDO, May 10.—Kinney Direct, 2:02¾, the fast Canadian-bred pacer that won 15 races last year, is scheduled to arrive at the Ft. Miami track here in charge of Rupe Parker about May 15. He will be prepared for the $25,000 Page Dairy race, listed for July 10.

Aussies' Defeat Feature of Cup Play

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP.)—Davis cup tennis teams representing eight European nations have safely passed the first step toward victory in the European zone. One more reached the second round by default, Sweeden winning from South Africa; while India, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, Portugal and New Zealand drew first-round byes. Ireland and Holland have not yet played their first-round tie.

One of the greatest sensations in Davis cup history was provided by Italy in defeating Australia, 4 to 1. The Australians, the greatest factors in Davis cup tennis from their first entrance in 1905 to the sudden rise of France, took a sudden drop as the Italians scored their first important Davis cup victory. It was the first time since 1905 that the men from down under had failed to reach either the challenge round or the final, except in 1913, when they were beaten by the United States in the first round. Australia has won the cup six times.

ITALIANS END AUSSIE HOPES

GENOA, Italy, May 10.—One of the mightiest factors in Davis cup tennis since its first entry in 1905, Australia has fallen by the wayside in the first round of the 1928 cup play. The Aussies were defeated by the Italian team here yesterday, when Gerald Patterson, veteran internationalist, lost to Baron Hubert De Murpurgo, another veteran, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1.

The victory gave Italy three out of the four matches played and clinched the issue.

It was simultaneously the biggest achievement in Davis cup play any Italian team has ever scored and the most stunning setback the Australians have ever received.

In 17 years of cup competition Australia has only once before failed to reach either the final or challenge round. That was in 1913, when they were put out in the first round by the United states.

Olympia Fields Courses Closed To Tourneys

CHICAGO, May 10. — (AP.)—Olympia Fields, one of the country's largest and finest golf courses, has closed its four courses to trade tournaments.

In taking the action the board of directors explained that tournaments have so increased in numbers, they interfered with the rights of members.

Barring trade tournament does not prohibit holding of tournaments staged by the United States Golf Association, the Western Association and the Chicago District Association at the club, they said. The national open championship will be held over the No. 4 course at Olympia, June 21, 22 and 23.

ILLINOIS NINE SWEEPS SERIES WITH JAPANESE

URBANA, Ill., May 10.—(AP.)—The University of Illinois baseball team won its second straight victory over Keio University of Japan, 2 to 1, yesterday.

The contest was a pitcher's battle between Miyatake of Keio and Andrews and Williams of the Illini. Both teams got but four hits each. Keio scored its first and only run in the sixth inning when Hamai hit a home run. Illinois scored its first run in the first inning when Finn singled and O'Grady tripled, and the winning run in the third when two men walked and Sweeney singled.

which befell another player. Jimmy Welsh wrenched his ankle in fielding a drive in the left garden on the previous afternoon. Welsh was in such condition yesterday that he could not perform so Manager McGraw decided to switch Melvin Ott from second base to left field. Cohen went to his accustomed post at second.

The Jewish star was in rare batting form. In four trips to the plate yesterday Andy performed like a star. He laid down a timely sacrifice that figured in runmaking in his first trip to the plate; his next effort was a hard-hit ball that was nabbed by Traynor; on his next trip to the barrier, Andy singled and in the last joust Pirates, Cohen tripled to score one of his pals.

Joe Dawson, three times a winner for the Pirates before the Giants came to town, was unequal to the task of stopping the Polo Grounders. The invaders bunched their blows on Dawson and scored four runs while he operated. Joe Harris batted for Joe in the seventh and Ervin Brame finished for the Bucs. The Giants scored two runs while the International League recruit was in action.

The four councils have a combined membership of 3,400.

Baseball Loop In Africa Needs Equipment

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP.)—There is a baseball league of 16 teams and 300 players, with only 36 gloves. It is the ligue tunisienne de baseball, in North Africa. Dr. C. Guyer Kelley, of Baltimore, who is in New York on a short visit from Tunis, reports the need of "the only league between Paris and the Philippines" for cast off equipment.

The league got its start in 1921 when the Arab boys of the American Methodist School formed the Arab Orioles, who won the first two championships of North Africa. Now the 16-team league has players of nine nationalities. Most of the boys are paid only about $10 a month and cannot buy gloves and balls.

New Schools Enter W. Va. State Meet

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 10.—When the entry blanks for the West Virginia high schools competing in the sectional tournaments Saturday were given an official inspection by the sub-committee of the State Board of Appeals, at their meeting in Fairmont Tuesday morning, it was learned that 14 new high schools, not competing last year, had filed entries for their athletes.

The 14 new entries, representing teams that showed up strong in the football and basketball competition this year, are Moorefield and Paw Paw, in the Eastern Panhandle; Weston, Pine Grove, Tunnelton, West Union, Upshur County High of Buckhannon and Kingwood of the central section. Follansbee, New Martinsville and Weirton in the Wheeling district, Man, Bramwell and Athens in the southern part of the state.

The eight sectional tournaments, to be held at Martinsburg, Elkins, Clarksburg, Triadelphia (Wheeling), Parkersburg, Charleston, Bluefield and Marlinton, will be taxed to the limit to provide facilities for the army of high school boys who will attempt to qualify for the finals at Morgantown next week, if the number of entries for these eight "tryouts" mean anything.

Director Stansbury of West Virginia University has forwarded to all of the eight directors of the sectional meets, the necessary entry blanks, certified the eligibility of entries on the various high school teams, and included a full complement of official score cards and tally sheets for the track and field events, so that the results of the eight separate meets may be transmitted to the university next Saturday evening. A compilation of all qualifiers will then be made and the program for the eleventh annual West Virginia high school meet will be prepared and announced.

In the meantime the university department is making plans for the officials for the meet, which has become the feature event of the spring season of sports at the university.

MISSTEP BEATS TEN DERBY CANDIDATES

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 10.—(AP.)—Beating ten other derby candidates, the Le Mar Stock Farm's Misstep turned in a smart performance in winning the prospect purse, a seven furlong affair, at the second day of the Churchill Downs' meeting yesterday. The time was 1:24 4-5.

Misstep shouldered 112 pounds, the allotted weight for all other entries except Dodgson, the Everglade Stable's candidate, which could do no better than show because of poor handling. Carrying 114 pounds, Dodgson had been much admired, his recent winning effort at Lexington having convinced Louisville players that he had reserve speed that had never been shown.

The secondary feature, a six-furlong sprint, brought eight derby candidates to the barrier among a field of 12. Colonel Shaw won, beating J. Cal Milam's Lucky Hit, which in turn led Reigh Olga home by a Quarter length.

The grandstand was crowded, weather perfect and track fast.

WEST VA. FEARS BISON TEAM

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 10—The Mountaineer track and field team which made a good showing against the crack Pitt Panther outfit here last Saturday afternoon, may find another tarter on its hands in the Bethany college track and field team which competes here on the 12th.

Virgil Elliott, pentathlon and decathlon star, from the little West Virginia college, assisted by Tarr, Hastick, Markley, Rush and others will compete.

Their marks in the recent victory over W. and J. indicate that they will score heavily against the Mountaineers. Tarr of Bethany, scored firsts in the 100 and 220 yard dash, with time on the rather inferior Bethany track, that will undoubtedly be bettered on the Mountaineers Stadium cinders. His 10-2-5 and 22-3-5 in both dashes, is as fast as the varsity men are making on Mountaineer field, and if the Bethany star cuts down on these, there will be likely be some scoring done by the Bisons.

AMERICAN LINKS LUMINARIES SETTING PACE IN GOLF EVENT ABROAD

Every year since the World War, except one, the British open golf championship has been largely an American affair, and indications are that the tourney for the British crown now in progress at Sandwich is to prove no exception. At the finish of the first title round, yesterday, Bill Mehlhorn, for a brief time with a Pittsburgh club, was setting the pace with a 71, and Gene Sarazen, who developed his skill on Pittsburgh district courses, was in second place with 72. In fourth position, one stroke behind Jose Jurado of Argentina, came Walter Hagen with 75, and Tommy Armour and Jim Barnes brought up the rear with 81 each.

SANDLOT BASEBALL

by TOM BIRKS

JUST a little while back, when most of the Allegheny County League managers were lining up their 1928 aggregations in the pennant race, the writer took time to say that regardless of the hitting talent signed in the loop, it was very evident that pitching was going to be the big thing in the final outcome of the race.

Well, the situation has not changed any, and now here we are with the opening day just a few days away, the whole loop, with the exception of Bellevue, is seeking to bolster pitching staffs.

BELLEVUE has Hilty for its ace, good for one night a week. Then Stewart should be just as good as last season, if not better, with a better balanced club behind him. Earl Mosley expects to be on hand.

Manager Hite of Beltzhoover helped himself when Crandall was signed, Falconer's ace is Carroll, and Hank Daly has Benny Steele and Zinn.

THE stars named are real pitchers, but how on earth are they going to consistently beat the heavy slugging squads they will be forced to meet all season? Such an array of fence busting has never been equaled in the makeup of the County League, and now Beltzhoover states Eddie Kelly will be poling them out on that hill at McKinley Park.

THERE seems to be quite an error regarding the outfit that played Bellevue Tuesday under the name of Greensburg. It was common gossip that Dick Guy was only going to bring down at the most five of the regulars on the state league team. However, three of these got lost in the shuffle, and it was a composite team of Guy's Collegians that received that drubbing.

This statement is only fair to the followers of the Greensburg club together with the fans that watched the game. And it can be said right now, that with Carl Stewart pitching, no collegiates in the country are going to stop that Murderers Row that Manager Greenough threw into the game.

FOLLOWERS of the Homestead Grays must be wearied of trying to get a look at that 1928 Posey aggregation with its new list of stars. Maybe all of these postponements are good for the Grays and the added interest will pack them in when a good night comes along. The Eastern League all-stars are still listed for the opener Saturday night at Forbes Field. Earl Mosely is expected to pitch against the Grays. Local fans have been hearing plenty about Mosely.

HEINIE BOLL, Walter Waite and a number of other favorites will be seen in the colors in the all-stars, and since Lefty Steeter has returned to his old love, this sweet pitcher may get the assignment against the Lees' aggregation. The game is called for 6:15 p. m.

AN OLD combination with another name will be with us this week at Stewart avenue, meeting the Jordons in the West Newton club. Waner is expected to be back again, Led Carroll and Casni from Dormont appearing with the club. West Newton will be without the services of Bill Goehring for the first time in many years, but Billy Hammers has gathered together a good lineup of players from Monongahela City and West Newton.

May Require Operation

By DAVIS J. WALSH,

NEW YORK, May 10.—Jack Dempsey really has faulty vision, brought about by the punches he received in the ring. He was leveling when he told the boys that defective eyesight was responsible for his self-confessed retirement. Later, upon his arrival in New York, he saw fit to laugh at the story. Let him laugh at this one:

Dempsey consulted a specialist here several weeks ago about the condition of his eyes. The writer knows this to be true because the fact was admitted today at the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, where the examination took place. It merely was a superficial diagnosis, as Dempsey was embroiled in the Kearns suit at the time and couldn't arrange sufficient appointments to undergo a course of treatment.

The preliminary examination showed a small cataract, caused by an injury to the retina. This, it is said, is the more aggravated form of cataract and requires great delicacy in the matter of treatment.

Sooner or later, it is believed, Dempsey will have to go under the knife or sacrifice the sight of the eye so affected. Needless to add, a complete cure must be effected before Dempsey can consider fighting again.

GOLF

yesterday, as good as any amateur was able to produce, but cracked under the strain today, and his total of 165 left him far out of the running.

Archie Compston took low scoring honors for the British when he went around in 74, which, with his 75 of yesterday, gave him a 36-hole total of 149 and a tie with Bill Mehlhorn for fourth place.

Jurado's incoming 33, the lowest nine-hole total of the tourney to date, was even more sensational than the Argentine's 69 of Tuesday, which netted him the qualifying medal.

The swarthy little Latin seemed to be less confident as he started the round and, somehow, lacked the effect of dazzling rapidity with which he usually swings at the ball. However, once he was straightened out for home, he was matchless.

JURADO "PERFECT"

He played so perfectly that the exhibition was simplicity itself. His long drives split the middle of the fairways his approaches were on the pin from the moment they were hit. He didn't even get in the vicinity of a trap throughout. His putting was above reproach.

Jurado greatly amused his gallery—he already has mustered a personal following in his four days at Sandwich—by politely and ceremoniously doffing his cap every time the spectators applauded a good shot. And his last nine holes were a continuous ovation, climaxed by a dramatic scene at the home green when he was mobbed by his compatrios, who kissed him lavishly.

Outside of the eleventh and seventeenth holes, there was nothing in Jurado's performance except the monotony of absolute perfection. At the former, he holed a 30-foot putt for a birdie. At the seventeenth, he repeated the performance. Otherwise, Jose was playing golf strictly as the book demanded.

Jurado's card follows:
Out..4 4 4 5 5 3 5 4 4—38
In ...4 4 4 4 4 3 2 4 4—33
—71—74—145

Three under 4's for the last nine! Not a 5 in the string! Five strokes under par! This was golf.

Mehlhorn's trouble today was in his putting, but he was cheery in spite of the defects in his game. "I'm glad I got that rotten round out of my system," he said.

Mehlhorn's card:
Out. 5 4 4 5 3 3 5 3 5—37
In.. 4 5 5 5 5 5 5 3 4—41—78—149

Hagen played a characteristic fighting round, while Sarazen, who has become the most feared of the American invaders, had two disastrous holes. The long fourteenth cost him seven strokes, when he got in the "Suez Canal," as the stream guarding the green is called. He took three putts on the next green.

Hagen's card:
Out. 5 4 4 3 5 3 5 3 4—36
In... 4 4 4 5 5 4 2 4 5—37—73—148

Sarazen's card:
Out. 4 4 5 4 4 4 5 3 4—37
In... 4 4 4 4 7 5 3 4 4—39—76—148

BARNES RALLIES

Barnes couldn't keep his long game straight through the first nine holes, but his recoveries were more effective today and this kept his score down.

Although his incoming score was higher by a stroke, Barnes played sounder golf on this nine. He managed to keep his ball straight for the most part and required little in the way of sensational recoveries. His 5 at the eleventh was the result of overplaying the green and the eighteenth saw him bunkered. But he pitched out beautifully and got a 4.

His best hole on this nine was the fourteenth where he got home with two perfect shots. However, Jim didn't seem to be particularly pleased with anything that had happened throughout the round.

His card:
Out..5 5 3 4 5 3 5 2 4—36
In ...4 5 4 5 4 4 3 4 4—37
—73—81—154

ARMOUR "OUT"

Armour never found himself in the British play. His 81 yesterday placed him in grave jeopardy and he would have had to shoot sterling golf today to remain in the competition. He was erratic again and had a six and seven on the first nine holes.

The American title holder has played almost steadily since he won the championship at Oakmont, a., last summer and seemed overgolfed when he came to reat Britain to play for the title. He is a native Scot and has tried his golf luck before in both the British amateur and open events. He became a professional after he established his residence in the United States.

Armour's card:
Out..4 6 3 5 7 3 5 4 5—42
In ...4 4 5 5 5 4 2 4 4—38—80—161

Compston really should have had a 72, as he putted beautifully for the first six holes and, with any kind of luck, would have one-putted a lot of greens. His putt, for example, for a 2 at the six hung on the very brink of the cup.

Compston's card:
Out. 4 4 4 4 4 3 6 3 5—37
In... 5 3 4 4 4 4 3 5 5—37—74—75—149

McHugh's card:
Out. 5 5 4 4 4 4 5 4 6—41
In... 4 5 4 5 7 5 5 5 5—45—86—165

Stupple's card:
Out. 5 5 4 5 5 4 5 4 5—42
In... 4 5 4 5 6 5 4 5 5—43—85—167

Under the rule eliminating all with scores of 160 or higher it was expected that the field for tomorrow would be about 50. Among notable casualties today were Arthur Havers, former British open champion, Roger Wethered, who held the British amateur title, Charles and Ernest Whitcombe.

George Duncan, the British hope, went around in 77 for an aggregate of 152. He was passed by F. Taggart, a lesser known British professional, who coupled a 74 with his 76 of yesterday to tie Stewart Burns, of the British contingent, with an aggregate of 150.

Jean Gassiat, France, shot a 77 for 153.

Wags Spoil Phelps' Gift to Tunney

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 10.—Half of the campus is smiling and the other half soberly trying to keep the facts under cover in the matter of Yale's proposed gift to Gene Tunney, world's champion heavyweight, as a return for his lecture to the Shakespeare class two weeks ago.

Prof. William Lyon Phelps, head of the English department, whose guest Tunney was, collected subscriptions from his class for a library edition of the Yale Shakespeare. The beautiful set first was autographed by members of the Yale faculty, who edited it.

Then, Prof. Phelps proposed the members of the class who listened to Tunney's account of his first struggles and later fascination with Shakespeare's plays, were to add their names, before presentation of the gift. The volumes were turned over to the class for autographing.

Imagine the professor's dismay when they were returned bearing such endorsements as "Johnny Applesauce," "Jack Dempsey," "The Duke of Muldoon" and "With the Compliments of the Author, Francis Bacon."

Prof. Phelps announced to the class that the gift had gone awry.

An anonymous letter to the Yale News protested the wags' work. It said in part:

"But some wise-cracking fools saw fit to smirch the beauty of the gift with certain bogus names. As a sample of wit and daring this remarkable outburst was neither clever nor courageous. Not clever because any secondformer could have been more original; not courageous because the writers took no chances whatever.

"The score that these imbeciles so rightfully earned is felt by everyone who heard Prof. Phelps announce the unbelievable fact. It is indeed, a surprise that such men could find their way into Yale."

HEENEY TO LECTURE

NEW YORK, May 10.—(INS.)—"Hic, Haec, Hoc!"

Should a prohibition enforcement agent hear these sounds issuing from the Fraternity Club here this afternoon, he need not be unduly alarmed. The gurgling noise will merely be part of a Latin lecture scheduled to be delivered by Tom Heeney, challenger for Gene Tunney's heavyweight title. And the lecture will not be given in pig-latin, but in the real Cicero vintage.

The New Zealander will attempt to snatch from Gene's classic brow the laurels won by the "great intellectual" in his lecture on Shakespeare before Yale students recently. It's all a part of the ballyhoo for the big fight.

bring them closer to where, on a mashie shot, for instance, the ball is no more than five or six inches out from where a line, dropped from the nose, in the address, would strike the ground. Standing too far away from the ball means great difficulty in controlling direction. On the other hand, standing too close cramps the swing, and destroys power. In the absence of first-hand advice by some instructor, who can speak from observation of the player in action, the best suggestion I can make is to do a little experimenting, keeping in mind the general tips given above.

IN ARTICLES dealing with golf instruction, rhythm is a topic of frequent discussion, but I am inclined to believe that a great many players have only a vague idea of its meaning. As applied to the golf swing, rhythm means chiefly the relation of the different moves to each other and to the swing as a whole. At least that's what I understand. And I use the word with the idea that it may help somewhat in getting over to the reader the right picture of what should take place when a swing is made.

First, the backswing and the downswing should harmonize in timing. And while a good backswing is not necessarily a guarantee of a good downswing, the chances of making the downswing correctly are greatly diminished if the backswing is faulty. A hurried movement at either end is bad. Essentially, if the clubhead is to be made to pick up speed gradually and attain its maximum just as the ball is hit, it is desirable to start it down slowly and smoothly. And the best way to keep down any impulse to start down too rapidly is take things slow on the backswing.

Now, then, there are three physical factors, or at any rate, we can divide them three ways, that go into making the golf swing. They are the body, meaning the back, shoulders and legs, in which the big muscles supply the real power; the arms, which form the connecting link between the big muscles and the hands themselves with which we include the wrists. The action of these three factors must be coordinated if we are to get rhythm in the golf swing, especially as refers to bringing the club down to the ball.

In turning the body around toward the right on the pivot for the backswing, it is obvious that the shoulders turn in a small space. The hands follow a considerably wider path, and the clubhead, of course, swings in an arc still many times increased. In the well-played stroke these three agents—shoulders, hands and clubhead—are co-ordinated. If either lags, a bad shot is the result.

The two common sources of trouble are turning the body too fast and applying a snap of the wrist too fast. In fact, these are the causes of nearly all troubles that come from lack of rhythm in the stroke. A very slight turn of the shoulders corresponds to a move of several inches by the hands along their path, and a still much larger one by the clubhead. And if the body thus gets ahead in starting the downswing, it is difficult for the arms to make up the loss. Furthermore, where this happens, there comes a strong urge to apply the wrist action, so as to help the clubhead catch up.

Lay-Off by Standard Oil, N. J., Conducted Humanely

By B. C. FORBES

WHEN lay-offs are found unavoidable, are they always conducted as considerately and humanely as possible?

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, shows very clearly in the following letter to this column—the first part of his statement was given yesterday—that there was no room whatsoever for any complaint made by a correspondent, James B. Furber, a New Jersey lawyer. Indeed, the steps described by Mr. Teagle might well be pondered by other corporation executives.

WRITES Mr. Teagle:

"While there may be individual cases of hardship, does it not appeal to you as equitable and fair that we should keep the men of longer service and provide them with full time, and allow the men of shorter service to seek full time positions elsewhere?

"Humanity should be the first consideration in business, but would the interests of humanity generally be advanced if manufacturing operations were conducted on an uneconomical basis such as Mr. Furber suggests? Is not the efficient operation of business more likely to produce general wealth and improve the position of all labor than would be an attempt to obtain a temporary cure to a defect in the world's industrial system by keeping men employed irrespective of the economic result?

"In laying off these men—which was unavoidable—a great deal of consideration was actually shown. They were given as much notice as was possible, and where the age, service with the company, and physical condition of a man warranted special treatment, he received an amount of money. Many of them were members of our stock acquisition plan, under which they received 50 cents of the company's funds for every dollar they had invested in our stock.

"MR. FURBER refers to Mr. Rockefeller's Christianity and asks how it can be reconciled to inhumanity for the purpose of creating extravagant dividends on Standard stocks. I have nothing to do with Mr. Rockefeller's attitude towards life, although I have an infinite respect for it. He holds a relatively small percentage of the stock of this company, and there are 55,000 other shareholders who pay the directors to administer the property for them. It is our duty to carry out this trust as faithfully and efficiently as in our power lies, and if there is any aspect of our administration which is open to criticism, it is certainly not that we have sacrificed the interests of our employers to benefit the owners of the business.

"In seven years the average dividends paid have been equivalent to only 3.6 per cent per annum of our invested capital, which is neither extravagant nor equal to that of the majority of other industries.

"You are aware of the intense competition which exists in the petroleum industry, and the fact that a small fraction of a cent a gallon on a product affects the flow of business. The cost of our various plans for the welfare of our employes may be just that fraction of a cent a gallon and it, to that extent, affects our ability to meet the competition of those whose costs of operation do not include such plans as ours. It is obvious that, in addition to this, we could not load our operation with the extra cost of paying men for whom we have no work.

"YOUR correspondent asks why it is necessary that the present generation of working people should suffer from economic conditions. I should like to ask him what he has in mind as an alternative.

"From the beginning of time man has had to struggle for existence. It was basic in the Creator's scheme that man should achieve comforts by the sweat of his brow. Had there been no hardships, had the human race been cradled in a land of milk and honey, it would have perished. Down through the ages the conditions of living have steadily improved by the measure of man's efforts.

"This country notably, has made remarkable progress and today has millions of well-paid, well-housed, well-clad workers, but of course, this condition is not universal. It cannot be so long as there are men disinclined to use their brains and brawn to secure the rewards of industry. The parasite, the whiner, who feels that the world owes him a living without a quid pro quo is always with us. The fact to be proud of is that the number of deserving cases forced to undergo hardship and want is extremely small. It is much smaller here in the United States than where the experiment of state socialism has been tried."

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 10.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 4 to 12 points in response to lower Liverpool cables and favorable weather news. Active months sold about 12 to 19 points net lower in early trading under liquidation of long accounts and some local or southern selling, May declining to 21.22c and October to 20.93c.

The standard cotton cloth statistics showing sales in April exceeding production by 17.2 per cent, an increase of 21.9 per cent in unfilled orders at the end of the month, were considered bullish, and brought in some buying at the decline. There was also covering, and the market was steady at the end of the first hour, prices showing rallies of 6 or 7 points from the lowest.

Private cables reported that continental buying in Liverpool had been offset by liquidation on reports of warmer weather in the South.

The market was steadier late in the morning on covering by early selling and a moderate commission house demand based on failure of southwestern shower predictions to bring in more aggressive selling. May advanced to 21.44 and October sold up to 21.19, making net gains of about 6 to 9 points on the active months. The volume of business was limited, however, with the market quiet at reactions of a few points from the best around midday.

Money Market.

LONDON, May 10.—Bar silver, 27 3-16d per ounce. Money, 3½ per cent. Discount rates—Short bills, 3¾c 15-16 per cent; three months, 3 15-16c 4 per cent.

NEW YORK, May 10.—(INS.)—Clearing house statement: Exchanges, $1,168,000,000; balances, $127,000,000; Federal Reserve Bank's credit balance, $114,000,000.

LOWER MONEY RATE BOOMS MARKET

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP.)—Further irregularity developed in the early part of today's stock market, but the general list swung upward in the afternoon when the call money rate was lowered from 6 to 5 per cent. Rails again led the upturn, but a strong demand also was apparent for the airplane issues and a number of specialties in which favorable developments are reported to be pending.

Trading showed a further falling off in volume, due to the restriction of commitments by many traders pending the report on brokers' loans and the action to be taken on the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate after the close of the market. The monthly tonnage statement of the United States Steel Corporation proved to be a disappointment as the decrease of 462,073 tons in unfilled orders last month was about twice what had been generally expected. U. S. Steel common sagged about a point on the outbreak of selling which followed the announcement.

Missouri Pacific issues led the advance in the railroad shares on buying influenced by the inauguration of dividends yesterday on Texas and Pacific common stock, approximately 40 per cent of which it owns. Both the common and the preferred advanced about 4 points, the former touching 65½ and the latter 123, the highest since the road was reorganized in 1916.

Southern Pacific fell back about 3 points on speculative disappointment over the failure of the directors to increase the regular dividend, although such action was not expected in responsible banking quarters. On the other hand, new high records for the year, or longer, were registered by New York Central, Reading, Louisville and Nashville, Northern Pacific, Gulf, Mobile and Northern, Rock Island and St. Louis Southwestern.

Curtiss and Wright attained new peak prices at 137 and 169, respectively, although the former had sold down to 129¾ in the early selling movement. Strength of the Bucyrus-Erie issues was based on expectations of heavily increased business as a result of the Mississippi River flood prevention program. McKeesport Tin Plate, which was transferred from the curb to the "big board" today, ran up more than 2 points on reports that the company's plants were operating at full capacity. Chandler-Cleveland issues again moved into new high ground in reflection of expanding sales and earnings.

The United States Steel Corporation reports unfilled orders on its books as of April 30 totaled 3,872,133 tons, a decrease of 462,073 tons as compared with March 31. On February 29, 1928, total unfilled orders were 4,398,189 tons and on April 30, 1927, the total was 4,456,132 tons. The April decrease was a surprise to the stock market community, which had been expecting a decline of about 200,000 tons.

Exchanges Closed Saturday.

For the fourth time this year the stock exchanges of the country will be closed Saturday to permit brokerage houses to catch up with the enormous accumulation of work resulting from the record turnover of stocks since the beginning of March. Brokers and their employes are near the breaking point as a result of the strain of the markets and even now many of them are on the "sick list" with shattered nerves and physical exhaustion. Virtually all of the larger houses have increased their working forces, but it is impossible to obtain experienced men to take the place of those who have been forced off the "firing line" by sickness. This has added to the general confusion in that the tremendous accumulation of unfinished work has been made more difficult by errors due to inexperience on the part of the new help.

April sales of 565 department stores were 8 per cent smaller than in April, 1927, and those of mail order houses and 5 and 10-cent stores were also smaller, as indicated by preliminary reports to the Federal Reserve System. Smaller sales reflect fewer number of trading days this year than in 1927.

Firestone on Tire Prices.

Any general reduction in automobile tire prices within three months would result in serious losses to manufacturers and dealers, according to Harvey S. Firestone, head of the Firestone Tire Company. Stocks of high-priced rubber would not be exhausted before three months from now, he said, explaining that he had been misunderstood as predicting appreciable reductions in tire prices as a result of Premier Baldwin's announcement that Great Britain would repeal its export restriction act next November. Lifting of the British restrictions, he said, brought a drop in crude rubber from 42 to 18 cents a pound. If this level is maintained for three months he said, tire prices could be reduced about 10 per cent.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia has had to use a large amount of its working capital in the purchase of stock to protect its future position and earnings, according to F. E. The company bought a substantial block of Wheeling and Lake Erie common last year.

Government Crop Report.

The average condition of winter wheat in the United States on May 1 was 73.8 per cent of normal, indicating a yield of approximately 13.4 bushels per acre, and a total production of 479,086,000 bushels, the crop reporting board of the Department of Agriculture announced. The area to be harvested on May 1 was about 35,858,000 acres. The harvested production last year was 552,384,000 bushels. The average condition of rye was 73.6 per cent of normal, indicating a yield of 11.1 bushels per acre, and a total production of 39,369,000 bushels. Last year's production was 58,572,000 bushels. The average condition of tame hay was 76.1 per cent of normal. Stocks of hay on farms on May 1 are estimated at 17,920,000 tons, or 14.5 per cent of last year's crop. Trade comment regarding the report was that it appeared to be about a standoff as compared with what had in general been looked for. The figures on winter wheat condition were somewhat lower than had been suggested by recent private reports, which averaged 75.4, but this circumstance was offset by somewhat smaller abandoned acreage, and by the fact that the indicated crop is 7,000,000 bushels in excess of the average of the latest unofficial predictions.

STANDARD SANITARY LISTED ON N. Y. EXCHANGE

LONE STAR GAS HOLDS FIRM

Standard Sanitary Manufacturing and Lone Star Gas continued to lead the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in today's session with the former selling up to new high levels and the latter showing moderate improvement over last night's closing price.

Standard Sanitary was admitted to the trading list of the New York Stock Exchange this morning and there was a noticeable flurry in the stock following the opening at 39⅞. While the stock has been handled on the New York Curb for some time, it has never been traded in on the New York exchange, and its introduction to that market is expected to expand public interest in the shares to a considerable degree.

Another Pittsburgh issue admitted to the New York list today was McKeesport Tin Plate, which recently went through a capital reorganization.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, May 10.—Wheat developed decided weakness today after an early advance from initial downturns. Setbacks were associated with the government crop report, whereas buying on breaks appeared to be based largely on uncertainties yet ahead regarding both spring and winter wheat. Opening ⅛ to 1⅛c off, wheat scored material gains, which, however, were followed by declines lower than before. Corn sympathized with wheat, starting ⅛ to 1⅛c down, but subsequently showing transient rallies. Oats were firm. Provisions tended to sag.

At noon wheat was 3¼ to 4c net lower and corn ⅜ to 1⅛c down.

Selling in the wheat market today on the part of leading houses disclosed at times acute lack of adequate new buying support, and brought about sharp falls in price. Market authorities here said the government crop report indicated somewhat more winter wheat production probable this season than most traders had looked for, although official figures on wheat and rye taken together could hardly be considered bearish compared with 10-year or five-year averages.

On the other hand, present prices, it was contended, probably discounted the wheat situation up to date, notwithstanding plenty of uncertainty ahead regarding winter wheat and spring wheat as well. Meanwhile, today's advices apparently showed that lateness of seeding of spring wheat had been unaccompanied by serious damage, and that Canadian acreage is likely to show 1,000,000 acres increase over last year.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 10.—A steadier tone developed in the raw sugar market early today. Prices were fractionally higher with refiners showing more interest. Sales reported were about 46,000 bags of Porto Rican due May 21 at 4.40c delivered and 33,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment at 4.46c, both to local refiners.

The raw sugar futures market opened unchanged to 1 point higher, but met renewed liquidation and eased off 1 to 2 points later, with active positions selling 1 point below the previous close. The steadier tone to the spot market, however, discouraged aggressive selling. In the late forenoon prices rallied again on covering and some trade buying. The setback was fully recovered with the market at midday 1 to 2 points net higher.

Prices for refined sugar was unchanged at 5.95c to 6.00c for fine granulated. While a better inquiry was reported it was mostly for prompt shipment.

What About Your Insurance?

MEN and women work hard to pay for life insurance to protect those who are dear to them. Then they expect the beneficiaries, in assuming the sudden responsibility of management, to use the same business wisdom they have shown in accumulating the estate.

The sensible plan is to create an Insurance Trust and make certain that the distribution is wisely directed by a strong institution of long and tried experience like The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh.

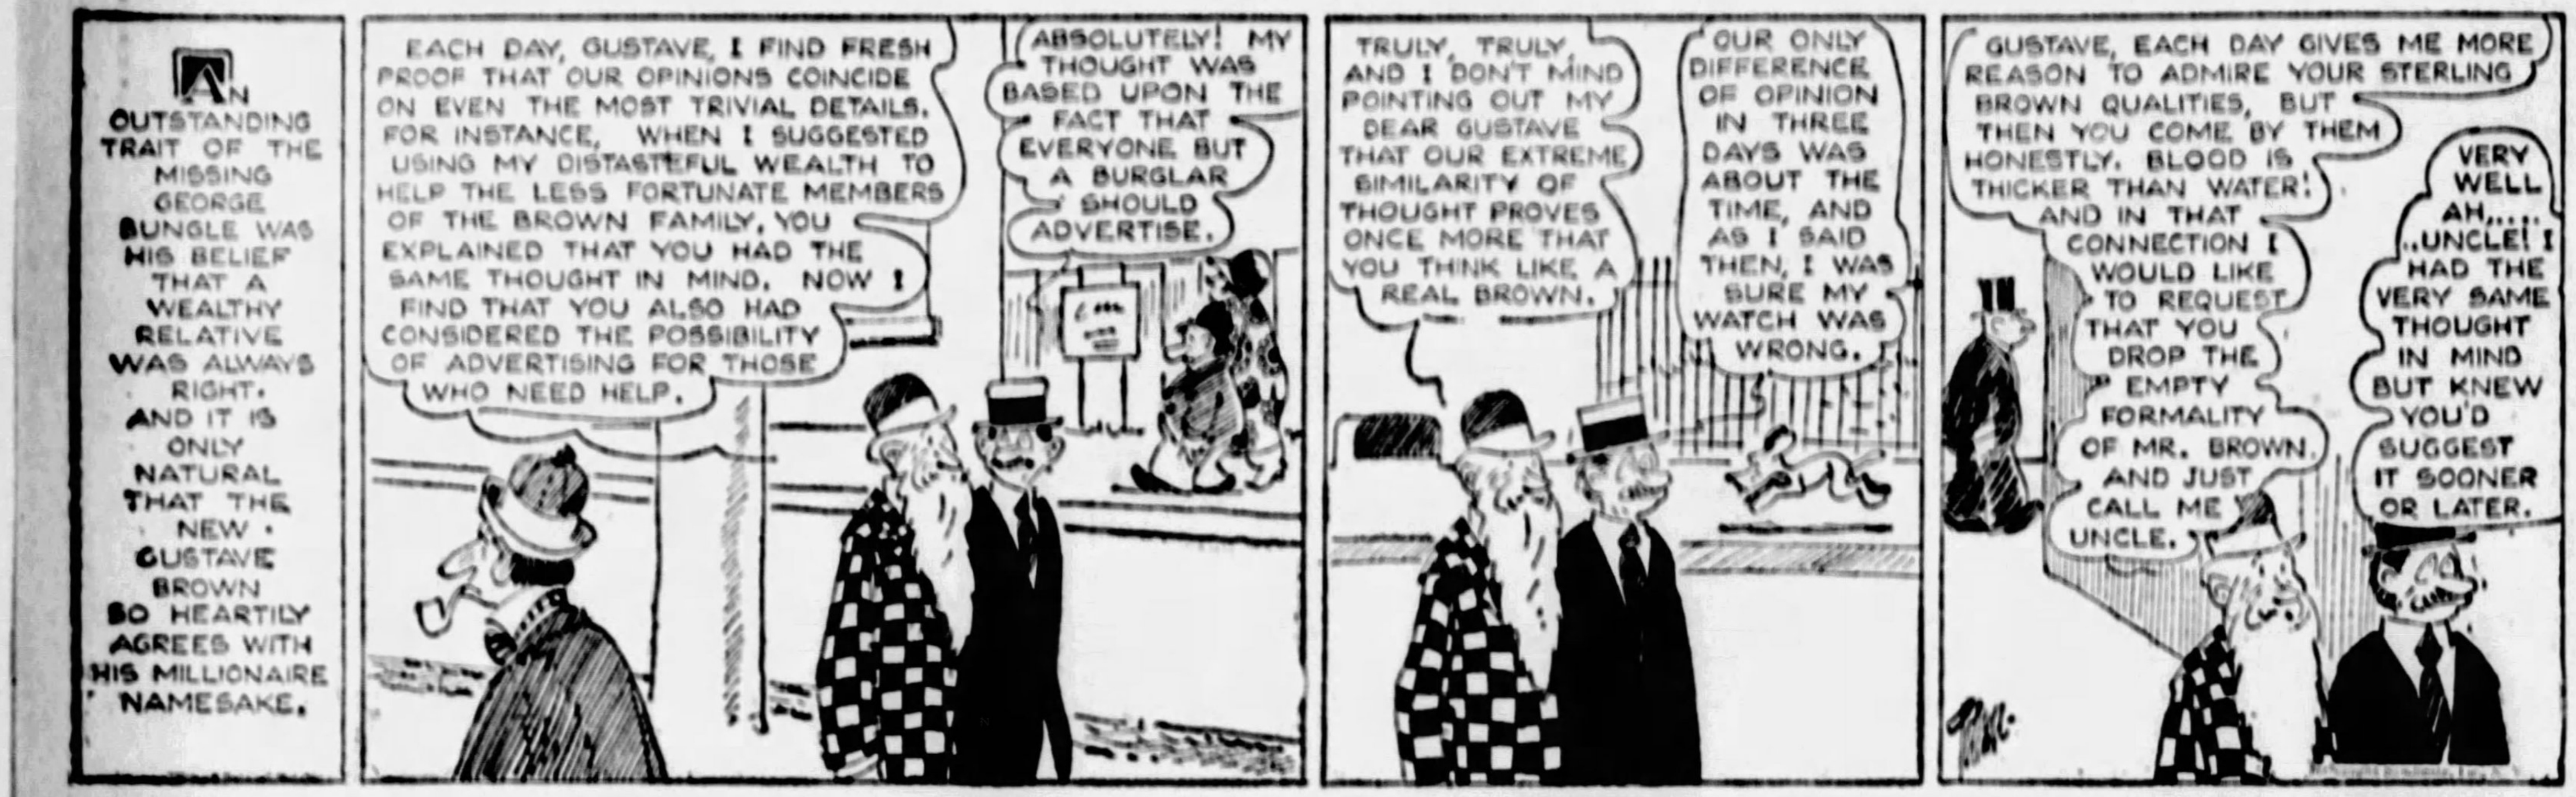
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Yes, Yes, Uncle!



AN OUTSTANDING TRAIT OF THE MISSING GEORGE BUNGLE WAS HIS BELIEF THAT A WEALTHY RELATIVE WAS ALWAYS RIGHT. AND IT IS ONLY NATURAL THAT THE NEW GUSTAVE BROWN SO HEARTILY AGREES WITH HIS MILLIONAIRE NAMESAKE.
EACH DAY, GUSTAVE, I FIND FRESH PROOF THAT OUR OPINIONS COINCIDE ON EVEN THE MOST TRIVIAL DETAILS. FOR INSTANCE, WHEN I SUGGESTED USING MY DISTASTEFUL WEALTH TO HELP THE LESS FORTUNATE MEMBERS OF THE BROWN FAMILY, YOU EXPLAINED THAT YOU HAD THE SAME THOUGHT IN MIND. NOW I FIND THAT YOU ALSO HAD CONSIDERED THE POSSIBILITY OF ADVERTISING FOR THOSE WHO NEED HELP.
ABSOLUTELY! MY THOUGHT WAS BASED UPON THE FACT THAT EVERYONE BUT A BURGLAR SHOULD ADVERTISE.
TRULY, TRULY, AND I DON'T MIND POINTING OUT MY DEAR GUSTAVE THAT OUR EXTREME SIMILARITY OF THOUGHT PROVES ONCE MORE THAT YOU THINK LIKE A REAL BROWN.
OUR ONLY DIFFERENCE OF OPINION IN THREE DAYS WAS ABOUT THE TIME, AND AS I SAID THEN, I WAS SURE MY WATCH WAS WRONG.
GUSTAVE, EACH DAY GIVES ME MORE REASON TO ADMIRE YOUR STERLING BROWN QUALITIES, BUT THEN YOU COME BY THEM HONESTLY. BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER! AND IN THAT CONNECTION I WOULD LIKE TO REQUEST THAT YOU DROP THE EMPTY FORMALITY OF MR. BROWN. AND JUST CALL ME UNCLE.
VERY WELL AH.... ..UNCLE! I HAD THE VERY SAME THOUGHT IN MIND BUT KNEW YOU'D SUGGEST IT SOONER OR LATER.

BUGS BAER
Says

THE spring straw vote continues to make hay while the sun blinks.

Smith claims Maine, Delaware and Kansas, concedes Rhode Island and leaves Chicago to a higher law.

Hoover bobs the bean in prayerful anticipation and comes up with Oklahoma in his teeth.

Gov. Ritchie's daisy chain of sixteen Maryland delegates continues to dance under the alternating current of a Baltimore moon.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Meanwhile, the Senate harnesses on the bifocals to investigate campaign expenditures made by the dozen candidates.

Borah, Curtis, Norris and Walsh seem to have cast their crumbs on the waters and fed nobody but the minnows. They have retired from the Presidential scramble and will seek solace within the walls of public offices that are less stylish but a good deal steadier.

The mucilagenous adherents of Hoover insist that California is leaning toward the admiral of the world's relief boats.

When California leans, it's time to go. It leaned so far one time that it fell on Hughes.

Both Smith and Hoover are too intelligent to claim Alabama. On the day of judgment when Gabriel sounds his bugle and the departed rise to caucus the convention, the eternal saxophone tooter will discover that he has been defeated by a vote of twenty-four for Underwood and none for Gabriel.

That's the political situation by daylight saving time. The Senate investigation of the sudden wealth of Presidential candidates will prove nothing except that some of the boys took the money under false pretenses.

Which crime will get you four years.

But not in the White House.

Town Hall, Itself, First; Site Needs Much Thought

The question of a site for the Town Hall is a matter for the county commissioners to decide, in the opinion of George S. Davison, chairman of the Town Hall committee of the Chamber of Commerce. He explains that the committee is interested in solidifying public opinion in favor of the project and that the matter of location and other details should not be considered at present.

Mr. Davison, however, is definite in his declaration of the need of a great community building that will compare favorably with those of Cleveland and other cities. In that he will be supported by the opinion of thoughtful citizens of Pittsburgh.

It is just as well that the matter of site be left for consideration until a time when the plan for financing has been decided. Going ahead on the idea that any particular place is to be the location of the proposed building is certain to endanger the project before the people. Commissioner McGovern's suggestion that an addition to the Logan Armory in Oakland district would serve the county's needs for a Town Hall definitely limits the choice to a district which may or may not be the ideal location. That is a matter for careful consideration. Anyway, the city wants its own Town Hall, not merely a share in a building erected on land belonging to the state.

It has been announced that the state will build an addition to the Logan Armory at some future time regardless of the decision as to whether or not it be accepted as the Town Hall. That is a pleasing bit of news. The city will take great pride in it, whatever its status may be.

But the Town Hall is too important a project—one too closely associated with the personal needs of the people—to be considered definitely and finally settled by Commissioner McGovern's interesting suggestion.

Public Opinion Flouted By the Coal Operators

The report of the strike investigators of the Federal Council of Churches recommended that miners and operators forget their differences and resume their former friendly status while seeking to establish mutually suitable relationship to one another through "bargaining."

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, expresses the willingness of the miners to do as recommended in the report.

Various coal operators say their companies will not accept the recommendation of these investigators.

Evidently, unless big operators change their minds, the situation remains as it was and the earnest efforts of these impartial investigators, who suggested a fair method of composing troubles, become as nothing.

There was a time when all large corporations acted just as the big coal companies are acting now. Most of them have seen the light and in recent years have realized the folly of flouting public opinion.

The coal operators have not learned this lesson yet. Eventually they will, of course.

In the meantime the public suffers and may have to impose government control over the coal business, as it did over the railroads a few years ago.

Uncle Sam as Employer

Justice and efficiency alike approve the Lehlbach civil service retirement bill, which has been reported favorably in the House but has not yet been permitted to come to a vote.

Our Government has 500,000 workers in its civil service. They pay 3½ per cent of their modest salaries into a fund which pensions them upon retirement.

The pension is small—only $1,000 a year. It can be secured only after thirty years of continuous service, but not until the age of 62 in the case of railway mail clerks and others in hazardous work; 65 in the case of letter carriers, mechanics, laborers and postal clerks, and 70 in the case of departmental workers.

The Lehlbach bill raises the pension to $1,200 and makes it available to any civil servant at the age of 60 who has served for thirty years continuously.

This plan is just because it rewards fidelity, removes a feeling of discrimination and applies in the Government service a standard of recognition which has been found to be desirable in many lines of private employment. Uncle Sam should be a model employer.

It is efficient because it opens the way to a better average of efficiency among our civil service employes and reduces the deadwood.

It will cost the Government only $10,000,000 a year more than the existing retirement plan. That $10,000,000 would be repaid many times by enhanced morale.

The Rules Committee should allow the House to express its will upon this wise measure of social legislation.

SHE GAVE A "HAG" PARTY

This lady, recently married, is talked about in England because she had a new idea, and new ideas are not very common.

She, the Hon. Mrs. Beaumont-Nesbitt, saw no reason why men about to marry should have "stag" parties, with no such provision made for women about to be married.

So just before her wedding this lady gave a "hag" party, inviting all her female friends, playfully described as "hags."

The party was a great success. Women in our day enjoy things that formerly were strange to them—cocktails before the dinner, cigarets at dinner and afterward.

If you want to be an aristocrat, give a "hag" party.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Easter Sun

HERE is something that carries back to olden times:

"Will you please explain the rising sun's conduct on an Easter Morn? I had heard people say that every Easter Sunday the sun dances as it rises, providing that it is visible. Now, on Easter (1926) my wife and I were up to watch it. I will not say that it really dances, but I saw some mysterious moves as if the world was being blest, and even noticed the shadows move on the house. It doesn't take place exactly as the sun pierces the horizon, but after it's up, probably in five minutes or half an hour. I was simply mystified, having been reared a Catholic but having given a great deal of time to Darwinism in the last few years. At times I've felt a good deal like the soldiers mentioned in the Gospel when the stone was removed at the resurrection. Please take notice on Easter Morn.—T. C., Uxbridge, Mass., March 26."

It would be well to notice the sun on some other morn also, to see whether curious light effects are confined to the Easter sunrise. However, this is so beautiful a tradition, so full of poetic sentiment, that one hasn't the heart to catalogue it with other, more vulgar superstitions.

"But, oh, she dances such a way
No sun upon an Easter day
Is half so fine a sight."

sang Sir John Suckling nearly three centuries ago, and many other poets have found the charm of the old legend. But early skeptics were not lacking. Two hundred and eight years ago, as Brewer reminds us in his "Curiosities of Popular Customs," the sun himself "settled the question" of his dancing in this fashion as related in "The British Apollo:"

Question—
"Phoebus, old wives say
That on Easter Day
To the music o' th' spheres you caper.
If the fact, sir, be true,
Pray let's the cause know,
When you have any room in your paper."

Answer—
"The old wives get merry
With spiced ale and sherry
On Easter, which makes them romance,
And whilst in a rout
Their brains whirl about

My Uxbridge correspondent's statement that he did not see the sun "exactly dance," but that he saw some "mysterious moves," recalls the old Scottish tradition that on Easter morning the sun would "whirl around like a mill wheel and give three leaps." However, they looked to see this phenomenon by catching the image in a pond, or in a pail of water, where a little undulation, slyly or unwittingly imparted, would give extraordinary movements to the reflected sun.

The very ease with which the alleged strange conduct ascribed to the Easter sun can be accounted for both psychologically and by natural causes tends to place this innocent legend in the sanctuary where repose the Mother Goose Tales, safe from the rude hand of science, which does not even seek to intrude there.

It is its inborn alliance with all that is tenderest and most poetic and romantic in human nature that has made Christianity the brightest and most humanly sympathetic of religions. If Christ had come with a conqueror's sword Christianity would have been an earlier Mohammedanism. And but for the histories of the Marys it could never have mastered the hearts of mankind, alike barbarian and civilized. Its legends tend to link the divine with the human, and God with nature in its most familiar aspects, on a plane attained by those of no other religious system. For a proof you have but to consider the inspiration that they furnished to the great Italian painters.

The balls of sight are so formed that one man's eyes are spectacles to another, to read his heart within. —Johnson.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Start the Day Right

MR. HUSBAND AND FATHER, how do you leave your home each morning?

Is it with a short, irritable word of parting?

Perhaps you are grouchy in the morning, not quite awake, and in this spirit you take leave of your family.

That is not the impression to leave with them for all day.

You start the whole family wrong, carrying a remembrance of your bad humor.

Why not be a real husband and father and say "goodby" with a smile?

Wave a goodby to those who watch as you go down the steps, or the walk, or out to the garage.

Leave a pleasant gesture to sweeten your absence and make a greater degree of pleasure in the welcome you receive at night when you return.

Provide a brighter day for the members of your family.

Make it happier to look back at the dear ones at home.

They have duties to perform and love for you would make it easier.

Cheer and encourage your entire family even as you take leave in the morning.

THROUGH all the changeful days I weave
My bit of tapestry;
The hours fleetly pass, but leave
Designs and hues for me.

Shows when a hope was born.

But if, sometimes, slow, somber hours
My work with gloom imbue,
I use these threads as foils for flowers
I weave with thoughts of you!

Tales that are Told

That Business Instinct

IT WAS market-day in the village. Prices had been high, and the man leaning over the fence round the sale-ring was looking a little disconsolate. Suddenly a burly farmer rode up on a very ancient horse.

"How much do you want for that bag o' bones?" asked the bystander, his interest awakened.

"Just twenty pounds," was the answer.

"I'll give you a pound."

For a moment the farmer stared at the man in amazement. Then he slowly dismounted.

"Young man," he said, "I ain't goin' to let a little matter of nineteen pounds stand between me and the sale of a horse. The animal's yours."—London Answers.

So Low Down

BENNETT was a big man who found but little comfort traveling in trams and buses, so he decided to buy a car.

The vehicle he chose was one of those very small cars—the kind that can be hung up on the dresser after use.

Bennett insisted on a trial run through the streets of London. Suddenly the light of day vanished, to reappear a second later.

"Hallo," said the surprised passenger, "was that a tunnel we went through?"

"No, sir," replied the demonstration driver, a careless youth with nerves of iron, "that was a moving-van."—London Answers.

All Square

WHILE Marcus Manne, the famous novelist, was sitting in his study reading the proofs of his new book, an insane man rushed into the room and challenged him to fight.

"My dear fellow," replied Manne, rising hastily, "I would be only too pleased to accommodate you, but I can't do it, the odds are unfair. I am a Manne by name and a man by nature—that's two against one."

The other blinked.

"Rubbish!" he snapped. "I am a man and a man beside myself at that—that's two. Now let us four have a jolly good mill."

No Hope There

THEY found him wandering about aimlessly, with a blackened eye and a gap in his front teeth. He looked as though he had annoyed somebody.

Filled with pity, they seized him by the arms and helped him along.

"Come along, old chap. Let us take you home to your wife. She'll put you right in no time."

"No, no," he groaned; "not that! Don't you—can't you understand that's where I got this lot?"

Useful

THE pompous man was playing alone. Two boys kept following him around the course.

At the ninth hole he turned to the boys and said:

"You'll never learn to play watching me."

"We're not watching you," said one of the boys. "We're going fishing as soon as you dig up some more worms."

Good Banking

THERE is far vision as well as immediate public service in the plan for small personal loans announced by the National City Bank of New York.

Undoubtedly the first effect will be an end of loan sharks. For with this richest of American banks taking the lead, we may expect personal lending at legal interest without collateral or fees of any sort to become a regular feature in banking, with which usurers cannot compete.

Ultimately the banks which follow this lead will be amply repaid not merely in appreciation of an important service not in itself remunerative, but by the spread of thrift.

Odd thought it seems, the number of Americans not yet educated in prudent saving must be large. The recent instance of the charwoman who kept her live savings of $11,000 in an oil cloth because unacquainted with banks is typical of many.

When the great banks arrange to meet humble needs on a fair yet strictly businesslike basis, there will be left no excuse for either the type of improvidence now conducive to shark lending or the lack of understanding which keeps thrifty persons aloof from banks.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 10.—Several New York city editors have been running a temperature the past few months over press agent hoaxes. Three extremely plausible stories streamed across first pages, only to be discovered as canards the next day.

Each was so cleverly "planted" it seemed air tight, and even grizzled veterans of the copy desk passed them without a suspicious sniff. One concerned a doubtful daughter of a fallen royal house, another a dawn suicide of a dancer in a Central Park lake, and the other a night club battle.

Despite the fact that press agency of this kind has absolutely no box office value, producers of plays and movies still pay fancy sums to suave gentlemen to perpetrate them. A press agent is said to have averaged $50,000 a year for many years, concocting these absurdities.

One concerned a patron of a hotel bringing a lion to his apartment in a piano box and registering as "T. R. Zann." Several weeks later a film called "Tarzan" was shown on Broadway. The connection was so remote it is possible not a person who read the press yarn was inspired to see the film.

Yet it cost the exhibitors a snug fortune to put over the fakery. There are a few flimsy laws to protect newspapers against this hocus pocus, but newspapers do not want to confess being victimized by such twaddle, and so nothing is ever done.

Press agents of this ilk are those without literary skill. They cannot write a line that would pass muster, but are ingenious in rigging up situations that invite journalistic inspection. And the net result is a hapless reporter, who is tricked, loses his job.

There is an organization among press agents, composed of more earnest members of the guild, which frowns on such didoes, but to no avail. It would seem that it will take a prison jolt to end that flim-flaming, and newspapers are now working for just that.

Among famous press agent concoctions are the Anna Held milk bath and the tan-bark carpeted street to deaden noises for Mrs. Pat Campbell. There was no attempt to be wily. The ideas were presented to newspapers as stunts, and were thus seized upon in a semi-humorous vein and are still talked about. Had they been achieved by trickery they would have likely died aborning.

* * *

The tabloids have been a most fertile field for this sort of sensational exploitation, yet they somehow manage to do it with such a gay abandon that it doesn't much matter. But when a sedate, dignified journal is victimized, that is something else again.

Over a speak-easy bar with five bartenders on duty in 47th street is a sign: "Running one year full blast without a raid!" Next thing we know they'll be shouting: "Bring the kiddies."

* * *

A New York husband arrived home three mornings in a week after 4 a. m. His wife told him if it happened the fourth time she would be difficult to find. It happened. Three weeks later he learned through private detectives she was in Honolulu. The remedy was effective. He is permanently cured. This is if she will just come back.

* * *

Nothing quite so confounds a philandering husband as the discovery his wife doesn't give a hoot. It is the hazards that offer zest to philandering, and, these once removed, the philanderer is more likely than not to sneak back to the carpet slippers and turn on the radio.

A "Convert" to Hindooism

By DR. FRANK CRANE

With all the magnificence of Indian pomp and ceremony, Devi Sharmista, nee Nancy Ann Miller, of Seattle, was joined in marriage the other day to the former Maharaja of Indore.

She had to adopt the Hindoo faith in order to wed the man she wanted.

We are a little skeptical as to the value of this "conversion."

It is manifestly of the order of those who join a church for social reasons or adopt some other religion than their own original one for ulterior motives.

That it was a case of sincere conviction after a careful examination of the evidence is hardly probable.

But it calls attention to the fact that religion with most people is generally but a war cry. People are Christians in the sense that they are not Mohammedans. They belong to a so-called Christian nation. They are Catholics in the sense that they are not Protestants.

In any case, people's religion is usually that in which they are brought up.

We find ourselves in possession of certain ideas and customs and we apply our intellect not to examining whether they are well based or not, but to searching the reasons for proving that they are right.

James Harvey Robinson calls attention to the fact that we get our convictions largely by heredity and environment and use our reasoning powers to buttress them, and not to make them in the first place.

The incident of a man who after looking the field over and weighing all the probabilities adopts a religion of his own is rare.

Therefore the greatest power of a faith is its out-populating power. The best way to get more believers is to breed them and bring them up.

For every one who is "converted" there are 10 who have inherited their faith.

It is singular that a "renegade" is condemned on all sides whether he is a Republican that has turned Democrat, a Methodist that has turned Presbyterian or a Catholic that has turned Protestant. There seems to be something off color in a man changing his faith for any reason.

In spite of our boasted freedom of opinion and action there is a strong prejudice against the sincerity of any sort of a "turn coat."

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

A WOMAN walked into a neighborhood grocery store the other day and asked: "How much are cucumbers?"

"Two for five cents," said the polite clerk.

"My that's high!" she said. "I can get them at Finkelstein's 3 for 10 cents!"

A woman interested in child psychology took a position in a department store toy shop with the idea of recommending the proper toys for little folks.

A child of 11 came in and wanted to buy some "cut outs" usually sold to children of 7.

"I suppose you think it's funny I want these," said the child. "But I have to amuse myself somehow and the children at my school are so dumb they just simply bore me to death!"

"Where do you attend school?" asked the lady, and the child named an exclusive school for children.

She probably hopes to be out of her set some day.

The same lady says a man of about 50 walked in and, taking a photograph out of his pocket, said: "See?" and she looked into the smiling face of a very handsome young man about 21.

"Yes?" she said, inquiringly.

"Me," said the man. "Me at 21."

Then he asked about some books and during the conversation got this in: "Are you married?"

Selling himself to a pretty lady on a photo 30 years old!

A man standing in front of the British Museum was approached by a middle aged lady who said with a scowl: "Sir, can you tell me if this is the same place where I was yesterday?"

"Madame," said the man, "not knowing where you were yesterday I can't tell you."

The absent-minded lady hurriedly retreated.

An elderly lady brought a four-year-old boy to the toy department mentioned before. He wanted a can of clay and it was heavy. He wouldn't wait for the store to send it, he wanted it "now." So the woman carried the heavy can throughout the shopping tour.

The following week she came in alone, and the lady in the toy department asked her about the little boy. She took out a handkerchief and said:

"Oh, do you remember him, too," and began to sniffle. "I'm buying a toy to send home to him for I have to be away from him over the week-end." She had been gone a couple of hours.

Chances are the boy felt the same way about the dear old lady.

A mother was telling about the modern progressive schools, in which arithmetic is taught, not from books, but by letting the children sell things at miniature stores. Her daughter Ruth Jane came home and said she made some money. She bought a tiny turtle for 30 cents and sold it for 25 cents, thereby making 5 cents.

Can't you see her husband a few years hence, trying to balance her bank book?
